FIANCE TELLS HOW GIRL DIED SHIELDING HIM

Morris Roth Says Mrs. Carder Threatened Him on Stairway.

GIRL CRIED DON'T SHOOT

In a Struggle Following Miss Barnes Was Fatally Wounded.

OTHERS' STORIES AGREE

Woman Boarder Says Revolver Was Exhibited Day Before Tragedy.

Dr. J. C. Lebrecht, post-mortem physician, was the first witness Tuesday in the case of Mrs. Mary Carder, on trial in Judge Reynolds' criminal division of the Circuit Court for the shooting and killing of Miss Bessie Barnes at 2700 Lucas avenue on July 16, 1905.

Dr. Lebrecht testified that his examination of the body of Bessie Barnes revealed that the bullet fired from the pistol, in the hands of Mrs. Carder, struck the breast bone and was deflected, passing through the body, penetrating the aorta and causing the hemorrhage that proved fatal, and lodging against the vertebra. The right hand of the girl, he stated, was powder-burned, showing that the shot must have been fired at close range.

Morris Roth of 2918 Pine street, who was the slain girl's fiance, was then placed on the stand. He testified that he had been engaged to Bessie Barnes for several months, and that it was his custom to call on her three or four times a week. He was at the Barnes house July 16, 1905, the day of the girl's death. With others he was sitting on the front steps of 2700 Lucas avenue, which was one of the three boarding houses, 2700, 2702 and 2704, managed by Mrs. Barnes, the slain girl's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Carder boarded with Mrs. Barnes, doing light housekeeping and occupying two rooms. While he was there Carder came to the house in a wagon with two other men. Leaving the two men outside, Carder entered and was going upstairs when stopped by Mrs. Barnes, who asked him what he intended taking away from the house. He replied that he wanted to remove some clothing, dishes and a bed.

Tells of Quarrel.

Mrs. Barnes replied that he could take the clothing and dishes, but not the bed, to which Carder answered that the bed was not his property and he could not leave it there.

Carder and Mrs. Barnes got into an argument, and witness then spoke to Carder, telling him he ought to "square up" with Mrs. Barnes. They exchanged angry words and finally clinched in the hall. While they were struggling together witness saw Mrs. Carder coming down the stairs with a revolver in her hand. As she descended she cried:

"If anybody interferes with us they'll find that we're the toughest proposition they ever encountered!"

Mrs. Carder was standing on the stairs, witness said, with the revolver pointed at him, the witness, when Bessie Barnes came down the stairs behind her. Bessie Barnes cried out:

"Don't you shoot Mr. Roth!"

As the girl uttered these words, Roth testified, Mrs. Carder turned, pointed the revolver at her and fired. Bessie Barnes moved back several steps after being shot and then fell. When witness saw her fall he ran out to get a doctor.

Roth Corroborated.

Attorney Harvey for the defense cross-examined Roth and brought out the names of a number of witnesses for the prosecution. His line of cross-examination indicated that he intended to attack the characters of certain of the prosecution's witnesses.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dunn was the next witness. She testified that she was now living at Salicia, Mo., but that she was boarding at the Barnes house at the time of the killing of Bessie Barnes. Her story of the shooting did not differ materially from that told by Roth.

Mrs. Dunn testified, however, that there was ill-feeling between the Carders and the Barnes. She said that once Mrs. Carder had asked her if she knew that she was living in an improper place. Witness replied that she did not, and, later, she investigated and found that the charge was not true. This conversation took place on the day before the shooting of Bessie Barnes, and witness said that Mrs. Carder told her also that Mrs. Barnes' had whipped a baby which she, witness, had left in Mrs. Barnes' charge when she went downtown. While Mrs. Carder was talking, witnesses testified, she seemed to think that Bessie Barnes was listening at the door, and said that she would shoot Bessie or any of the family who interfered with her. Mrs. Carder showed witness a revolver and when asked if it was loaded replied in the affirmative. This conversation took place on the Saturday before the Sunday when Bessie Barnes was killed.

Gave Husband Revolver.

Mrs. Ora Orchard, sister of Bessie Barnes, followed Mrs. Dunn as a witness. Her story of the killing of Bessie Barnes agreed in the main with those of Mrs. Dunn and Roth, but differed in one dramatic point.

Mrs. Orchard testified that when Mrs. Carder came downstairs with the revolver in her hand, Carder and Roth were struggling with each other in the hall, and that Mrs. Carder rushed to her husband and handed him the revolver. He handed it back to her, and it was then that Bessie Barnes came downstairs and that Mrs. Carder turned and shot her.

Mrs. Orchard was cross-examined by Attorney Harvey, his questions bearing principally on the characters of the women boarders at the Barnes house. At the conclusion of the cross-examination the hearing was adjourned to 2 p. m.

TENNENT SHOE CO.,
By JOHN H. TENNENT, Pres.

Charles P. Wonderly, real estate agent, with an office in the Missouri Trust Building, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that by the Tennent Shoe Co.'s statement issued Jan. 1, 1905, submitted to him by the brokerage firm of Little & Hays, he was induced to invest $10,000 in the preferred stock of the shoe company, whose liabilities are known to exceed assets by $523,878.

"I felt that a concern that could earn 10 per cent annually on its common stock could easily pay 7 per cent on its preferred stock," remarked Mr. Wonderly.

"I have no criticism to make of Little & Hays, as I assume they acted in perfect good faith and were deceived as much as anybody else as to the true condition of affairs.

"On one occasion Mr. Little told me that if I wanted to sell the stock he could dispose of it at $104 a share. "I assented to this offer, and told him to go ahead and sell it. He explained that he had sold some at that price.

"He put me off, saying that he would get $115 a share for it if I would be patient and wait long enough.

"Previous to selling this stock to me Mr. Little called at my office several times. He said in effect that the stock was so good he could almost guarantee me against loss."

"After I subscribed for it I procured a position as a traveling salesman for the firm for my son. My son had been at work only a few months when he told me he thought the firm was not strong financially. He said that he sent in orders for goods and they were not filled. This occurred repeatedly, he explained, and finally he became disgusted and left the company. That was about six months ago.

Waited for Dividends.

"Since my son severed his connection with the firm I have been trying to dispose of the stock I hold. In December I went to Little and Hays and asked them to put the stock on the market. They suggested that I wait until after the regular annual dividend was paid.

"Their efforts and mine to sell the stock proved futile. I suppose from the present appearance of things the preferred stockholders will get nothing.

"I read with interest the interview with James H. Jones, chief bookkeeper for the Tennents, in Monday's Post-Dispatch. It seems strange that a bookkeeper would not have better knowledge of the accounts he was keeping.

"Who ever heard of a system of keeping accounts that did not take into consideration the profit and loss side of the ledger?"

Bookkeeper Jones said that he attributed the errors in the statements purporting to show the resources of the Tennent Shoe Co. to carelessness on the part of th management.

"Items such as office expenses, salaries and similar debts," said he, "together with shrinkage in stock valuation, were not charged off or deducted from the credit side of the ledger."

30 HURT IN COLLISION ON CHICAGO "L"

Hundreds of Persons Thrown in Panic in Crash of Express Trains.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 23.—Thirty passengers were injured, a number seriously, and hundreds thrown into a panic in a rear-end collision between express trains on the Metropolitan West Side Elevated Railway near Morgan street today.

The crash occurred at the height of the rush of workers and morning shoppers.

An express train on the Garfield Park Branch that slowed up unexpectedly was struck by a Logan Square train following it closely at a high rate of speed. As a result of the collision the trains of the line were blocked for miles and many passengers endangered their lives by walking to the nearest stations on the "L" structure. They were forced to take surface cars downtown.

The two trains in collision were of three-car express type, operated on the Fifth avenue special service of the road. They run at high speed between Marshfield avenue and La Salle street. The heavy motor of the Logan Square train telescoped the frail rear coach of the Garfield Park train and forced it from the rails.

A five-car train, bound for the loop, was running parallel to the Logan Square train and was beside it when the crash came.

All cars of the wrecked trains were jammed with passengers crowding every available inch of seat and aisle space in the trains. When the crash came the Logan Square motor ground its way into the rear car of the Garfield Park train for nearly six feet, crushing and maiming the unfortunates who were caught in its way. Seats were torn up and thrown against the passengers and nearly every window in the colliding trains and in one side of the loop train that was endangered was broken.

COLD, FAIR TO CONTINUE

If you want the snow removed from the sidewalk in front of your house you will have to use a shovel and pick or hire someone else to do it, because Mr. Bowie says that the sun is not going into the sidewalk - cleaning business for some time. Tuesday morning's official forecast:

"Fair and continued cold tonight and Wednesday, variable winds, mostly northwesterly; minimum temperature tonight will be about 16 degrees."

At 7 a. m. Tuesday the temperature in St. Louis was 12, the lowest reached during the present cold snap. The thermometer climbed upward a little during the day.

STABBER OF 13 WOMEN RELEASED BY HIS CAPTORS STILL AT LARGE

Thin, Sallow, Wild Eyed Youth Whose Pleasure Is in the Pain of Others Leaves in Hands of His Momentary Captors Knife With Which He Slashed Girls in Dash Through Downtown Streets.

POLICE WARN WOMEN TO REMAIN INDOORS

Not Attempting to Rob or to Inflict Fatal Injury, He Strikes at Passersby, Causing Wounds Which Few of Them Realize Until Several Moments Later — One Is in Hospital.

A thin, ill-clad, sallow youth, with high cheek bones beneath wild eyes, who stabs women in the dark, seemingly only for the pleasure of their pain, is still at large, possibly with a new knife, while the police exhibit the old one with which he stabbed 13 women in half an hour—5:45 to 6:15 p. m.—between Olive street and Washington avenue, Broadway and Twelfth street, and caution all women to stay off the streets after night. The several suspects arrested after Monday night's crimes have been released.

The stabber is not a thief. He makes no effort to snatch purses. He holds his knife and so controls the blow as to inflict only slight flesh wounds. None of the women stabbed is seriously hurt.

In no case was the blade aimed at a vital spot, and all of the wounds are either on the hip or the thigh.

Nearly all the women whom he attacked were impressed by the whiteness of his face and the wild expression of his eyes.

POLICE RELEASE LAST SUSPECT.

Following a message from the store of the Hanlon Millinery Co., at Twelfth street and Washington avenue, four of whose employes caught and released the stabber, not knowing that he had wounded a woman, the police sent to the store and obtained the knife, which the captors had taken from him. It is a pocketknife, with horn handle, and the small blade is broken off.

Leon Rosenblatt, 22 years old, of 926 North High street, son of Isaac Rosenblatt, was arrested at his home by Sergt. Lawton of Carr Street Station Tuesday morning.

He had been reported missing from his home since Sunday night, and, when it was learned that he had returned at 4 a. m. Tuesday, he was detained.

At Four Courts the four men who had captured and released the knife wielder failed to identify him, and he was released. None of the women, who were stabbed, was called upon by the police to attempt identification of Rosenblatt.

Two suspects were arrested and released Monday night.

JOSTLES GIRL, THEN STABS HER.

He started at Broadway and Locust street at 5:40 p. m., when he jostled Miss Marie Kratzer of 2240 Osage street, at Broadway and Locust street. Slipping up behind Miss Kratzer, he struck her on the left thigh. She did not know she had been stabbed until she had walked two blocks. Then she took a car and hurried home.

At Seventh and Olive streets, shortly before 6 o'clock, in front of the Missouri Trust Building, he stabbed Miss Amelia Meuser of 1812 Cass avenue in the left thigh. The young man was walking rapidly west. When he met Miss Meuser he blocked her way, and when she tried to walk around him he struck her thigh with his hand. She did not know she was stabbed until she reached her home.

DASH DOWN CROWDED OLIVE STREET.

At Eighth and Olive streets he stabbed Miss Cora Davis of 1714 Locust street. The street was crowded, but so quickly and deftly did the man move that even Miss Davis did not know she had been injured, as his swinging left arm struck her thigh. He walked on a few feet in front of the young woman and crossed the street to the Postoffice. It was not until she had nearly reached her home that a sharp pain in her thigh told Miss Davis she had been stabbed.

Continuing west on the north side of Olive, the knife still clutched in his hand, the young man turned north on Ninth street to Locust street. On the northwest corner, in front of the Public Library building, Miss Rita Martin of 1112 North Leonard avenue was waiting for a Suburban car. The man walked briskly across the street. Passing close to Miss Martin and stooping slightly, he threw his arm back with a quick movement and the blade sank into the calf of her left leg. The action was so spontaneous that Miss Martin thought he had merely accidentally brushed against her, and she was well on her way home on the car when she discovered that she had been stabbed.

The speed with which he worked is shown by the fact that three minutes later he wounded Miss Mary Tillay of 33 Gambleton place at the northwest corner of Eleventh and Locust streets. Miss Tillay also was waiting for a Suburban car. She first noticed the man when he stood behind her, near the corner of the building.

TRIED TO CUT GIRL IN BACK.

He halted there only a few seconds. Then he suddenly stepped forward and walked south across Locust street, passing so close to Miss Tillay that his hand struck her right thigh. Almost in a trot, the swinging trot of a madog, he continued south on the west side of Eleventh street.

Turning east on Olive street he met Miss Maude Hall of 1322 Olive street. After they met and passed each other he swung quickly around and swung his knife, aiming to stab Miss Hall in the back. The force of the blow knocked the young woman to the pavement, and the young man bent over her and slashed at her again. Her heavy cloak was cut, but a slight scratch on the hip was her only injury.

He ran west back to Eleventh street, then north to Washington avenue. Miss Grace Oglesby of 2026 Wash street, hurrying home, was on the north side of Washington avenue. She was just about to cross Eleventh street when the man with the knife scurried past her. His pace by this time was almost a run. He plunged his knife into her hip and continued on his way up Washington avenue.

A few feet from the corner he met Miss Laura Marschel of 3017 McNair avenue, who works in a wholesale millinery house. As he ran toward her he struck her sharply on the right thigh. She took a Cass avenue car at Sixth street and Washington avenue and had gone several blocks before she discovered that she was cut. She proceeded to her home, where the wound was dressed by a physician.

In the middle of the block, passing Miss Clara Von Behren of 1413 Clinton street, he struck her sharply on the left thigh, inflicting a wound which Miss Behren did not discover until she arrived at her home.

BACKWARD BLOW WOUNDS ONE.

Scarcely 50 feet farther west he passed Miss Katie Friesmeyer of 3168 North Fourteenth street. Bumping her with his shoulder as he passed, he struck backward with the knife. The blow struck Miss Friesmeyer in the stomach and took away her breath. She did not at first realize that she had been stabbed, but she felt the pain of the wound shortly before reaching home.

The man was rushing up the street like a maniac. His speed was almost that of a sprinter when he collided with Mrs. Martha Young, 37 years old, at Twelfth street and Washington avenue. He plunged his knife into Mrs. Young's left hip with such force that she fell to the pavement.

Almost with the same swing of the knife he struck at Miss Rosa Ker-

WOMEN TELL HOW THEY WERE STABBED ON STREET

GIRL STABBERS ARE TYPES WELL KNOWN TO ALIENISTS

Dr. R. v. Krafft-Ebing, professor of psychology in the University of Vienna, Austria, in a book of which he is the author, and which is celebrated among physicians, tells of a soldier who, at the age of 30 years, became the subject of legal investigation, and who was known as 'the girl-stabber of Bozen."

"At different times, and in different places, he had wounded girls with pocket knives or pen knives by stabbing them in the abdomen." He was possessed of a feeling which "found satisfaction only in the thought or act of stabbing persons of the female sex. This impulse would pursue him for days at a time. He would then pass into a confused mental state," which would clear away when he realized that this deed had been accomplished. The satisfaction he experienced, "was increased by the sight of blood on the knife. He was considered a peculiar, very irritable man, shy of people, fond of women, moody and glum. Of shame and regret for his deeds no traces were ever found."

Dr. Krafft-Ebing also tells of "the girl-cutter of Augsburg." He was a wine merchant, and first cut a girl at the age of 19 years. He chose only young and pretty girls. After such an act he always was troubled with qualms of conscience. Up to his thirty-second year he pursued this process of cutting, but was always careful not to wound the girls dangerously. From that time until his thirty-sixth year he was able to control his impulse. In his thirty-seventh year he was detected and arrested. In his lodgings were found a collection of daggers, sword-canes and knives.

"According to his own confesesion, he had injured 50 girls.

"His external appearance was rather pleasing. He lived in very good circumstances, but was peculiar and shy."

Similar cases have been recorded at Leipsic and Mainz, Germany.

THRILLING EXPERIENCES OF GIRLS STABBED BY YOUNG MAN ON STREET

ROSA KERINGER, AGED 23.
Trimmer, 2208 Menard street.

"I was coming out of the corner entrance of the Hanlon millinery store and had just turned the corner when I was struck on the breast by a man.

"The knife hit a silver ornament and glanced off. He raised his arm to strike me the second time, and as I threw up my right hand the knife pierced the third finger.

"The blade passed through the finger between the second joint and the knuckle. Before I could turn the man darted past and ran down Washington avenue.

"He wore a soft hat, but had no overcoat.

"The other girls took me into the store and washed my hand and bound it up with my handkerchief. It did not hurt me much. Two clerks went with me to the Cherokee car, but I went home alone.

"I was unable to sleep all night, as the balsam they washed my hand in at home made it smart. I went to City Dispensary this morning and then went home."

KATHERINE PRIESMEYRER, 15.
Trimmer, 3168 North Furteenth Street.

"I left the Levis-Zukoski millinery store on Washington avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, at 6 p. m. Monday. I started to Twelfth street to take a car east to transfer to the Bellefontaine line to come home. As I was going west on the south side of the street I saw a young man running rapidly toward me.

"I tried to dodge him and stepped toward the gutter. The young man turned that way. Then I turned toward the building, and so did he. By that time he was close to me, and he passed between the building and me. Just as he passed he hit me on the right hip with his left hand.

"The blow knocked me down, and when I got up the young man was out of sight. Another man was standing near, but he did not offer to help me. I boarded a car and came home, but my hip pained me all the way. I was pale when I got home, and mamma asked me what was the matter. I told her that a man had struck me, and that it hurt dreadfully. She made an examination, and then I learned for the first time that I had been cut. The wound was about half an inch deep and not more than a quarter of an inch wide. It bled quite freely.

"The weapon with which I had been stabbed passed through the bottom of my jacket and through my dress skirt and other clothing. The gash in the cloth was about half an inch wide.

"I did not get a good view of the young man's face, but I think he was smooth shaven and about 18 years old. He was wearing dark clothes and was about 5 feet 6 inches tall."

MISS AMELIA MEUSER, AGED 18.
2612 Cass Avenue.

"I had been to the Century building and was on my way to Seventh and Olive streets to take a Cass avenue car. It was 5:45 o'clock when I was attacked.

"In front of the Missouri-Lincoln Trust building a young man seemed intentionally to get in my way. His appearance, as I remember it, fits the description given by the others who were attacked. He wore a dark suit and no overcoat. His hat was drawn down over his eyes, but I could see that he had a smooth face and a swarthy complexion. I tried to go around him and he lunged against me, almost throwing me from my feet, and at the time drew his right hand from his pocket and struck me on the left thigh.

"By the time I regained my balance he had hurried on eastward. I did not know I had been stabbed, although there was a pain where I had been struck. I crossed Seventh street and was about to board a car when a young man who had seen the attack asked me if I had been hurt and if I knew my assailant. I told him I was not hurt, and did not know the man who had struck me.

"I did not discover until I reached home that I had been stabbed."

MISS MAUD HALL, AGED 24.
1322A Olive Street.

"I was walking west on Olive street about 6 p. m. I had reached the northeast corner of Eleventh, when I felt a blow between the shoulders and on the left hip. I thought someone had struck me with a snowball and turned to protest. The blow nearly knocked me down.

"As I turned I saw a man of medium height run from Olive north on Eleventh toward Locust. I soon lost sight of him.

"The man was dressed in a dark suit of clothes. He did not wear an overcoat. His hat was a soft felt, what is called an Alpine. He was only four feet from me when I turned, and his profile was toward me, but I could not see him well.

"Two women and a man were behind me. The women were about twenty-five feet away. When they came up they exclaimed that my coat was cut, and asked if I was hurt. I replied that I did not know. The gentleman came up then and also made inquiries.

"He conducted me to a restaurant on Olive street, near Eleventh, and I was then sent to the Dispensary to have my wounds dressed. There discovered that I was not injured and came home. My coat and dress and skirts were gashed.

"I do not know why anyone should try to stab me. I haven't had an enemy in the world, but that man is now my enemy, and I will do what I can to have him punished."

MISS CORA DAVIS, AGED 22.
Stenographer, 1714 Locust Street.

"I thought the man had kicked me. I had no idea I was injured until after supper. I left my office a little later than usual, about 5:50 p. m., and went along Fourth street to Elm street and then to Broadway, from which I turned into Olive street. I was alone.

"I had gone a short distance on the south side of Olive street toward Eighth when I was struck from behind on the right leg just above the knee.

"I turned quickly to see what was the matter, exclaiming, 'My, how rough that fellow is!'

"When I turned the man ran across to the north side of Olive street as if to enter the Postoffice. In the middle of the street he ran into two girls, who, it seemed to me, were evidently jostled severely, for they exclaimed very much as I had done. The man walked rapidly west on Olive street. I lost sight of him at the Century Building.

Under Medium Height.

"The man was under medium height. I think he was not more than 5 feet 4½ inches tall. He wore a brown suit of clothes and had no overcoat. I did not notice him further, for I had no idea I was injured. I thought he had accidentally kicked me through clumsiness, and went on home.

"About 7 o'clock my leg pained me. I examined and found I had been cut through my coat, dress and skirts, and that the wound was about a half inch long and a half inch deep. It looked as if it had been inflicted with a two-edged knife.

"I went across the street to the office of Dr. John Newell and he dressed the wound.

"I have no idea why any man should wish to stab me, but I would like to see that man punished, and I will do anything I can to help punish him if he is caught."

MISS RITA MARTIN, AGED 19.
Stenographer, 1112 North Leonard Av.

"I had left my place of employment, the office of Doyle & Watson court stenographers, in the Century Building, and was going north on the east side of Ninth street, between Olive and Locust streets, to take a Suburban car for my home. Suddenly a young man ran past me, hitting me just below the right hip as he passed.

"My only thought was that in his haste he had accidentally struck me while swinging his arms. The pain from the blow was rather sharp and I was distinctly annoyed at the young man's rudeness, but it never occurred to me that I had been stabbed. I walked on to the corner and boarded the car.

Companion Wounded.

"After a block or two I sat down beside another girl who was in apparent pain and she told me she had been stabbed on Eleventh street. She told me a young man had stabbed her and ran, and said she was suffering severely.

"I had never seen the girl before, but she told me she was Mary Tilly. When the car reached Leffingwell avenue my pain became sharper and I told Miss Tilly about it. She suggested that I, too, had been stabbed. I felt with my hand and discovered that the wound was bleeding. We decided to get off at Garrison avenue and go to St. Louis Baptist Hospital for treatment. When we left the car I could walk, but Miss Tilly was unable to stand, and she was carried into the hospital.

"As soon as my wound was dressed, I left the hospital and came home. I got only a hurried glimpse of the man who stabbed me and saw only his back until he had passed. He was slender and young.

"I have no idea why I should have been attacked and the whole affair is a mystery to me. I hardly think I could identify the man."

MISS GRACE M. OGLESBY, AGED 23.
2026 Wash Street.

"I was returning alone from work 6 o'clock, walking west on the south side of Washington avenue, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, when I felt a stinging blow at my back. At first I thought someone had hit me with a hard snowball.

"As I turned, a young man passed on my left, running swiftly west on Washington. I caught just a glimpse of his face, and saw that it was smooth-shaven and that he was young. As he ran I noticed that he wore no overcoat. It seemed to me that although he was slender his body and shoulders were muscular. He wore a round black slouch hat.

"My hip was paining me a good deal, but I did not suspect then that I had been stabbed. I walked on out Washington avenue and when I reached Thirteenth street saw a crowd of men around a young fellow whom I recognized as the one who had struck me. I thought at first of complaining to them, but got the idea that he was being accused of stealing something. I thought perhaps he had merely jostled me or hit me accidentally in running past me, and didn't believe it necessary for me to interfere.

Escaped Paralysis.

"After I had passed the crowd I began to feel my clothes were damp, and for the first time suspected that I had been cut. I spoke to a woman on the street and told her I believed that young man back at the corner had stabbed me. She said, 'Why the men say he knocked a woman down in the street. I heard them asking something about a knife.'

"I began to feel a little faint, and thought I would better hurry home at once. Even then I did not realize that I was much cut. When I got home we called a physician who examined me and found that the wound was more than an inch deep. It was not a slash, but a stab wound. The doctor said that a variation of half an inch would have cut an artery and resulted, probably, in paralysis.

"The cut was on my left hip, in the back."

MRS. MARTHA YOUNG, AGED 57.
1807 Franklin Avenue.

"I was walking home from work and had reached Twelfth street, walking west on the south side of Washington. It was then a few minutes after 6 o'clock, I think. As I started to cross Twelfth street I was shoved by some one behind me. It was done with so much force that I was whirled partly around and fell, the back of my head striking the curbstone. I was dazed and the pain in my head was so great I did not know I had been cut.

"I did not see the young man at that time. The two ladies assisted me as I walked on out the street. The pain in my head became greater, but I thought I could get home alone, and told them so.

"A short distance beyond, a crowd of men came up to me with a young man whom they said they had seen knock me down. They chased him out the street and caught him.

"He seemed rather stolid, and kept repeating, 'I didn't do it.' The men asked me if I wanted them to call a policeman. There were half a dozen of them, and they appeared angry.

"I thought the young man might have knocked me down accidentally, and did not want to have him arrested for that. At my request they released him. I am very sorry now that I had them do that.

Had No Overcoat.

"I took a good look at the young man's face to see whether I had ever known him. I am quite certain I had never seen him before. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, slender, with sunken cheeks and brown hair. He wore a standing collar with the points turned down. He had no overcoat and wore a soft felt hat.

After he had been released I walked on home. The pain in my back kept getting greater. I began to feel the blood, and wondered how I could have been cut. After I got home and took my clothes off I found that I had been stabbed back of the left hip. The wound was half an inch wide and more than an inch deep. It was very painful, but the pain in my head was greater. I could not sleep last night on account of it.

"Two detectives who came to the house a little later, accompanied me to City Dispensary, and I had the wound dressed there. The physician probed it, and said it was nearly an inch and a half deep. It must have been done with a very sharp blade.

"I dropped my hand satchel when I fell, and my purse dropped out of it, but both were found and given to me by the two ladies who helped me up."

MISS MARY TILLAY, AGED 21.
Stenographer, 6133 Gambleton Place, at St. Louis Baptist Hospital.

"I was standing at the corner of Eleventh and Locust streets, about to board a Suburban Park car, when a young man ran north on Eleventh street. As he passed me I saw that his fist was doubled up. I had never seen him before, and didn't notice that he had any weapon in his hand. As he passed I felt a blow on the front part of my left thigh, but thought nothing of it at the time, supposing he was in a hurry to catch some car or other and had accidentally struck me as he passed.

"I got into the car and sat in the seat by the door, the one that runs lengthwise, you know, and before the car had gone far I began to feel weak, but didn't know why.

"Soon I began to feel that I was bleeding, and I fainted, falling against a lady who was sitting beside me. I tried to rally, but fainted again, and don't remember anything that happened until I found myself here in this cozy bed, with detectives and people around me asking what had happened.

"They tell me I'm the worst hurt of all, and Dr. Morris says that if the cut had been only a fractional part of an inch deeper I would have bled to death before they got me off here at the hospital.

"I don't know whether I would know the young man if I saw him again. He was slim, wore a brown hat, not crushed in, and a dark overcoat. I don't remember whether there was anyone else waiting for the same car or not."

GIRL STABBED TWO WEEKS AGO RECOVERS.

Miss Adele Flaherty, who was stabbed in the hip by a young man near Eleventh street and Washington avenue Jan. 5, has recovered from her injury and is back at work in a wholesale dry goods house. She is not sure that she could identify the man who stabbed her. She got the impression that he was young, about 5 feet 6 inches tall and wore a dark sack suit and black slouch hat.

No Pay for Royal Painter.

King Carlos of Portugal, an artist of considerable ability, usually sends his paintings as gifts. One recently presented to the King of Italy is so executed that in one position it represents a sunrise on the sea, but, if turned around, becomes a sunset on the plain.

CANNON CLAIMS STATEHOOD SAFE

Insurgents Equally Sure of Victory—Bill Comes Up Tomorrow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Speaker Cannon said today that the stalwarts have a clear majority of 15 on the rule to prohibit amendments to the Statehood Bill. Representative Babcock, the leader of the insurgents, insists that his side will have a majority of 10 votes.

Both sides continue lining up their followers and bragging what they intend to do to one another tomorrow, when the statehood bill and special rule come up. Both sides profess to have the utmost confidence in the ultimate result. In reality, both sides are presuming a little. Neither has a sure majority.

The insurgents claim to have 67 members pledged. They have not yet secured that number. Speaker Cannon credits them with having a bare 40 votes. The insurgents have probably a dozen more. The actual vote on the special rule will be so close that it will take not only a roll-call, but a recapitulation, to show which side wins. Both sides are counting some on absentees from the other, and both assert that their full strength will be present.

Women Who Felt the Knife of the Stabber and Views of the Instrument.

KNIFE TAKEN FROM STABBER AND NOW IN HANDS OF POLICE

The weapon is an ordinary pocket knife of cheap variety. It has a black imitation stag handle, partly broken on one side. The knife has two blades, newly sharpened, the smaller of which has recently been broken, as shown by the fact that the color of the steel at the break is still bright.

The construction of the knife is strong and firm and the larger blade could inflict a deadly wound.

WIFE SUES SEA WATER GOLD MAN

Rev. P. F. Jernegan, Promoter of $10,000,000 Company, Divorce Defendant.

IS NOW IN MANILA

Scheme to Get Bullion From Old Ocean Brought Him Heavy Returns.

Mrs. Betsey Evelyn Jernegan has filed a suit for divorce from Prescott Ford Jernegan, alleging desertion. The petition says that she is a resident of St. Louis, but her address is not disclosed and her attorneys, Abbott & Edwards, refuse to tell where she is living.

Rev. P. F. Jernegan, the defendant in the suit, was identified some years ago with a scheme to extract gold from sea water. He had fine offices in Boston and a "plant" for getting the gold at Lubec, Me. He had formerly been a Baptist minister in Florida and his title gave investors confidence in his claims and for a few months gold poured into his coffers.

During this time his plant on the Maine coast was actually producing gold, which was sent to the United States assay office and sold. Many of these bricks were worth from $1200 to $2000. A company was organized, with a capital stock of $10,000,000 and hundreds of thousands of shares were sold at $1 each.

Then Jernegan disappeared and no trace of him was found for several years, until he was learned to be teaching school in Manila.

In Mrs. Jernegan's suit for divorce she says that they were married in 1892 and in 1897 her husband left the United States, taking her with him and living abroad for a year. She then returned to her father's home in Massachusetts, she says, where a year or two later her husband visited her at night and remained a few hours. She next saw him some months later in Montreal and they were together for ten days.

She says that he then told her that he was going to the Far West and that he could not take her with him. Since then, she says, she has not seen him, though she has understood that he was in the Philippines.

MULVIHILL UPHELD.

Supreme Court Sustains His Revocation of License.

The Supreme Court in banc at Jefferson City Tuesday denied a rehearing in what is known as "the lid" case from St. Louis. The case is the State versus Seybold, and came to the Supreme Court on appeal from St. Louis, where the lower court sustained a demurrer to an information charging that the defendant sold intoxicating liquors without a license.

The Excise Commissioner had revoked the license on the grounds that the defendant sold liquor on Sunday in violation of the law, but the lower court held that the revocation of the license was not legal until the defendant had been convicted in court. The Supreme Court reversed the case and remanded it for retrial, holding that the demurrer should have been overruled and the defendant tried on the information.

POSSES SEEK ASSAILANT OF ILLINOIS GIRL

Negro Attacks 13-Year-Old Daughter of Prominent Sparta Druggist.

SCREAMS BRING RESCUE

One Suspect Released When Child Failed to Identify Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPARTA, Ill., Jan. 23.—While returning to her home in the suburbs of this city about 7 o'clock last evening, Ethel Grant, 13 years old, daughter of W. H. Grant, a prominent druggist, was attacked by a negro.

Her screams brought neighbors to her rescue and the negro fled. A posse started in pursuit at once. A negro was brought before her, but was released, as the girl declared he was not the one. She is sure she can recognize him. Trouble is feared if the negro is apprehended.

MRS. BLAIR WINS SUIT.

Insurance Company Overruled in $25,000 Contest.

A decision by Judge Douglas in the suit brought by Mrs. Appoline M. Blair against the Provident Savings and Life Assurance Society of New York, rendered Tuesday, practically wipes out the defense of the company according to Attorney Joseph Dickson Jr., representing the defendant company.

When James L. Blair died in the spring of 1904, he had a policy for $25,000 issued by the Provident company. Payment was refused and the widow sued. The defense filed an answer alleging, among other things, that when the policy was taken out Mr. Blair intended to commit suicide and that the contract was therefore fraudulent.

Attorneys for Mrs. Blair answered, reciting a clause in the policy saying that it was incontestible after two years and asking that the clause alleging fraud in the company's answer be stricken out. The company asserted that the incontestible clause was contrary to public policy and was therefore void.

Judge Douglas sustained the motion to strike out the clause alleging fraud and Attorney Dickson says that this practically wipes out the company's defense.

"COATLESS PASTOR" FEARS FOR LIFE

Rev. Crutcher, Leader of Chillicothe Vice Crusade, Is Threatened.

SHIRT WAIST WON FAME

Preached Last Summer Without Coat, Inviting Auditors to Be Comfortable.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Jan. 23.—Rev. James N. Crutcher, the "shirt waist" preacher," has been threatened with death by ruffians if he continues his stirring crusade against vice in Chillicothe.

The members of his congregation have grown rather accustomed to sensations since Rev. Mr. Crutcher, who is pastor of the Christian Church, organized his forces to purge the city of various social evils, but they were startled when he announced that he had ben marked for death.

"I have been told to beware of ruffians who might attack me or burn my house," he said. "I fear neither. This is a fight to save the homes, the wives and children of Chillicothe, and all men who love those things that they should hold sacred more than they do money or business, are urged to stand fast in the fight against wickedness here. There is to be no compromise with the forces of evil."

Pastors Stand by Him.

Mr. Crutcher has received many assurances of support, and the pastors announce that they will keep up their war against social evils.

Rev. Mr. Crutcher gained notoriety last summer, when he appeared in his pulpit without a coat. He invited the members of his congregation to make themselves comfortable. Most of the men followed his example. The ushers wore white shirtwaists, and many of the women left their hats at home. Rev. Mr. Crutcher preached minus his coat throughout the hot months.

FOUR AFTER HUNT'S JOB.

Attempt to Oust Naughton From Committee.

At a meeting of the Eleventh Congressional District Democratic Committee, to be held Tuesday evening at Ahring's Hall, 1029 Cass avenue, the struggle for control of the district organization, looking toward the election of a successor to Congressman John T. Hunt will begin.

Daniel J. Naughton of the Sixteenth Ward, chairman of the committee, issued the call for the meeting, which will be the first since new members were chosen at the last State convention. It is anticipated that an effort will be made by some of the members to depose Mr. Naughton.

W. B. Kinealy, former State Senator, is one of the most active candidates. Congressman Hunt wants to succeed himself. George Neville and Edward A. Noonan Jr. are his opponents.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. Baldness

Does your hair need nourishment? Is it thinning out, getting dry, harsh and brittle or splitting at the ends? The way to find out for yourself is to make an actual test that you can see and understand. Pull a hair from the top of your head, examine the root. If the bulb is plump and rosy it is all right, but if it is white and shrunken your hair is diseased and needs nourishment. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic supplies this need. It is a germ-destroying nutritive hair tonic. It first of all destroys the germs that are causing the trouble at the white and shrunken roots, then it tones up the hair follicles. A new growth of hair begins at once and the hair soon regains its youthful color and lustre. It makes an excellent dressing, delightfully perfumed and conveniently put up in a handy sprinkler-top bottle. We sell a large bottle for fifty cents that we guarantee to give satisfaction or we return you your money. You will find that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic backs up all the claims we make for it.

"93" Hair Tonic, in addition to being the finest dressing on the market, is a positive cure for Dandruff and Falling Hair.

A REASON

Before placing Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on the market we realized that we had a formula of exceptional value, and yet we determined to give it a thorough trial before we offered it as a Rexall preparation. We therefore wrote to one hundred druggists in as many cities, asking the name of one customer who suffered from a disease of the hair and scalp. To each of these customers we sent three bottles of the hair tonic and asked them to try it and report upon it.

The result: Five reported no answer, two reported adversely and ninety-three sent enthusiastic reports of the remedy and gave details of the splendid effect in each individual case.

Hence the name "93" Hair Tonic. Could any other name be so significant of merit?

TWO LOTS FOR PUBLIC BATHS

Commission Replies to House of Delegates Resolution as to Progress.

In reply to the resolution passed by the House of Delegates asking the Public Bath Commission, which was appointed nearly two years ago, what it had done with the $40,000 placed at its disposal, the commission sent its answer to the House Tuesday.

The House is informed that the commission has already purchased two lots. Also that a consultation with the President of the Board of Public Improvements was held and that through him the plans for the buildings to be erected were turned over to the Building Commissioner. The communication also states that the plans for the two buildings to be used as bathhouses have now been practically completed by the Building Commission.

Mr. Gazzolo, who introduced the resolution in the House, stated at the time that the nature of the work done by the Public Bath Commission had accomplished.

"They are making plans to erect a building in which they are going to put bath tubs. You can't get the children to use a both tub. They don't understand the theory of cleanliness. But give them a swimming pool and you will have solved the difficulty."

The communication, which is signed by Gerard Swope, chairman of the Public Bath Commission, also recommends that the erection of the baths be placed in the hands of one body.

Robbed in National Bank.

George H. Sheffield, a musician living at Hotel Berlin, Taylor and Berlin avenues, has learned how easily one can be robbed in a crowd and under the eyes of the police. He went to the Fourth National Bank, Fourth and Olive streets, to deposit some money. While awaiting his turn he was jostled by a young man. He felt his hip pocket, and discovered that his purse, which contained $13 and several checks was missing. He turned and started for the young man, but the latter disappeared through the door.

ACCUSE WIFE OF POISONING SPOUSE

Doctors, After Bringing Husband Out of Deep Coma, Cause Her Arrest.

HAD LIFE INSURANCE

Coma Followed Series of Sudden Illnesses—Was Woman's Third Husband.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CENTERVILLE, Miss., Jan. 23.—Mrs. William Clark Stuart, wife of one of the most prominent citizens of this city, and herself connected with one of the most prominent families of the district, was arrested yesterday, charged with having attempted to poison her husband in order to realize on a $10,000 insurance policy he carried on his life.

The charge originates with the husband himself, and is based upon the happenings of several months and the reports of the two physicians called in when he was in a state of coma, who, after 12 hours of hard work, managed to bring him back to life.

At intervals of a few weeks Stuart has been having violent attacks of sickness, which apparently came from some acute organic trouble. It has been learned by the physicians that these attacks strongly hint at a systematic series of poisonings, done with the object of creating the impression that Mr. Stuart had organic troubles, in order that, when death finally came, the end would not excite suspicion.

Is Third Husband.

Last Tuesday the big dose of morphine was administered, according to Dr. W. Marcaise, the attending physician, and Dr. R. L. Hegaman. The investigation last week led to a warrant being sworn out for Mrs. Stuart, and she was arrested and held for trial Jan. 31.

Mrs. Stuart comes from one of the best families in Wilkinson County. She was a Miss Wilkinson, a sister of Judge Moise Wilkinson, the Circuit Judge of this district.

She was married to William Montgomery, and after a number of years he died, leaving her about $15,000 in life insurance. A few months afterward she married William Ford, and about a year and a half afterward he died in convulsions, leaving policies for the sum of $12,000.

NEW HEALTH CODE STOPPED THE CARS

Cleveland's Attempt to Limit Number on Each Car a Failure.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 23.—The first day's attempt to limit the number of passengers to a car, according to the new health code, was a failure.

The public, for whose benefit the provision was made, refused to conform to it. Those persons left on street corners used strong language, condemning it. Twenty extra cars were put on during the evening rush hours last night to aid the public in complying with the ordinance. The effort only served to tie up the entire street railway system, throwing practically every line off its schedule 12 and 15 minutes. The public square was almost completely blocked by the extra street cars. In addition to the delay on the company's schedule, it took 30 to 40 minutes longer to transport the people from the downtown district.

General Manager Stanley of the company says that the effort to enforce the law was a failure. Stanley said that the street railway company will abide by the ordinance as long as it remains a law and the city wishes to enforce it. Plans are being made to construct a belt line at the public square to relieve the congestion.

DYER AND MORSEY STICK.

Roosevelt Reappoints District Attorney and Marshal.

The United States Senate has received from President Roosevelt the list of St. Louis Federal appointments, including that of Col. D. P. Dyer, to succeed himself as District Attorney; William L. Morsey, to succeed himself as Marshal; and Edward B. Allen of Linn County, to succeed Ben Westhus as Collector of Internal Revenue.

These appointments were made through the influence of Senator Warner. None of them was a surprise, it being commonly known that he favored the first two for reappointment, and that he favored Mr. Allen. Judge Charles F. Gallenkamp has already been reappointed Surveyor of Customs.

Other Missouri appointments sent to the Senate Monday for approval are as follows: Charles W. Clarke, Surveyor of the Port, Kansas City; John Albus Jr., Surveyor of the Port, St. Joseph; Arthur W. Brewster, Postmaster, St. Joseph; W. M. Tygart, Postmaster, South St. Joseph; E. A. Sample, Postmaster, Fredericktown; J. T. Waggoner, Postmaster, Odessa.

STREET CARS COLLIDE.

Skidded on Icy Rails, but Passengers Escape Injury.

Because ice-covered rails permitted the wheels to slide instead of coming under control of the brakes, car 1773 of Chouteau line, westbound, crashed into car 1714 of Grand line, northbound, Tuesday morning at Grand and Manchester avenues.

The Grand avenue car was struck about the middle and badly damaged. There were few passengers on the Chouteau avenue car and they escaped without injury. Patrolman Albert Gavin of Manchester Avenue District, who witnessed the accident, said none was injured on either car. The Chouteau car was in charge of G. B. Griffin, 3124 Laclede avenue, motorman, and Thomas Swallow, 21A South Compton avenue, conductor. The Grand avenue car was in charge of William Caldwell, 5206 Compton avenue, motorman, and Conrad Johannes, same address, conductor.

YOUTH VACCINATED, NOW HAS LOCKJAW

Roscoe Forwood of Piasa Beyond Physician's Help With Dread Malady.

SCARE AT WATCH PARTY

Blood Poison Set In Forwood's Arm Followed by Tetanus.

Roscoe Forwood, 22 years old, is in the throes of lockjaw, from vaccination, at his home at Piasa, Jersey County, Ill. Local physicians can do nothing more for him. He may be brought to St. Louis in a final attempt to save his life.

The young man's conditions is the sad result of a watch-night party. He was one of the guests at the party, which was given New Year's eve at Piasa. During the evening it was discovered that another young man had smallpox. The party broke up and the next day all who were there had themselves vaccinated.

Forwood's arm became infected and blood poisoning set in, from which tetanus resulted. The young man is a graduate of Shurtleff College at Upper Alton.

FIND $200,000 GOLD BRICK

Discovery Made in Dismantling an Old Mill.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 23.—In dismantling the old Albermarle mill in the Jemez Mountains, north of this city, Morris Bros., contractors, discovered hidden under the foundations a big solid gold brick, supposed to be worth about $200,000. It is supposed to have been stolen and hidden there by a former employe of the mill, when the latter was in operation 10 years ago.

The contractors have been taking out the machinery to ship to the United Verde mine in Arizona. Great secrecy has been preserved about the discovery.

DR. J. E. ENNIS

Atlanta, Ga., Physician Addresses the People of St. Louis on a Matter of Health.

"To Whom It May Concern: — Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in regard to advertised medicines, their value and power to cure.

"I want to say to the people of St. Louis that I believe the most valuable cod liver oil preparation, the best body-builder, health restorer, and strength creator, known to medicine today is Vinol.

"While Vinol does not contain the system-clogging oil of old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, it actually does contain all the curative, medicinal principles of the cod's liver in a highly concentrated form, and it is delicious to take.

"I advise Vinol in my practice, and find it has no equal for healing coughs, colds, bronchial troubles and sore lungs.

"I have used Vinol in many cases of indigestion, mal-assimilation, and for patients who were anaemic and run down, with splendid results. I have found Vinol to be a boon to the aged, as it aids the enfeebled system to sustain life; it induces appetite, and restful sleep, it is a real body-builder, and thus prolongs life.

"I believe Vinol to be well worthy of any honest physician's endorsement."

The Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. sells Vinol to the people of St. Louis on a positive guarantee; if it fails to give satisfaction the entire purchase money will be refunded.

DEPEW, SADLY CHANGED, FACES SENATE ORDEAL

Aged and Ill at Ease, He Resumes Seat After Long Illness.

CONTRASTS WITH PLATT

Eyes Search the Galleries, Hands Constantly in Motion.

IS SLIGHTED BY BAILEY

Evinces Extreme Nervousness and Hopelessness of Manner During Senate Session.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The State of New York is again fully represented in the United States Senate. Both Mr. Platt and Mr. Depew were present Monday and again today. Neither had been present at a session of the Senate since the Christmas holidays. Mr. Platt had been absent recuperating his health. Mr. Depew had been the victim of worry and regret, following disclosures made during the insurance investigation.

Senator Depew's reappearance among his associates was marked by extreme nervousness that did not wear away. He was continually in motion. He was ill at ease and every few minutes looked questionably up at the galleries.

The first impression of Mr. Depew was that he has aged rapidly, but this became less noticeable as his face again grew familiar. He has less color, some added wrinkles and a hopelessness of manner. He is a changed man, although his appearance, less than his actions, convey the impression.

Mr. Depew entered the Senate chamber from the Republican cloak room just as Vice-President Fairbanks called the Senate to order. He stood at a rear seat while the chaplain offered prayer. His nervousness was clearly manifest. His hands were constantly in movement, clutching at his cravat, rubbing his forehead or stroking his chin.

After the prayer Mr. Depew passed directly to his seat. He slapped Mr. Platt familiarly on the back and warmly grasped his hand. During the next half hour many Senators went to Mr. Depew's seat and shook hands with him, each saying a few pleasant words, and a few pausing for a longer chat.

Ignored by Bailey.

The only direct slight came from Senator Bailey, who passed immediately in front of Mr. Depew's desk, but did not stop or even look in his direction. Mr. Bailey made some remarks regarding the late Senator Mitchell, in which he said that when Senators became disgraced they should save the Senate embarrassment by resigning. Mr. Tillman also came near Mr. Depew, but did not speak to him.

Mr. Depew did not reach the Senate until just a minute prior to the opening hour. He came on a street car, accompanied by his niece, Miss Paulding. After the greeting from the Senators Mr. Depew opened his desk and took out two bundles of papers. One was a petition and the other a couple of bills for introduction. These had been arranged and left there by his secretaries, both of whom accompanied him into the Senate chamber and remained for more than an hour. Miss Paulding was in the gallery and watched him constantly.

The two bundles of papers were examined by Mr. Depew. He continued to manifest intense nervousness. He twirled a rubber band on his fingers, rested his head in his hands, with both elbows on his desk, stroked his chin and rubbed his eyes. He was not quiet any portion of the time. He had a long talk with Mr. Platt. Other Senators came along and chatted for a few minutes, all of this serving to break his uneasiness temporarily.

Both Senators Platt and Depew arose simultaneously when the Vice-President announced that petitions and memorials were in order. Mr. Platt was first recognized and offered a great batch of petitions. Mr. Depew was next recognized and said: "Mr. President, I present sundry petitions to the property referred."

In a short while Mr. Platt's secretary came in and called Mr. Depew out into the marble room, where he remained five minutes. He then returned to his seat and had a conversation with Mr. Elkins. His nervousness had perceptibly increased. His hands and feet were continually in motion. He could not well have been more restless.

Platt Very Spry.

After three-quarters of an hour spent in the Senate Chamber, Mr. Depew retired to the Republican cloakroom, where he paced up and down the floor. He walked with his old familiar stride and seemed more buoyant than when entering the chamber. In the meantime, Senator Platt had carried off the medal for spryness and renewal of youth. He was the first man in the Senate Chamber and was assisted to his seat by one of his secretaries. He seemed to be in good physical condition, barring his almost useless legs. He was smiling and happy.

He left the Senate Chamber after an hour, again leaning on the arm of a secretary, but still smiling. When Mr. Platt had gone, Mr. Depew joined one of his secretaries in the rear of the Senate Chamber. They had an earnest conversation for several minutes. The discussion was evidently as to whether Mr. Depew should write some kind of a statement. The advice of the secretary was taken and Mr. Depew started to his desk. His seat is in the front row, but he went to the desk of Senator Carter in the last row. He was about to sit down when his attention was called to the error by his secretary, and he went to the front row. His seat was pointed out to him and remained close to him, standing back he sat down. Both of his secretaries against the wall.

Mr. Depew took a pad from his desk and began writing with a lead pencil. It was evidently some kind of statement, as he began: "Senator Depew." He called for some Senate stationery and when this came he began writing on a sheet of letter paper. He wrote a page and then resumed work on the pad. Finally he tore up the first sheet, and three sheets subsequently written on the pad and the sheet of letter paper. He tore them into strips and threw them on the floor. He then covered one sheet with writing and took it to his secretary. There was a conference and what Mr. Depew had written did not seem to meet the approval of his secretary. No statement was made.

Senator Depew then went home to luncheon. He returned to the Senate an hour and a half later. He was accompanied on both trips by Miss Paulding. The next several hours Senator Depew spent dividing his time between the cloak room and the floor of the Senate. He went up in the gallery and talked for a few minutes with Miss Paulding. He constantly emphasized the intensity of his nervousness by moving from one seat to another.

He listened for a time to the political features of the rate discussion and laughed heartily at one of the passages between Senators Aldrich and Bailey. He soon tired of this and retired to the cloakroom. When he reappeared he took another seat and often changed, occupying the desk of any Senator who happened to be away. He remained at home during the evening.

DR. HYDE HERE TELLS GROWTH OF HIS WORK

RECEPTION AT HOTEL

Prominent Irishmen Welcome Him at Hotel Jefferson and Discuss Plans.

GREATLY ENCOURAGED

Didn't Realize Strength of the Gaelic Movement Until He Started Abroad.

Dr. Douglas Hyde, apostle of the Irish language movement, reached St. Louis from Cincinnati at 8:25 a. m. Tuesday and was welcomed at Union Station by a large delegation of leading St. Louis Irishmen and others.

Among those in the delegation were Thomas O'Concannon, who is traveling with Dr. Hyde, but came ahead to arrange for his stay in St. Louis; Brother Bernardine of Christian Brothers' College, F. A. Drew, W. J. Kinsella, Festus J. Wade, R. C. Kerens, Terrence Martin, Peter Golden, P. J. Moynihan, Eugene O'Fallon, Con P. Curran, Dr. John J. Doyle, James L. Dawson, Patrick R. Fitzgibbon, Albert W. Perkins, Capt. Henry King, William Reedy and Dr. J. J. Kane.

Dr. Hyde was taken to the Jefferson Hotel and after he had breakfasted he met others.

During the forenoon the arrangements were completed for the scholastic lecture Tuesday evening at the Odeon by Dr. Hyde. The final disposition of seats for the lecture is to be made at the Jefferson during the afternoon.

Dr. Hyde said to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the hotel: "In two months' travels in this country I have visited and spoken in most of the principal cities of the East and in several of the principal cities of the West. Everywhere I have been surprised and delighted at the hold the Irish language is taking on Irishmen in America. I never fully appreciated the importance of the movement I represent until I departed from Dublin. I was escorted to the train by the Lord Mayor and the District Council and I had the 'God-speed' of 16 different political organizations that had never before been unanimous about anything.

"At Cork I was escorted to the ship by the Lord Mayor.

"The movement is not political. It has among its promoters landlords and tenants, conservatives and liberals, Protestants and Catholics, rich and poor. Its object is the intellectual freedom of Ireland, and an absolute divorce from English ideas in literature and government. A national literature is to be built up. There are now being issued every year by the Gaelic League 250,000 literary works in the Gaelic language.

"Ever since the movement began it has had an effect on industrial welfare. The output of Irish textile products has been doubled and there have been greater products of the factories in other lines. The language has solidified the people and brought them together as never before."

Dr. Hyde was dressed in a black sack suit, and wore a high turndown collar and a red necktie. He is 5 feet 9 inches in height. He has long black hair and a drooping black mustache, which gives him somewhat the appearance of Gen. John A. Logan. He has a high forehead. He speaks rapidly and earnestly.

BURTON GETS HIS MILEAGE BY RUSE

Couldn't Enter Senate Chamber, So He Stood Before Glass Door.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Senator Burton of Kansas will get his mileage. He is here awaiting the result of his appeal to the Supreme Court, as he is under sentence to Jail for accepting fees from a get-rich-quick concern, while Senator. He has been told to stay out of the Senate chamber until his case is decided.

He needed his mileage money. In order to get it, it is necessary for some official of the Senate to take oath that he has seen the Senator in the Senate chamber. There is no disposition to withhold either mileage or salary, and Burton, who frequents the Senate cloakrooms, was asked to step into the Senate chamber.

He declined, but an employe drew him over near the glass door that leads from the cloakroom to the Senate chamber. An official had been stationed outside the door. The employe, who was talking to Burton, turned him around, the official saw him through the glass door and the proper certification was made. Burton got his money, which is a tidy sum—20 cents a mile from Abilene, Kan., to Washington.

SEARCH YALE FRESHIES.

Police Get Wagonload of Confetti at Theater.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 23.—The usual freshmen outbreak at the Yale promenade concert of the Glee Club last night was curtailed by an order of the Fire Marshal that there would be no throwing of confetti and serpentine paper for fear of fire. Each freshman was searched by orders of President Hadley and the city authorities before entering the theater. A wagon load of paper and combustibles was taken from coat tails and tall hats.

The freshmen dangled cards with sweet sayings down among the audience, and, with small megaphones, commented on the personal appearance of each girl who entered. All red opera coats were howled out of sight as symbolic of Harvard. Big banners, white pigeons and a live rooster were let loose in the theater.

SOUNDINGS MADE FOR RIVER TUNNEL

Mayor Says Terminals Commission Awaits Engineer's Report.

FAVORS FREIGHT SUBWAY

Declares Cars Should Be Handled Either Underground or Overhead.

Mayor Wells said Tuesday that the sounding operations being conducted in the Mississippi River opposite the foot of Chouteau avenue by Engineer Robert Moore was for the purpose of getting information for the Terminal Commission.

"The Terminal Commission is not composed of experts," said Mayor Wells. "I do not profess to know all about the terminal situation and the comparative merits of bridges and tunnels. There are hundreds of men in St. Louis who have this information or think they have and who can tell all that is to be learned about the situation.

"But the members of the commission were not so sanguine of their own ability, so Mr. Moore was engaged to make investigations. We quit considering the rate question some time ago and have recently been consulting various wholesalers and commission men regarding the situation. We have learned much regarding the needs of business men, and Mr. Moore will submit to the commission various physical details and data that will be valuable in reaching a conclusion.

"We will wait for his report before making a decision, and I do not know whether his report will favor a bridge or a tunnel.

"The suggestion that a tunnel be constructed along Washington avenue westward from the present tunnel at Eighth street is not new. I brought that question up before the commission three months ago, and we discussed it. I also suggested extending the tunnel north and south along Eighth street, with sidings, so that wholesale merchants could load cars in their basements without having to do any hauling or pay drayage.

Borings Being Made.

"My idea has been all the time to seek a solution of the terminal problem that would take traffic off the streets as far as possible. I have believed that it should be overhead or under foot."

On the east side of the river the borings are being made near Sandy Hook, a mile below Eads bridge. A city barge has been fitted with an engine and drilling apparatus. The work will be carried forward from both sides.

The Terminal Commission is expected to give estimates on the cost of erecting a bridge over the river and of driving a tunnel. Statistics are to be presented in the report of the commission.

Speaking of the plans of the Manufacturers' Railway Co. for a tunnel from the foot of Arsenal street, August A. Busch said that his father, Adolphus Busch, chief promoter of the company, was ambitious to be the first man to tunnel the Mississippi.

QUITS CLUB PRESIDENCY.

Head of the Big Four Closed Bar Too Early.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 23.—Melville E. Ingalls, president of the Big Four Railroad, has resigned from the presidency of the Queen City Club, a prominent social organization. His action, it is said, is due to dissatisfaction expressed by some of its members, when he obeyed Mayor Dempsey and ordered the club bar closed at 12 o'clock.

Members who were unable to get late drinks raised a protest. Mr. Ingalls replied that he could not see how membership in a club gave them the privilege of evading the law.

When it became known that Mr. Ingalls' resignation was in the hands of the directors, members of the club hastened to ask that it be not accepted. It is thought he will be asked to withdraw it.

NO TRACE OF WILLIAMS' BODY

Vanderbilt Mystified by Note Found Near Biltmore House.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ASHEVILLE, Jan. 23.—Mystery surrounds the note found on the bank of the French Broad River, on the Vanderbilt estate, requesting that when the writer's body was found word should be sent to his father, P. T. Williams, 511 Fifth avenue, New York, which is the residence of R. T. Wilson, a banker. Sheriff Reed is still at work on the case. Owing to the heavy rains of last night and today it was impossible to continue dragging the river for the body.

George W. Vanderbilt is here and can throw no light on the affair. He said that he was mystified. R. T. Wilson Jr. was supposed to be at the Biltmore house a few weeks ago, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt, who entertained a big house party during the Christmas holidays.

Close to the point where the note was found lay an old newspaper. From the margin of this paper had been torn a narrow strip on which the mysterious note was written. Where the footprints of a shoe of about No. 7 size were found there were no retreating steps from the water in either direction. The river at this point is 15 or 20 feet deep.

MRS. JACK M'KENNA FINED

Wife of the Fight Promoter Proves to Be a Fighter Herself.

The formidable nature of a can full of condensed milk in the hands of a strong woman and used as a weapon of offense was described in City Hall Police Court Tuesday.

Mrs. Joseph A. Morgan, a frail-looking woman, 50 years old, showed a black eye to Judge Tracy, when she told how Mrs. Maggie McKenna, who boarded with her at 1422 Washington avenue, had worsted her with the can of milk.

Mrs. Morgan said she did not know whether the fact that Mrs. McKenna was the wife of "Jack" McKenna, noted as manager of pugilistic contests, had anything to do with the fight.

Mrs. Morgan said the fight occurred Jan. 13, the day following a discussion between herself and Mrs. McKenna regarding the disappearance of mail which came to the boarding house.

Two weeks had passed since the fight and the black eye was still to be seen, which Mrs. Morgan said proved how severe the blow was.

Mrs. McKenna was not present to describe the encounter and she was fined $15 by default.

SOLD $200,000 STOCK TO PRIESTS

Promoter John G. Whitson Sought by Wife and Another's Husband.

IS SUED FOR ALIENATION

St. Louis and Belleville Clergymen Named Among Subscribers to Scheme.

In an affidavit filed in New York against John G. Whitson by his wife, in support of a suit for desertion, she alleges that he has sold close to $200,000 worth of stock in the Auto Press Co. to Catholic priests, among whom are mentioned Rev. Thomas McCabe of St. Louis and Rev. James M. Gough of Belleville.

Whitson, who was also known as Edward R. Kopple, and who has also used the aliases, according to his wife, of Charles H. Gardner, David Morrison, Charles J. Goodson, Henry L. Goodhart and Mr. Linton, is missing from his usual haunts. A warrant has been issued for him. Dr. D. L. Dadirrian, a chemist, of 63 Lexington avenue, New York, has sued him for $50,000 damages for alienation of Mrs. Dadirrian's affections. The present whereabouts of Mrs. Dadirrian are not known to her husband.

Whitson is alleged to have first sold to priests, to whom he went with letters of introduction from prominent Catholics, stock in the United Gas and Construction Co. of San Francisco and the Watsonville Gas Co. of Watsonville, Cal. When the priests began to complain about this lack of dividends Whitson is alleged to have satisfied them by giving them stock of the Auto Press Co. for their gas stock. In the exchange he is said to have induced most of them to take additional press shares.

Among the priests named as having bought stock are the following: Rev. Bernard E. Kurz of Central avenue and Covert street, Brooklyn, $5,000; Rev. James N. Gough of Belleville, Ill., $10,000; Rev. Thomas McCabe of St. Louis, $8000; Rev. Paul Stravens of Roseburg, Ore., $5000; Rev. James Haussemann of Illinois, $2000; Rev. Paul J. Datin of Grant's Pass, Ore., $4000; Rev. John Fitzgerald of Syracuse, N. Y., $8000; Rev. Patrick O'Boylan, $4000; Rev. Joseph Dougherty of Pittsburg, $4000; the Rev. Edmund Hill of Brooklyn, $12,000.

The expectation has been that the auto press would revolutionize newspaper printing. In the company's office in New York a model of the machine was shown to prospective investors. Whitson has been president of the company. The directors, most of them proprietors of printing establishments, have been at odds with Whitson lately. Charles Francis, the secretary, recently resigned. At a meeting, two weeks ago, the directors talked in such a manner to Whitson that when they came around last week for a meeting they found themselves barred out by Whitson and a couple of detectives. At a meeting last Wednesday some sort of an understanding was reached.

There is no Rev. Thomas McCabe in the St. Louis Directory. Two other St. Louis priests, named McCabe, denied knowledge Tuesday of Whitson.

Has Heard of Whitson.

Rev. Mr. Gough is in charge of the English Catholic Church at Belleville. He declined to be seen Tuesday morning, but Rev. Mr. Monagan, his secretary, said that during the 14 months that he had acted in the capacity Rev. Mr. Gough had not bought any press stock. He did not think any had been bought before that. He said he had heard of Whitson, but could not remember in what connection.

Mrs. Whitson tells in her affidavit of her husband taking Mrs. Dadirrian to theaters and on automobile trips, and alleges that among the presents given to her by him was $100,000 of the Auto Press Co. stock.

HOME A SANITARIUM.

Pittsburger Lends Former Residence to New Company.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 23.—A sanitarium for treatment of tuberculosis is to be established in Pittsburg, and the former residence of William McConway on Warren Hill is to be used for the purpose. Mr. McConway has agreed to give the free use of his former residence and grounds for a stated period, and, if the hospital proves a success, it is expected that he will deed it over to the corporation.

It is reported that Henry C. Phipps is back of the project, and that it will be run on the same principle as is Mr. Phipps' $1,000,000 tuberculosis sanitarium at New Haven, Pa.

WORKS WITHOUT FAITH.

Faith Came After the Works Had Laid the Foundation.

A Bay State belle talks thus about coffee.

"While a coffee drinker I was suffering from indigestion and intensely painful nervous headaches, from childhood.

"Seven years ago my health gave out entirely. I grew so weak that the exertion of walking, if only a few feet, made it necessary for me to lie down. My friends thought I was marked for consumption—weak, thin and pale.

"I realized the danger I was in and tried faithfully to get relief from medicines, till, at last, after having employed all kinds of drugs, the doctor acknowledged that he did not believe it was in his power to cure me.

"While in this condition a friend induced me to quit coffee and try Postum Food Coffee, and I did so without the least hope that it would do me any good. I did not like it at first, but when it was properly made I found it was a delicious and refreshing beverage, I am especially fond of it served at dinner ice cold, with cream.

"In a few months' time I began to improve, and in a few weeks my indigestion ceased to trouble me, and my headache stopped entirely. I am so perfectly well now that I do not look like the same person, and I have so gained in flesh that I am 15 pounds heavier than ever before.

"This is what Postum has done for me. I still use it and shall always do so." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

NOTE DESCRIBES INDIANA MURDER

Police Have Woman's Written Clew to Miss Schaffer's Slayer.

SAYS "WILL" KILLED HER

Writer Admits Wearing Victim's Engagement Ring—One Man Arrested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEDFORD, Ind., Jan. 23.—The arrest of William Barnes, in Denver, under suspicion that he was connected with the brutal murder here, on Jan. 22, 1904, of Miss Sarah C. Shaffer, a young school teacher, was brought about by a letter written by a Mrs. Anandel, who recently eloped from Indianapolis to Denver with Barnes.

The police do not divulge the name of the person to whom the letter was addressed, but he is "Clarence" in the text. The writer recites some of the most horrible details of the murder of the young woman, a crime that caused wide interest. Four men were charged with the crime, but all were able to prove alibis. It has been a year since there has been any police movement in the matter, and it was believed that the mystery would never be solved.

Miss Shaffer was dragged into an alley and beaten to death with an iron instrument. The letter to which Barnes owes his arrest is as follows:

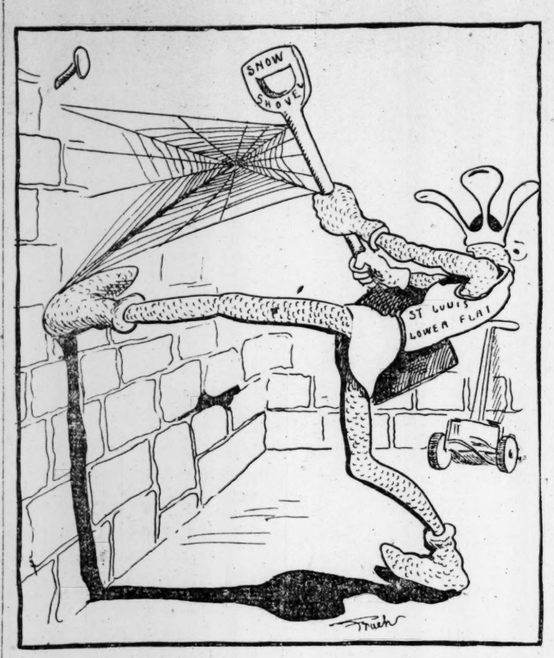

Says She Fought Hard.

"I am wearing a little ring with three small sets in it that Sarah Shaffer wore the night she was murdered, Clarence. Will can tell you who killed Sarah Shaffer at Bedford, and that is the reason he would not stay in Indianapolis. He told me all about killing her. It is awful, Clarence, to hear him tell how hard she fought for her life. He said she tore his hair and fought to the last minute. He said she promised to marry him and backed out and he killed her. He said the ring I am wearing was their engagement ring. He said the superintendent of the school would not let her marry him."

The authorities here have been trying to find a man, whose name is unknown, who was discovered on top of the boilers in the engine room of the Brooks-Curtis mill here late on the night of the murder. He was wet, muddy and in a drunken condition, and was ordered to leave the mill by Night Watchman Shrout, who found him. He disappeared.

Shrout says he can identify this man and has gone to Denver to see if Barnes is the same person.

MR. LOWERFLAT'S WOE BEGINS

MINISTER'S SUDDEN CALL.

Rev. David Clark Dies in Express Office.

Apoplexy is believed to have caused the sudden death of Rev. David Clark, of 1345A Clara avenue, who fell fainting while he was signing a receipt for an express package at the office of the Pacific Express Co., 402 North Fourth street, and died a few minutes later.

Mr. Clark was 70 years old and had been a Presbyterian minister 40 years. Recently he had no regular charge, but last Sunday he filled the pulpit at Grace Presbyterian Church. He went Monday to the weekly Presbyterian ministers' meeting at 1316 Locust street and afterward went to the express office.

Rev. Mr. Clark served with the Fifteenth Pennsylvania during the Civil War. Completing his studies after the war he preached in Iowa, Ohio, Illinois and Texas. He came to St. Louis in 1904. He is survived by his widow and five children, one of whom, Mrs. S. B. Hopkins, lives at 1345A Clara avenue.

CHINA'S DEPUTIES REACH CAPITAL

Commission Sent to Study American Methods Take Up Duties Today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—The Imperial Chinese Commission, sent to this country by the Emperor of China to study American social, political and industrial conditions, arrived here at 10 o'clock on a special train from Chicago. They were met at the station by Mr. Denby, Chief Clerk of the State Department, who will look after their comfort during the 10 days they will be in the Capital.

The party consist of about sixty people, several of whom are servants and secretaries. The leaders of the commission are Tuan Fang, the Governor of the Shan Si province, and Tai Hing Tse, one of China's leading scholars. Yung Kwai, the secretary-interpreter of the Chinese legation in this city, accompanied the commission, having gone to Chicago to meet them, and the party traveled under the care of Prof. Jenks, the economist of Cornell University, who was appointed by the United States Government as its special representative to receive the commission in San Francisco and look after their interests while in this country. Prof. Jenks resided for a long time in Pekin, and is in close touch with the leading men of the Chinese Empire.

The party took carriages to the Arlington, the Chinese legation not being large enough for so many guests. The members of the commission spent the morning resting from the long trip. In the afternoon they will call on Secretary of State Root, and visit the State, War and Navy departments.

M'DONALD, NOTED SCULPTOR, HURT

Former St. Louisan Seriously Injured in New York—Has Statuary Here.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Wilson MacDonald, noted sculptor, formerly of St. Louis, 52 years old, was probably fatally injured in a street accident here last night. He was crossing Fourth avenue at Twenty-third street, when a horse knocked him down. Two wheels of the wagon passed over him. He was sent to Bellevue Hospital. His skull was fractured and his head and body bore many severe contusions. Because of his age the doctors saw little chance to save his life. Thomas Fox, the driver of the wagon, was arrested.

Mr. MacDonald has been spending the winter in an apartment at 41 West 95th street. He is a brother of R. C. MacDonald of St. Louis, and is well known there, especially because of many excellent works of art by him in that city. In New York he is widely known to school children, for the bust of Washington, which stands in every public school in New York, is by his hand, modeled after the famous mask of Washington by Houdon. The statue of Bates in Forest Park, St. Louis, was by him. The statues of George Washington, Irving and Halleck in Central Park are also his work. His most recent work of note is the bust of Thomas Paine, presented to the city of New Rochelle last summer.

Horace Greeley and Francis Parkman, the historian, were intimate friends of Mr. MacDonald. With them he established the Manhattan Liberal Club, which still flourishes. In addition to his fame as sculptor he has won a name for himself as a writer of prose and poetry and as an orator. For many years he was vice-president of the Society of American Sculptors.

SECTION FOREMAN KILLED

Train Backs Upon Maloy Martin, Breaking His Neck.

Maloy Martin, a section foreman, was killed in the Vandalia Railroad yards near the Relay Depot, East St. Louis, Tuesday morning. He was working with a gang of men keeping the switches free from snow and ice, when an engine backed up and struck him. He was thrown down and his neck was broken.

Martin was 55 years old and boarded at the Western Hotel, near the Relay Depot. He had no family so far as his friends know. The body was taken to the Benner-Krichler Morgue.

Several men were near Martin at the time of the accident, but they did not see his danger until too late to warn him.

The Columbia's New Bill.

The Empire City Quartet made a very pleasing hit as the top-liners of the Columbia's new bill, which was put on at yesterday's matinee. Other good features are the Eight Vassar Girls, instrumentalists, vocalists and dancers, in a novelty act that includes a spectacular electric dance; Musical Kleist, the Brothers Howard in their thought transmission seance; Hickey and Nelson in a laughable act entitled "Twisted and Tangled," and Edwin Latell, burnt-cork comedian.

WAR ON THEATER POSTER GIRLS

Thirteenth Ward Association to Push Bill Against Improper Signs.

IN DEFENSE OF YOUTH

If Campaigners Can't Get Law They'll Tear Bills Down Themselves.

The Thirteenth Ward Improvement Association, which has inaugurated a crusade against objectionable sign posters, is preparing to take legal steps to have the bill posting companies prevented from putting up the pictures. If these steps fail, the association members, according to Dr. August Siebert, its president, will simply tear the posters down whenever they appear in the Thirteenth Ward.

The Thirteenth Ward is bounded as follows: Beginning at Dolman and Lafayette avenues; west on Lafayette to Jefferson, south on Jefferson to Ann, west on Ann to Ohio, north on Ohio to Russell, west on Russell to Oregon, north on Oregon to Lafayette, west on Lafayette to Pennsylvania, north on Pennsylvania to Park, east on Park to Montrose, north on Montrose to Rutger, west on Rutger to Compton, north on Compton to Chouteau, east on Chouteau to West Jefferson, north on West Jefferson to Missouri Pacific tracks, east on tracks to Twenty-second, south on Twenty-second to Chouteau, east on Chouteau to St. Ange, south on St. Ange to Park, north on Park to Dolman, south on Dolman to beginning.

The Thirteenth Ward Improvement Association is a branch organization of the Civic Improvement League. It has interested itself in many civic reform movements. The fight against objectionable posters was begun two weeks ago.

Attorney Sheridan Webster is vice-president of the organization. Mrs. August Siebert is secretary. There is a score of well-know South St. Louisans enrolled as members.

Dr. Siebert, at his home, 1647 South Jefferson avenue, talked to a Post-Dispatch reporter of the plans of the association.

"We have taken up this matter," he said, "because we realize how much evil can result from these disrobing pictures. Those of us who have children especially realize the importance of doing away with this form of advertising.

Breeders of Disaster.

"These posters appeal to the lowest instincts. They develop these instincts and breed passions and desires that are bound by their very nature to be disastrous.

"The young children who pass these pictures have their minds filled with thoughts that should not be there, and that drive all the sunshine away.

"This week the posters are not quite so bad as those last week. One poster last week pictured an opium den. In the foreground was a young girl in negligee costume hiding her face as if ashamed. There was a Chinese standing beside her with an evil look on his face.

Girls in Tights Worst.

"Pictures of scenes like this that tell a story are the most harmful in their influence. But the posters of girls in tights are almost as bad. They make a joke out of vice, and this is the most insidious method of temptation. A young man may often withstand temptation when it is put to him openly, but when vice is laughed at he begins to think it isn't vice at all, and after that it is very easy for him to fall.

"I don't see why those of us who don't care to go to the class of theaters which put up these advertisements should be compelled to look at their pictorial representation.

"The association is preparing to take legal action in the matter. We will consult with members of the Municipal Assembly and the framing of an ordinance directed against this nefarious practice will probably be the result.

"But if all this fails we have no intention of allowing our neighborhood to be defaced with these posters. Whenever they appear and other methods fail us, we will tear them down."

Grocer in Bankruptcy.

Charles Floyd Work, a grocer of Poplar Bluff, Mo., Tuesday filed in the United States District Court a petition in involuntary bankruptcy. Work states that his liabilities amount to $1332.64, and his assets to $1248.70, of which he alleges that $512.50 is exempt. Wholesale grocers and packers of St. Louis are named among his creditors.

Sale on Page Boulevard.

The Joseph P. Whyte Real Estate Co., representing the Florence Realty Co., closed the sale of the southwest corner of Hodiamont avenue and Page boulevard to Edward J. Keiflein for $8250. The lot has a frontage of 110 feet on Page boulevard, the price being at the rate of $75 a foot. The proposed connection of the Midland electric line with the Olive street line at this point will enhance, it is said, the value of this corner as a business location. It is understood that the purchaser has already had several offers for this property at substantial advances over the price at which it was acquired. In each instance the property was sought for improvement for business purposes.

Trio Rob Aged Turfman.

Col. John H. Davis, aged 80 years, turfman, of 235 South Vandeventer avenue, who was knocked down and robbed by three highwaymen at Spring and Manchester avenues, has recovered from his injuries. Col. Davis was on his way home last Wednesday night, when he was attacked by three men, who knocked him down and took his pocketbook, containing $15.90 and his bundle of laundry.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Lawson in Court

Lawson's enemies have been trying their best to get back at him ever since he began his merciless attack upon the "System", twenty-one months ago, in Everybody's magazine.

Malicious vilification threats of suits, traps laid for him at every turn—with the Rockefellers, Addicks, and big insurance men (Perkins, McCall and McCurdy) all arrayed against him. All attacks have failed.

The last was a suit for criminal libel—quashed by the Grand Jury of Boston after a very few minutes deliberation.

Lawson's story of the court-scene, is one of the greatest dramatic bits of writing you have ever read.

MOB THREATENS FORMER PREACHER

Accused of Giving Poisoned Apple to Parishioner at Campmeeting.

THEN PREACHED SERMON

Disappeared Soon After and Wife of Poisoned Man Disappeared at Same Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 23.—Rev. J. W. Austin, for two years pastor of the Belton (Ga.) Methodist Church, arrested last Friday on a charge of attempting to poison one of his parishioners, was brought to Atlanta yesterday to protect him from a mob which was gathering to do him violence.

The minister is charged with having attempted to take the life of Robert Quillian of Belton, a former member of the Legislature, by means of a poisoned apple, which Austin is said to have given him during a camp meeting at Poplar Springs, in Banks County, last summer. After handing Quillian an apple Austin mounted the platform and preached his afternoon sermon at the camp meeting. During the discourse Quillian became very ill, and it was only by the immediate use of emetics that his life was saved.

Later, Austin resigned from the conference and left Hall County. About the same time the wife of Quillian left her home and has not been seen since in Gainesville or Belton. A warrant against Austin was shortly afterward sworn out by Quillian. Austin appeared in Lawrenceville, Ga., last Friday. Sheriff Crowe of Gainesville arrested him.

DEAFNESS CAN BE CURED

Mr. Geo. P. Way Tells How His Wonderful Invention Makes the Deaf to Hear, Even Though They Have Not Heard a Sound for Over a Quarter of a Century.

The Way Ear Drum is scientifically constructed from a peculiarly sensitized material and fits comfortably in the ear.

It makes you hear perfectly, even if you have not been able to hear a sound before.

It relieves the strain on the nerves of the ear. It protects the ears from the cold and stops annoying discharges and painful soreness of the ear.

Mr. George P. Way, the inventor, whose home office is in the Majestic Bldg., Detroit, was deaf for over 25 years. He discovered the principle of the Way Ear Drum almost by accident, and after many years of careful study, he perfected his invention and can now hear as well as anyone.

Mr. Way will be in St. Louis, at the Planters Hotel, January 15 to 27 inclusive. Telephone him and make an appointment. All who are deaf should be sure to call on him, as it will cost nothing to learn whether he can help you or not.

MRS. CARDER, ON TRIAL FOR GIRL'S DEATH, AS SHE APPEARED IN COURT DRESSED IN MOURNING

RENEW SUIT TO EVICT SQUATTERS

Olive Street Property Worth $150,000 in Court Controversy.

Claiming ownership on squatter claims Roy Millot and Peter McNally have engaged attorneys and will oppose the claim of S. Edwin Legargee and the Pennsylvania Life Insurance and Annuity Co., of Philadelphia, that the property occupied by Millot and McNally at 3606 Olive street and valued at $150,000 does not belong to them.

A suit filed Tuesday in the United States District Court by Legargee and the company seeks to quiet the title to the property which is disputed by Millot and McNally. Last July Legargee and the company filed suit to eject the occupants. Because that suit was continued until the next term of court, the suit Tuesday was filed.

Legargee and the company's latest petition state that the property in dispute has a frontage on Olive street of 260 feet and a depth of 152½ feet, and that the ground is worth $600 a front foot.

Millot states that 10 years ago he built a shack on the property and that he has occupied and held it ever since without protest from any source. Peter McNally has occupied the property jointly with him and McNally, Millot says, has paid him rent, and slept frequently in the carpenter shop which he owns there. Attorneys McPheeters and Burkham, for Legargee and the company, assert that the St. Louis Gunning Co. has paid rent to their clients.

SAYS HER HUSBAND LOVED DOG TOO

Mrs. Geraldine Ames, Divorce Defendant, Denies She Was Alone in Affection.

CALLS MR. AMES COLD

Says She Didn't Read Novels at Night and Go to Bed Dressed.

Mrs. Geraldine C. Ames says in an answer and cross bill filed Tuesday in Judge Ryan's court that the setter dog about which her husband, Joseph H. Ames, complained in the suit for divorce which he filed Oct. 11, was as dear to him as to her.

Mr. Ames had a good deal to say about the setter in his petition. The animal was given to her in 1893 by a friend, and he alleged that she manifested remarkable affection for it, keeping it in her room at night, over his protest.

The answer and cross bill was filed after Attorney Edward A. Lee, who filed the suit for Mr. Ames, had sought to have the suit dismissed. The effort was resisted by Virgil Rule, attorney for Mrs. Ames, who insisted that the suit should not be dismissed at least until his client had replied to the charges made against her by her husband. Judge Ryan would not permit the dismissal of the suit and Attorney Lee withdrew from the case. Attorney Charles A. McIntyre then entered his appearance for Mr. Ames.

Mrs. Ames says Mr. Ames' indifference and coldness to her was as marked as his fondness for the setter and makes other charges against him.

In his petition Mr. Ames alleged that his wife sat up late nights reading novels and had a way of retiring without disrobing. She was jealous, he averred. She denies all these things.

Mrs. Ames is a daughter of Frank F. Clay, a banker of Adrian, Mich. The couple were married there June 23, 1890. When Ames filed his suit his wife was at the Jefferson, but declined to discuss it. Ames is assistant to the manager of the American Car and Foundry Co.

CAR IN FLAMES, PASSENGERS LEAP

Seven St. Louisans Escape Serious Injury in Immigration Coach Fire.

WENT THROUGH WINDOWS

Train's Speed Fanned Flames, Destroying Car Near Holland, Tex.

Fire at Holland, Tex., early Tuesday morning destroyed the private immigration car "Francis," attached to a northbound Missouri, Kansas & Texas train, and endangered the lives of seven persons, among them two St. Louis women, employed as servants on the car.

The passengers included Miss Lizzie Tindall of St. Louis, formerly of Mitchell, Ind., and another St. Louis girl, who refused to give her name; F. C. Pickert of the St. Louis firm of Boney, Pickert, Ayers & Boney, industrial agents, who owned the car; J. M. Turner of Ashland, Wis., S. S. Cook and H. Kent of St. Louis and J. N. Entwhistle of Chicago.

Information received at the St. Louis office of the Immigration Bureau states that while none of the occupants was seriously burned, they all have more or less painful bruises.

The fire had made considerable headway when discovered, and some of the occupants of the car jumped from the windows in escaping.

All of them lost their clothing, jewels and money. The train was running 40 miles an hour and the strong north wind prevailing drove the flames rapidly through the car.

Jumped From Windows.

The cry of the women in the forward berth aroused S. S. Clark, who instantly made efforts to awaken them and to arouse the other occupants.

J. M. Turner, the conductor, ran into the forward car and pulled the bell rope, bringing the car to a full stop. In a few seconds the inmates of the burning car had been aroused and they ran pellmell onto the platform.

A fierce blaze swept through the car and several persons jumped before the train stopped, but owing to a heavy snow on the ground they were unhurt.

As soon as the passengers could be reached by the train crew they were taken into the forward sleeper and provided with berths and clothing.

The car, which was valued at $20,000 is a total loss.

Turned Tears to Laughter During Love Scene in "Old Heidelberg."

MAN IN THE GALLERY

Leading Man and Woman Hid Their Faces and Audience Tittered.

A man in the gallery with the hiccoughs spoiled the beauties of the last act of "Old Heidelberg" at the Garrick Theater Monday night and made the audience laugh where the business on the stage was of a prettily sentimental character calculated to cause tears.

Vaughan Glaser and Miss Fay Courteney were alone on the stage when the man with the hiccoughs was first heard. Glaser, who had become King of Sachsen-Karlsburg, had returned to Heidelberg, where he had been a student while he was Crown Prince, to bid farewell to his student friends and to Kathie, the waitress in the students' cafe, the only girl he had ever loved. There had been an affectionate greeting between the two, and then the King remarked softly that he was to be married within a few days.

"Ich-ichic-ich-ichic-u-u - u - puffoo!" gasped the man with the restless diaphragm, and the cough sounded as if it came from the stage or front rows. He had tried vainly to suppress the hiccough, but only succeeded in extending its duration.

Miss Courteney was visibly flustered, but she began her lines, saying that she would soon leave Heidelberg to return to her Vienna home to marry the man selected for her when she was a child.

Then the man hiccoughed again. This time he did it abruptly and with a staccato effect that was startling. Mr. Glaser hid his face in apparent affection against Kathie's shoulder. But the audience knew that he was merely trying to hide the laughter that the interruption had inspired.

Hiccoughs Interrupted Love.

Then the love scene continued, punctuated by hiccoughs.

"I knew you would come back some time," said Kathie, "and I have looked for you every day, every day."

"Ichi-ich-ich-u-u-p-p-ppp," hiccoughed the man in the gallery.

"I have thought of you, too," said the King. "I have often longed for the old days and have wondered if they would never return. But that was two years ago and a great many things happen within two years."

Again the man hiccoughed and titters that had been noticeable in the audience became laughter. Fortunately for the closing scene, the man finally conquered his hiccoughs and laseGr's final farewell to the pretty waitress was not interrupted, and the curtain went down on the parting of the lovers while the auditors were not laughing.

The Japanese Government is introducing new silver coins into Korea. This new coinage is of three denominations. CONSUMPTION Is Curable.

Inhalation Treatment of

Has Cured Cases Pronounced Hopeless by the Doctors.

The experiments conducted with the Bensonizer treatment in New York City among the poor tenement dwellers, where consumption is seen at its worst, placed the treatment in a class by itself as being the most successful cure for Consumption. The daily papers contained full-column articles in regard to the wonderful results obtained, and full details of the experiments will be mailed to any one on request.

Consumption is curable—but not by taking drugs into the stomach. The Bensonizer consists of healing medicated vapor, or nebulized air, which is inhaled in the same manner that you breathe in the germs which cause the disease. This vapor absolutely destroys the germs. Cases are on record where it has been done in from 60 to 90 days. The vapor also helps Nature heal the sore spots or cavities.

All other diseases of the air passages are positively cured by the Bensonizer. Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh readily yield to the treatment. Cases of 20 years' standing have been permanently cured. Write for names of those who gladly endorse the treatment. Satisfy yourself regarding the merits of this wonderful home cure. The price is moderate and terms are made to suit everybody. Address Bensonizer Company, 514 Granite Building, St. Louis, Mo., stating nature of your disease, and receive their 64-page book mailed free on request, or call at the office and receive free trial treatment.

SAYS SOUTH ASKS MORE ROOSEVELT

Democrats Clamor for Him to Make Race, According to Col. Lyon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—"Jacob Riis is not original in proposing another term for President Roosevelt. The South will demand his renomination, and I fancy he must have some popularity still in the West, when the solid Democratic South feels as it does," said Col. Cecil Lyon of Texas today, in contributing to the Roosevelt third-term boom. Col. Lyon, as State Chairman and National Committeeman, controls the Texas Republican organization, which will cast 36 votes in the next National Convention.

"There is no Democrat who can beat Roosevelt by 50,00 votes in Texas," said the Colonel. "While I would not say he would carry the State, I would not say he could not. After his visit to New Orleans at the risk of yellow fever his popularity spread faster than the epidemic ever did.

"The opposition that believes that it can get rid of both Roosevelt and his policies by defeating his recommendations will wake up with a headache on the morning after the next National Republican Convention. These fellows who are trying to raise a dust storm about Santo Domingo, Morocco, Senegambia and over whether some Congressman was or was not permitted to select the postmaster of Sleepy Hollow —they are playing the wrong system to win.

WHO "FRANKED" THE BOOKCASE?

Congressman Who Did It Had to Come Across With $72 Postage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23.—"Who franked a bookcase, in three sections, from his home to Washington and had to pay $72 postage on it?"

That question is being asked in the cloakrooms of the House of Representatives. The story is that some member put a frank on a bookcase containing public documents and other things—some say household goods—and sent the whole outfit through the mails.

The Postoffice authorities here held up the bookcase, claiming it was not frankable, and the member was obliged to pay $72 postage. It is reported that it was all the fault of a green private secretary, but whose frank was it? That is the question the Representatives want answered.

Saturn Surface Clouds.

If Mars and Saturn reflected the same proportion of the light which falls upon their surfaces the smaller and much nearer planet would look three times as bright as the much more distant and much larger Saturn. As a matter of fact there is no great difference between the two. It is inferred from this fact that the visible surface of Saturn consists of clouds, since no surface of land and water would reflect so much light as that planet gives.

Boy's Essay on Balloons.

In a French school the boys were asked to write on the invention of balloons. "Balloons were invented," wrote one, "by the Brothers Montgolfier, who were paper-makers. They took a large balloon and filled it with paper. They then set light to the paper and the balloon went up."

ALDRICH FLAYS ROOSEVELT'S PLAN

Leader of Republican Senators Leads Opposition to Rate Program.

"INFAMOUS PROPOSITION"

Predicts Hearst or Bryan Democratic Nominee for President in 1908.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—In open session yesterday, Senator Aldrich, the tactical leader of the Republican majority in the Senate, savagely denounced President Roosevelt's railway rate plans as "infamous propositions." He neither criticised nor attacked the President personally, but over the shoulders of the Democratic party he made it plain that he does not approve of the President's rate policy, and will lead the opposition to it.

Mr. Aldrich sought to draw party lines and to hold the Democrats responsible for such legislation as "will destroy the last remaining vestige of competition among the railroads." He spoke with deep feeling, and declared that either Mr. Hearst or Mr. Bryan will be the Democratic candidate for President in 1908.

Senator Bailey promptly asked Mr. Aldrich who will be the Republican standard bearer, but was told that no such concensus of opinion exists among the Republicans as among the Democrats, and the selection of a candidate could not be predicted.

Clay Sounds Warning.

Senator Clay spoke for nearly three hours on his railway rate resolution. He declared that municipal ownership is the forerunner of Government ownership, and appealed to the Republicans to abandon partisanship and join the Democrats in preventing the triumph of municipal ownership, followed by Government ownership.

Senator Aldrich said it was surprising that Mr. Clay should appeal to the Republicans to save the Democratic party from Mr. Hearst and his doctrines. He shrewdly attempted to show that Mr. Hearst's rate is the plan of regulation favored by the Democrats and asserted that it would entail nothing but disaster if adopted.

Taking the appeal of Mr. Clay as a text, Mr. Aldrich made it plain that he defied the President and his rate policy, and that he would seek to organize the Republicans in opposition to the Democratic attitude of supporting the President. He referred slightingly to the statements of Senators Clay and Bailey that the President had taken his rate policy wholly from the last Democratic national platform.

THIS WOMAN WILL PROSECUTE NEGRO FOR ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

MRS E. B. COLLER.

HE IS STILL "FATHER."

Court Refuses to Free Wife Charging Idleness.

Mrs. Margaret A. Sheward of Maplewood has been denied a divorce by Judge McElhinney in Clayton Circuit Court because she could not prove that her husband, Lovette A. Sheward, "failed to support" her or that he had "heaped indignities upon" her. Non-support, Judge McElhinney said, must amount to vagrancy before it becomes ground for divorce. Mr. and Mrs. Sheward were married the first day they met after a courtship carried on by correspondence. During the hearing Mrs. Sheward's daughter testified that everybody worked at home but father.

WILL PROSECUTE NEGRO SHE FOOLED

Mrs. E. B. Coller Gets Warrant for Man for Robbery.

Mrs. E. B. Coller of 4465 West Belle place has secured a warrant and will prosecute Arthur Herinden, the negro whom she has identified as the man who tried to rob her near her home a few days ago. She says that during the struggle she had a good look at the man and that she is positive in the identification.

She finally escaped by telling her assailant that she had dropped her pocketbook, and while he looked for it she ran. Henriden was afterwards arrested, as he answered the description that Mrs. Coller had given of her assailant.

TRADING STAMP A MEANS OF GRACE

Sunday School Pupils Given Stickers for Attendance and Pennies.

A score of Sunday School teachers and 300 pupils, armed with trading stamps, are engaged in a vigorous campaign to swell the attendance in their classes at First M. E. Church, South, at Glasgow avenue and Dayton street.

Rev. Luther E. Todd, pastor of the church, is the originator of the unique plan, and W. D. Achuff, superintendent of the school, is assisting in executing it.

Mr. Todd says he noticed that many of the members of his congregation were influenced by trading stamps in their choice of business establishments, and thought that trading stamps might increase Sunday School attendance.

The Sunday School has 400 pupils enrolled, but less than three-fourths of these have been regular attendants. After consulting Mr. Achuff, a plan was adopted.

For attendance, a two-cent trading stamp is given, and a pupil securing a new scholar is given a five-cent stamp. A one-cent stamp is given to each pupil contributing as much as a penny on Sunday.

When the stamps represent as much as $2, they are to be presented to the Premium Committee, which allows the scholar to select from a long list of prizes, including skates, balls, bats, dolls, croquet sets and hammocks.

MORE POLICE FOR CHICAGO

Plan to Raise Saloon License Fees Being Considered.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—How to increase the police force as a means of preventing crime was the main question before the City Council last night. A proposition that the saloon license fees be raised from $500 to $1000 was sent to the License Committee for its first consideration.

The contrast between the reception given this proposal and what it would have met with if made a few years ago, was evidence of the change which has come over the City Council in that time. As late as 1900 such a proposition had been seriously advanced, it would have been laughed out of court and contemptuously referred to some committee which never expected to meet.

Today it is being most seriously considered. It was sent to a committee, the chairman and a majority of members who are in favor of it, and the chances of its passage are more than good.

MANN SAYS HE WAS ONCE MILLIONAIRE

Editor of Town Topics, on Witness Stand, Declares Hs Was Ruined in Wall Street in 1878 and That W. K. Vanderbilt Put Him on His Feet Again.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Col. W. D. Mann, recalled to the witness stand in the trial of his suit against Editor Hapgood of Collier's Weekly, for crimnal libel, declared that before he became editor of Town Topics he had been a millionaire and had been ruined in Wall street.

After his failure he owed $100,000, became interested in Town Topics and borrowed $25,000 from W. K. Vanderbilt to get on his feet again.

A copy of Town Topics issued in 1899 was shown the witness, who denied that Abraham H. Hummel, the lawyer, had consulted him about an unpleasant paragraph in that issue of the paper.

Col. Mann then told of the beginning of his connection with Town Topics and how W. K. Vanderbilt came to be a stockholder of the paper. Col. Mann said:

"In 1878 I was connected with the Pullman Car Co. When the crises came in Wall street, or I might say the conspiracy," said the witness, "I found myself suddenly changed from being a millionaire to owning not a dollar and being $100,000 in debt.

"It was at this time I became interested in Town Topics and I went to W. K. Vanderbilt and asked him for a loan. I think he gave me about $75,000. I told Mr. Vanderbilt that I wished to get out of debt and wanted him to help me. He told me that what I owed him I need not worry about.

"I went to Mr. Vanderbilt and told him that I needed more money and I asked him to take some Town Topics stock as collateral security. Later he returned my notes and the stock and said he did not care to loan me any more money, but he said he hoped I would get on."

MANN TELLS HOW HE BORROWED $182,000

MILLIONAIRES WHO MADE BIG LOANS TO MANN, THEIR SECURITY AND REPAYMENTS.

Col. William D. Mann, editor of Town Topics, a "journal of society," admitted on the witness stand in New York that he had "borrowed" large sums from rich men who were liable to criticism in the columns of Town Topics. Among them are:

Name.	Amount.	Security.	Repaid.
William C. Whitney	$10,000	Notes	Nothing
J. Pierpont Morgan	2,500	Notes	Nothing
Collis P. Huntington	5,000	Notes	$5,000
William K. Vanderbilt	25,000	Notes; stock	Nothing
Perry Belmont	4,000	Notes	Stock
James R. Keene	90,000	Morigage	$44,500
Howard Gould (about)	3,000	Notes and stock	$3,000
Charles M. Schwab	10,000	Stock	Nothing
Warren B. Schley	1,500	Notes	Nothing
John W. Gates	20,000	Stock	Nothing
G. F. Scott	1,000	Notes	$1,000
Thos. F. Morton, throught Morton Trust Co.	10,000	Notes	Nothing

He said he paid back Gould, gave notes to Morgan, the Morton Trust Co., a mortgage to Keene, lumber stock security to Schwab, settled with Belmont in a Steel stock deal and paid Vanderbilt in Town Topics stock at $1000 a share. Its par value is $10 a share. Vanderbilt promptly returned it. None of these debts has he repaid. Scott got his by paying $500 and getting a copy of Fads and Fancies.

Col. Mann said after he had printed unpleasant things about a relative of Senator Clark the latter called on him and agreed to loan him money to build a handsome building for Town Topics and to subscribe for Fads and Fancies.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—All the town is wondering why millionaires of this city permitted Col. W. D. Mann of Town Topics to "touch" them to the tune of $182,000. On the witness stand Col. Mann acknowledged that he borrowed the money, much of it without security, and has not been called upon to pay his debts. Town Topics dealt in scandals, social frailties and business crookedness.

Col. Mann swore that to a few persons he gave stock of Town Topics as security. William K. Vanderbilt, from whom the Colonel borrowed $25,000, received the Colonel's notes and 25 shares of Town Topics stock.

"But Mr. Vanderbilt gave me back my stock and the notes I had handed him," testified Col. Mann.

And when James W. Osborne of counsel for the defense asked Col. Mann how Mr. Vanderbilt came to do such a generous thing, the Colonel said:

"I suppose he thought it was not worth anything, or very much."

At the same time Col. Mann acknowledged, under oath, that during the past 10 years his financial condition had been such that it would have been impossible to collect a judgment from him.

These facts were brought out in the trial of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, who is on trial charged with criminal libel, on complaint of Justice Joseph M. Deuel, one of the chief men in Town Topics.

Social Lights Summoned.

Today the courtroom is crowded with social lights summoned to testify for the defense. Bernard Baker, the richest man in Maryland, is also there ready to tell of his dealing with Col. Mann and Town Topics. Thus far all of the shocking testimony produced has been by the cross-examination of the prosecution's own witnesses.

When Col. Mann took the stand he was examined by Mr. Osborne, who asked:

"Col. Mann, you've got cartloads of scandals in the office of Town Topics?"

"N-o," replied Col. Mann.

"Did not you so swear in the police court?"

"I don't remember."

Mr. Osborne then read from a stenographer's minutes to show that Col. Mann had so testified.

"Possibly I did say that," replied the witness.

Q. Did you ever borrow any money from William C. Whitney? A. Yes.

Q. How much? A. A-h-$10,000.

Q. What did you give him for it? Your notes? A. Yes, my notes.

Q. Ever pay him back? A. Never.

Q. Ever borrow any money from J. Pierpont Morgan? A. Yes.

Q. How much? A. A-h-$2500.

Q. Ever pay it back? A. I got it 12 years ago. I gave Mr. Morgan my note for it. It is not due yet.

Q. Pay any interest on it? A. O, yes; every six months.

Q. But you did not renew the note of William C. Whitney? A. No. He is dead. Besides, his heirs could sue me.

Q. Did you ever exchange checks with J. Pierpont Morgan? A. Never.

Borrowed From Gould.

Q. Did you ever borrow any money from Howard Gould? A. Yes—$2500.

Q. Did you borrow $8000 from him? A. Never. I gave him my notes.

Q. Did you ever borrow any money from Collis P. Huntington? A. Y-e-s—$5000.

Q. Ever pay it back? A. O, yes.

Q. Not with notes, eh? A. No, sir, with cash.

Q. But you got $10,000 from Mrs. Huntington for "Fads and Fancies?" A. O, yes.

Q. Ever borrow any money from W. K. Vanderbilt?

Col. Mann's memory was getting poor about this time. He was hemming and hawing, when Mr. Osborne interrupted:

"Tell us how much you got from Mr. Vanderbilt. Was it $100,000 or was it $50,000?"

Col. Mann shook his head vigorously.

"Was it $25,000?" demanded Mr. Osborne, now yelling at the witness.

"Yes, it was $25,000," replied the Colonel, with a sigh.

Q. Ever pay it back? A. It has been paid.

Q. Was not an agreement entered into that Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt's name was never to appear in the columns of Town Topics? A. No, sir.

Q. Did not you say to your managing editor, Mr. Wayne, that he would take the bread and butter out of your mouth if he criticised Mr. Vanderbilt? A. No.

Q. When did you pay it back? A. I don't recall.

Q. Think hard; I want to know.

Col. Mann scratched his head fully a minute. Finally he said he thought he had paid the money back within the past four months.

Q. How? In cash? A. No, I paid it back in Town Topics stock.

Q. Then Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt is a stockholder in Town Topics? A. He is not. He is not on the stock books. I gave him the title to 25 shares.

Stock's High Value.

Q. And you value them at $25,000? A. Yes. At more.

Everybody laughed except Justice Deuel and Col. Mann.

Q. Was the specific sum that you borrowed from Mr. Vanderbilt $25,000 or was it more? A. I don't know. I have borrowed so much money from people in the last 15 years that I don't remember. I borrowed from one to repay the other. And, of course, in that way I cannot remember all.

Q. What has become of the shares of stock you gave to Mr. Vanderbilt? A. They have been returned to me.

Q. Did you ever have a similar financial transaction with Mr. Perry Belmont as far as stock of the Ess Ess Publishing Co. is concerned? A. I never did.

Q. How about James R. Keene? How much did you borrow from him? A. Ninety thousand dollars—that is, when we came to figure up the matter, I found that I only needed $76,000, and got a mortgage for the balance.

Q. How about John W. Gates? A. I sold him 20 shares of "Town Topics" stock for $20,000.

Q. And these shares of "Town Topics" stock paid how much interest? A. Ten per cent.

Q. It does not pay any now? A. I think so, but I can't recall.

Q. Has "Town Topics" declared any dividends since 1903? A. I don't know.

Q. How many shares do you own, Colonel? A. One.

Col. Mann never cracked a smile. Mr. Osborne slid back in his chair and roared. These shares are of $10 face value only.

Q. How about Charles M. Schwab? Did you borrow any money from him? A. I applied to Mr. Schwab for a loan of $1000, but I did not get the loan.

"I see," said Mr. Osborne, "the par value of the stock of Town Topics is $10 a share, and you sold it all to these parties at the rate of $1000 a year."

Col. Mann made no reply.

Q. Now let me ask you about Grant B. Schley. Did you ever borrow any money from him? A. I borrowed $1000 or $1500 from Mr. Schley—that is, from the firm of Moore & Schley. Yes, there was a story printed about B. J. Berwind. Mr. Schley did speak to me about it.

Q. Ever borrow any money from Thomas F. Ryan? A. No. That is, I borrowed the money from the Morton Trust Co., of which Mr. Ryan was the president or the vice-president. It was $10,000.

Q. Did you give any security? A. None.

Says He Owns Nothing.

Q. And you don't own a thing in this world? A. No, you could not collect a judgment against me in the past 10 years.

Q. How about G. S. Scott? A. I borrowed $1000 from him 10 or 12 years ago.

Q. By the way, did you ever pay Mr. Ryan back?

"N-o-o-o!" drawled out Col. Mann. Great happiness in the courtroom.

Q. How about Loyal Smith? I mean the man, you know, for whom you took the article out of the paper. How much did you get from him? A. Nothing. He had a friend with him who inserted an advertisement at $1200 in Town Topics.

Q. This ad was put in by Mr. Gilman, the book publisher? A. Yes, it might be so.

Q. How about Senator Clark? Did you ever have any financial relations with him? A. None in the world.

Q. But you remember that there appeared in Town Topics an article about somebody connected with his family? Viasto, the Greek? A. O, yes.

Col. Mann denied that he had ever borrowed any money from Roswell P. Flower. Then he recalled having exchanged checks for $300 with him.

Q. And you got this money, these checks, from men who were liable to be criticised in Town Topics? A. I should say that anyone with money was liable to have been criticised in Town Topics.

Jerome Scores Society.

Mr. Jerome took the witness in hand to give him an opportunity to explain some things. He said he was 66 years old. He had taken hold of Town Topics as a commercial enterprise when he learned that society people were vain and curious about each other's affairs.

MINERS DEMAND ONE-EIGHTH RAISE

Increase in Wages the Most Important Point in Indianapolis Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 23.—The convention of United Mine Workers of America today began consideration of the report of the Scale Committee by sections. It was decided that when the joint conference between the miners and the operators meets Thursday the demand will be presented to the operators for their rejection or acceptance before any other demand is made.

This demand is that Districts 13, 14, 21, 24 and 25, and all outlying districts whose operators are willing to participate shall be admitted to the conference. These districts consisted of the States of Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Michigan and the Southwest. The miners decided that all the delegates to the convention will remain in the city and should the operators refuse to admit the districts named the conference will end until a session of the convention of the miners is held and the delegates will be then called together to consider further action.

The sections demanding a general advance of 12½ per cent over the present scale, demanding a run of mine basis, demanding a differential of 7 cents between pick and machine mined coal, demanding a uniform day wage scale and demanding that all yardage and deadwood be advanced the 12½ per cent, were adopted by the convention, and the demand that no boy under 16 years of age shall be employed in or around the mines was then taken up. It caused a prolonged debate.

An amendment, providing that it be demanded that three anthracite districts be admitted to the joint conference, was defeated.

STATEHOOD'S FATE NOW UP TO CONGRESS

House Committee Reports Favorably on Hamilton Bill.

CANNON KEEPS PROMISE

Measure Joins New Mexico to Arizona, Indian Territory to Oklahoma.

ANSWERS ITS CRITICS

Contains Statistics to Refute Charges Made by the "Insurgents."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Representative Hamilton of Michigan, chairman of the House Committee on Territories, today submitted a favorable report on the Hamilton joint statehood bill, which provides for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian Territory as the State of Oklahoma and provides joint statehood for New Mexico and Arizona under the name of Arizona.

The report reviews the bill in detail, explaining that the capital of Arizona is to be at Santa Fe until 1915 and that the capital of Oklahoma is to be at Guthrie for the same length of time, when the people can choose their capital sites with justice to all parts of the states. The report says:

"This committee considers the criticism as ill formed which finds fault with New Mexico because of its alleged foreign population.

"Out of a population of 195,310, New Mexico has only 13,625 foreign-born inhabitants, a smaller foreign-born percentage than most of the states in the Union.

New Mexico's Record.

"New Mexico was made a territory in 1850, and ever since that time the people of that Territory have been electing their own Legislatures, making their own laws, conducting their own local government and contributing revenue to the Federal treasury.

"Were it not that the two-fifths of its population, which are native-born, but of Spanish descent, have been heretofore erroneously referred to as foreign, it would be an aspersion upon a patriotic people even to refer to their loyalty. The remaining three-fifths of its population are of the same character as the people of Arizona."

Of the alleged under-valuation of property in Arizona for purposes of taxation, which was warmly discussed in hearings, the report says:

"It has a total assessed valuation of taxable property, as shown by the report of the Secretary of the Interior, of $57,920,372, but it is probable that its property is returned for taxation at a comparatively small percentage of its market value in some instances, as indicated by Government reports at not over 5 per cent of its actual value."

New Mexico Taxes.

Concerning taxes in New Mexico, the report says:

"The assessed valuation of property within the territory for the year 1905 was $42,578,792, but it is asserted that for purposes of taxation property is not returned at much more than 20 per cent of its market value."

The report concludes as follows:

"Inasmuch as Congress intended by the organic act of the Territory of Oklahoma, that all of the original Indian Territory, together with what is now Beaver County, should become one State; and inasmuch as the present Territory of Oklahoma has for some time been qualified for Statehood, which has been deferred until the Indian Territory should be ready to be joined therewith in Statehood, and,

"Inasmuch, as conditions in the Indian Territory imperatively demand some better form of Government than now exists there; and,

"Inasmuch, as Indian lands will be allotted in severalty before the time when Statehood can go into effect, this committee reports in favor of the joinder of the Territory of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory in one State, not, however, before March 4, 1907, such State to be known as the State of Oklahoma.

"To that end, and to the end that the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico may be joined in one State, to be known as the State of Arizona, this committee recommends that the bill do pass."

WARD INSISTS UPON REMOVAL OF DEADLY "Y"

Another Meeting of Citizens at Holy Rosary Church Thursday.

DELEGATES VIEWED IT

Committee Will Make Its Report at House Meeting Tonight.

WOULD COMPEL ACTION

Complaint Is Also Renewed Against Nuisance of Fair Grounds.

Another meeting of the residents of the neighborhood of Lee and Newstead avenues will be held Thursday evening at the School Hall of Holy Rosary Catholic Church, Newstead and Margaretta avenues, to discuss means to compel the United Railways Co. to remove the "Y" on which Samuel Griffin was killed about two weeks ago and at which point a half dozen deaths have occurred.

The residents are thoroughly aroused on the subject and are determined to continue the agitation until the United Railways Co. gives them something more than promises. Already they have demanded of Mayor Wells and General Manager McCulloch that the "Y" be removed. Mayor Wells called Street Commissioner Valliant's attention to the matter and Capt. McCulloch said he would see what he could do.

The Improvement Association of the First Ward, in which the "Y" is located, called the attention of Delegate Priesmeyer to the matter, and he, at the last meeting of the House, presented a memorial from the association invoking the aid of the Municipal Assembly in removing "this menace to public safety."

Committee Investigated.

The subject was referred to the Railroad Committee and Monday several members of the Railroad Committee visited the scene of Samuel Griffin's death. They will report their findings and recommendations to the House tonight.

The committee found a peculiar condition obtaining at the corner in question. A double track line runs north and south on Newstead avenue, where it crosses Lee avenue. It is the Taylor avenue line. These Taylor avenue tracks also form part of the western terminus of the Lee avenue line. The Lee avenue cars on reaching Newstead avenue swing into the eastern Taylor avenue track to the north. Then they "back up" southwardly and, after that, swing back into the Lee avenue tracks on another switch.

A committee consisting of Dr. B. J. Ludwig, Dr. W. Neitherfield, H. Artkamper, J. Koch and others met the committee of the House, consisting of Delegates Gazzolo, Priesmeyer and Stannard, and explained to them their grievances.

Backing Cars the Peril.

"We do not think the United Railways Co. has any right to back up its cars on Newstead avenue as it does on this 'Y,'" said Dr. Ludwig. "The street is narrow at this point and the backing up of cars on this 'Y' is a constant danger to persons in the neighborhood. It is particularly dangerous in the morning and evenings when there are a number of children about.

"The motormen run their cars back swiftly along Newstead avenue and they can't tell who is in the way. They are always on the front end of the car. We would like to know if the law permits the company to run cars backwards with the motorman on the front end. We do not think it does.

"We want the city authorities to compel the United Railways Co. to remove this 'Y' if they will not do so willingly."

It is probable that the committee will report the facts as they exist at Lee and Newstead avenues with the request that the City Counselor inform the Assembly how far it may go to compel the United Railways Co. to act.

The residents of Newstead and Lee avenues say the United Railways Co. gives them good service in other ways, much better than formerly, but that it insists on continuing the "Y" there, whereas it has abolished it in other places.

Residents' Suggestions.

The residents would be glad to see the tracks of the Lee line extended due west along Lee avenue, crossing Newstead avenue and either executing a loop around private property or encircling an additional city block. Either method would remove the danger. As long as the "Y" continues a passenger alighting from a Lee car on the west side of the street is compelled to cross two car tracks to reach the opposite side and runs the double risk of being struck by the car he left backing down on him or by another car, which he can not see coming along, top speed, on the Taylor avenue tracks.

The "Y" is not the only subject of grievance before the First Ward Improvement Association.

Its members have a complaint against the management of the old Fair Ground. The management still continues to permit an immense pile of stable refuse to remain within its inclosure, bounded by Kossuth and Margaretta, Fair and Red Bud avenues. The nuisance has been in process of compilation for more than a year. When only comparatively small, some twelve months ago, it attracted the attention of neighbors, who had it photographed and filed a copy with the Health Department. The neighborhood will again take up the matter with the new Health Commissioner, Dr. Snodgrass.

MR. MULVIHILL AND THE CLUBS.

In the beginning of Gov. Folk's enforcement of the Sunday closing law against the dramshops, the Post-Dispatch called attention to the essential injustice in an enforcement of the law which practically discriminated between those who were able to belong to a club and those who were compelled to obtain refreshments at saloons. We called attention also to the fact that the only Sunday closing law enforced was that prohibiting the opening of saloons on Sunday.

Gov. Folk's defense of the narrow limits of his enforcement order was that Supreme Court decisions had left practically no part of the Sunday closing laws valid except that directed against the saloons. Despite the Supreme Court decision that clubs were not dramshops within the meaning of the law and were not therefore compelled to take out State licenses, Excise Commissioner Mulvihill announces his intention to enforce the law against clubs of all kinds. He admits the injustice of the rule which permits the rich man's club to dispense liquors on Sunday, while the poor man's saloon is closed, and says that one of the difficulties of his efforts to close the saloons and the smaller clubs, which have taken the place of saloons, is the charge of discrimination. He assumes that the Supreme Court "was not sure of its ground" when it decided that a club was not amenable to the dramshop law, and that another case, brought under different conditions, would bring out a contrary decision.

It is difficult to see how Mr. Mulvihill is to get his case into the courts, but there is nothing like trying. A club has generally been regarded as in a sense the home of its members—sometimes it is so in fact as well as in a sense. But if Mr. Mulvihill succeeds in having the courts declare that the clubs are dramshops, he will at least wipe out the gross discrimination resulting from the enforcement of the law as at present interpreted.

But if the Supreme Court can be induced to reverse its decision on the subject of clubs, perhaps it can be induced to take a different view of the entire Sunday closing law. Perhaps a new decision might give fresh life to the laws regulating the conduct of the people on Sundays, which have been thrust aside as not enforceable. Perhaps, when the subject is reopened, the courts might be induced greatly to extend the prohibtion against Sunday drinking. The principal argument in favor of cutting off the sale of liquor on Sunday is that it promotes morality, reduces disorder and crime, and if that argument is a valid reason for cutting people off from obtaining refreshments on one day in the week, it is valid for cutting them off every day in the week and at all times and places. It is valid to the extreme limit of prohibition.

The situation with regard to the Sunday closing laws and the conditions resulting from the attempt to enforce a part of them suggest the necessity of better legislation. The Sunday laws should be revised by the Legislature, with a view to giving regulations which will prevent disorder and discourage crime and vice, without interfering unnecessarily with the personal liberty of citizens or their harmless recreation. The Legislature should at least permit communities to have a voice in deciding how the personal conduct of their members shall be regulated. The existing laws, as at present enforced, have brought nothing but confusion and public harassment.

Sleuths should have been at once on the trail of the villain who passed a bad half-dollar on Mrs. Hetty Green.

WANTED—MORE HACKETTS.

Mayor Hosey of Fort Wayne, Ind., has found a new way to pay old debts—the debts he owes the people who elected him. He has established a government by proxy.

Mayor Hosey was almost persuaded in his own mind that the laws ought to be enforced—particularly the laws for the regulation of saloons. In fact, he had made an effort in that direction, but when a question arose as to whether those laws should be enforced all the time, he wavered. A delegation of merchants called on him requesting that he permit the saloons to break the law by keeping open at forbidden hours during the three days of the State convention. Mayor Hosey could not decide. Should he permit law breaking to please his political friends, in defiance of community sentiment? Really, he could not tell. Finally he said to his callers: "See Hackett."

Now, this man Hackett is editor of the Mayor's party organ. Besides that, he is a Presbyterian elder, and a man of decided views. "The law must be enforced," said this strange man Hackett; "we have been working for years to that end." The lidlifting delegation returned and told the Mayor. "The law must be enforced," said the Mayor, "if Hackett says so."

Fort Wayne is not the only town that needs a Hackett instead of a Hosey.

"Red Sunday" was not repeated in St. Petersburg this year, but then the Czar is no longer the "Little Father" of the Russian people; they have grown since a year ago.

"HOW TO BE A GENTLEMAN."

As Mark Twain denies he has ever written either book or pamphlet on "How to be a Gentleman," there is room for hope that the whole story of a bequest for the distribution of such a book exclusively among young men at the North, has been put in circulation through mistake.

It is certainly a mistake to take it for granted that the points of the compass have anything to do with the need for training in the habits which make the gentleman.

North or South, East or West, a "gentleman" is one who actually does his best to treat other people as he would like for other people to treat him.

This is simple enough in theory. It needs no special volume on "How to be a Gentleman" for making its theory understood. Its practice is another matter. In practice, it is so hard a thing to do that, North or South, East or West, the man who puts his hand on his heart and says he has done it consistently, is almost certainly mistaken in what he has in the heart his hand covers.

If, at Joplin or elsewhere, a last will and testament has been drawn and recorded to send back from the grave a slur on the young men of more than a dozen American states, because these states are "Northern," it is certainly a result of a completely mistaken idea of what a gentleman, living and dying, ought to mean in his relations with all other men at all points of the compass.

Excise Commissioner Mulvihill cannot see the difference between a club and a dramshop.

IN "TIRNANOGE."

One of the most ancient traditions of the Gaelic literature, whose revival Dr. Douglas Hyde represents in St. Louis, is that of the "Land of the West."

It is the land beyond the sea from Ireland, "Tirnanoge," where all the difficulties of living life happily are removed.

A single year in this Land of the West has more life in it than a century of life in Europe. After only three days in Tirnanoge, Oisin was centuries in advance of the country he had left.

Let us hope that the Gaelic revival will do much to make it possible for the actual Land of the West to realize the world's highest possibilities as they are shadowed in these ancient dreams.

The work must be done here or nowhere. It is actually true here, as in the dreams of the ancient Gael, that the limitations of life are least, the liberty of life the largest.

Celt and Saxon, Latin, Teuton and Slav, are here at last in the Land of the West, which belongs to the dreams of all the ancient people of Europe. They must make their "Tirnanoge" in reality what they have dreamed it ought to be.

"Clean sidewalks" are the prime conditions of municipal order.

A NEW LANGUAGE.

The growing interest in the new artificial language, Esperanto, points to a real need.

More than this, the need is acknowledged by scientific men of different nationalities, who look for a medium of communication common to all. Science is world-wide and in every civilized country scientific research is prosecuted. But few men of science know the languages of all, and they are beginning to feel the inconvenience of this diversity of tongues.

There is now sitting in Paris a commission to consider the subject. Esperanto is a favorite owing to the ease with which it may be learned by any fairly educated man. A writer in the Atlantic Monthly says he learned it in one afternoon. Latin, or a modernized Latin, is also claiming attention.

An international language would be a boon to everybody. It may not be possible to make it the vehicle of poetic fancy, but scientific thought is surely communicable. If Esperanto or the International Latin, as it is called, is adopted, it will be possible for anybody to read scientific books which are now shut from them because written in an unknown tongue.

Illinois and Missouri raise more corn than any other states. Another reason for free passage across the Mississippi.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

MORE CARS WANTED.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reference to the frequent and frightful street car accidents, many of which never appear in print, the statement of your correspondent, Mr. William Allen, in yesterday's issue, that "the law is ignored by the street car companies and that no attention is paid to it by our city officials, and the injuring and killing of our citizens is the result," is startling, and upon investigation will be found true. With the proper number of cars in operation, the same schedule time now made could be observed without running at law-breaking speed. The street car company is not above the law, neither are our city officials.

HIS CAREER OR WIFE'S HAPPINESS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your issue of the 16th inst., J. B. S. states he would like some "level-headed reader" to tell him if it should be his wife's happiness or his career"

I don't know if I belong to the class of "level-headed readers," but nevertheless I offer this advice: I do not believe that his wife's happiness depends altogether on her living in this city, but am inclined to think that they will likely find Denver as agreeable an abode as St. Louis, if not preferable. But it is my opinion that no wife should stand in the way of her husband, when the latter is anxious to gratify his ambition, therefore benefiting not only himself, but also his wife.

A REFORMED ONE'S QUERY.

When I was a lobster and you were a shrimp
In the dead days long ago,
When the lights were lit and the latch was out
And saloons were all aglow,
And we whooped it up and lapped it up
And skirted a sea of fire,
Careening along on the wings of song
To the maelstrom of Desire,
Braving the danger of eddy and pool,
Drinking a toast to Death,
Our sails afill with the winds that kill
And fanned by the breath
Of a thirst that frizzled and broiled our tongues
Till our palates glowed red hot
And our heads went round to the sawmill's sound,
Were we happy then or not—
When I was a lobster and you were a shrimp
In the dead days long ago,
When the lights were lit and the latch was out
And saloons were all aglow?

WE ARE SAFE.

In these twentieth century days, when the spirit of graft is rampant, and when the cry of those interested in the public weal is that "it is hard to get good men to run for office," it is gratifying to know that St. Louis has at least one official of whose qualifications there can be no doubt.

To those who have read of what may be termed his official judicial chef d'ouvre, there can be no doubt that reference is here made to our amiable Coroner; and who that reads at all has not read of his recent decision in the case of the two skeletons dug up on Park avenue?

After carefully examining them and determining to his own satisfaction that there was no longer life in those calcarous remains, where once glowed the lambent flame of mortality, did the Coroner call around him a jury of six of his peers, as is customary in such cases, to assist him in arriving at a verdict?

Nay—not so. Far be it from such! Taking his fountain pen in hand, unaided and alone, he opened up a great book and spread upon the records in his own writing the verdict at which his Solomonic insight had enabled him to arrive—namely, "Found dead."

"Found dead!" Could anything be more simple, and therefore more convincing? As long as we can elect to office men of such inscrutable wisdom as this, the city will rejoice, the State is safe and the republic will stand.

WHY THIS VISIT?

Joe Folk has been to Boston.

MORE THAN LIKELY.

"One of the boodlers who has just returned to St. Louis says he spent a good time in the Penitentiary," said Mrs. Tattoo Marx, looking up from her paper.

"Huh!" said Mr. Marx. "He meant he 'spent a good while,' I guess."

RECIPROCAL.

"I see that Chauncey M. Depew says he will avoid all social functions hereafter."

"And social functions will be just as careful, no doubt, to avoid Chauncey."

MRS. NAGG ON GOSSIP

Not That She Ever Does, for Other People's Affairs Don't Interest Her. No, Indeed!

An Outline of Her Remarks Made for the Post-Dispatch

ROY McCARDELL

DON'T talk to me about women being gabby, Mr. Nagg! If women were as constantly gossiping, backbiting and talking scandal as the men are, what would become of this world, I'd like to know?

If there is a thing that I do despise, it is gossip, and, as I always say, "those that bring a tale will carry one away."

I'm not interested in other people's affairs, and I do not care to hear about them. That's all I have to say, and if any one says anything to me about other people I simply say that the affairs of others do not interest me! But you men get together and cackle like a lot of old hens every chance you get! Don't I see it? Oh, Mr. Nagg, you are just as bad as the rest, and do not deny it.

And yet if I sit down to have a quiet chat with you and try to tell you the little incidents of the day, you look at your newspaper and simply pretend you are listening to me.

I only know that some day I will cease to be patient, just as Mrs. Terwilliger tells me Clara Calloway is getting tired of the way her husband is treating her and is thinking of leaving him! Not that she says a word. She is too sly for that, but Mrs. Terwilliger was telling me she tried to pump her the other day, asking her if it were true that her husband had lost his position and that they had had a dreadful quarrel and were thinking of separating?

Clara Calloway told her to mind her own business, but I'd just like to know whether it is true or not. Calloway's servant girl told the milkman, and he told me, when I was paying his bill the other day, that last Saturday Mr. Calloway rushed out of the house without his breakfast and later in the day Mrs. Calloway seemed very much worried when she couldn't get him on the telephone.

I would just like to know what is going on, because that Clara Calloway was always a stuck-up thing, and put up with snubbings that would have discouraged any other woman. She's as bad as the Pilkingtons, who always talk about the trouble they had with their coachman. I met a Mrs. Twichett at a musicale the other day, and she told me that she knew of the Pilkingtons, and all the coachman they had was a gardener that kept their lawn in order like he did a dozen other people's for $5 a month, and he used to hitch up a pony they had that was dying of old age; and their piano was seized for debt by the butcher, but the piano people sued for it because only two installments were paid and took it away from the butcher—and that is why I say that if you will only inquire about people who try to put on airs you will find out that they are shoddy aristocracy at best!

Not that I care! Other people's affairs do not interest me, and I am surprised at your sitting there trying to get me to talk about other people! All you men care about is gossip, but I am not interested, Mr. Nagg. I am not interested!

Maligned Reporters

Hartley Davis in Everybody's

"A COMMON charge brought against newspaper reporters is that they are heartless, that they revel in laying before the world the closely guarded secrets of individuals. It constantly happens that a reporter must do unpleasant things because others have been guilty of those violations of custom, law, or convention that make news. The opprobrium that belongs to the real offender is not infrequently heaped upon the innocent newsgatherer. There is no work a reporter detests so much as that involving a social scandal, and there is no story that a large percentage of readers will devour more eagerly. There isn't a good reporter living who has not been guilty of that blackest, least forgivable of all journalistic crimes, 'throwing down' his newspaper, to protect a helpless person innocently involved in a legitimate news story that is a matter of public record. On the whole, the newsgatherers are a tender-hearted folk and generous, and that which often passes for cynicism is an intense hatred and contempt for shams. If they appear suspicious it is because long experience has taught them that they must constantly guard against deception. There is no walk of life a good reporter is not compelled, sooner or later, to invade, and his position is the trying one of being compelled either to gain the confidence of or outwit those he meets there."

CHAFING DISHES

MEN make the best cooks. The amateur chef even if he takes any interest in cooking, feels a kind of boyish delight in compounding new and sometimes outlandish dishes.

The chafing dish was originally intended for mere man, but, of course, mere woman got hold of it and now uses it as her own.

It is nevertheless associated with late supper purposes and belongs to the regular bachelor variety outfit.

The man who knows how to cook in a chafing dish stands well in the matrimonial market.

A very successful young artist won the hand and heart of his beautiful wife through his skill in the culinary art. They have been married some years and are still in the honeymoon state, for—let it be whispered all the elaborate dishes that appear on their table are made by the husband.

All bachelors with matrimonial ambition take heed!

An amateur chef will do well to confine his cooking utensils to the simplest; and if he can avoid using all the pots and pans, and forks, spoons, plates, cups and saucers in his pantry, beside borrowing from the man next door to prepare one dish, he will be a long way on the road to chefdom.

A menu for a simple supper might consist of bouillon, a chicken previously boiled and warmed in the cnanng mish with curried sauce, a Waldorf or mixed fruit salad.

When a very simple late supper is served, any of the following dishes will be appropriate:

CREAMED SALMON.

Melt two tablespoons of butter in the blazer over hot water, add two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour, seasoning of salt, pepper and cayenne, and one pint of hot milk. When smooth and thickened stir in one cup of canned salmon, one cup of finely chopped peanuts and the whites of six hard-boiled eggs, chopped fine. Serve in ramekins or on buttered toast.

EGGS FOR FOUR.

Make a mixture of one tablespoonful each of flour and butter. Drop in a very little oil, sift in a little curry powder, and when it begins to bubble add the tomato, previously diced, half an onion, grated with seasoning of paprika and salt. Cook ten minutes over water. In the meantime beat four eggs to a froth, and when ready begin slowly to fill into the mixture. When all the egg is stirred in, keep folding over and over. Take off the water pan and, still folding, blaze high until thickened. Serve with sprigs of parsley on toast. Prepared on the chafing dish, this will take a full retainer of alcohol, so be sure to have the lamp full at the start.

BOSTON RAREBIT.

Put into the chafing dish, directly over the flame, two pounds of full cream cheese cut up, or broken with a fork into small pieces; allow it to melt slowly, and when nearly dissolved add a salt spoonful of fine salt and a dash of pepper (cayenne is best). Have half a pint of rich cream whipped thoroughly, fold it into the melted cheese, beating until light. Serve on toasted bread.

AMIABLE TALES

Told by Funny Men to Harper's Weekly.

Golf and Matrimony.

As an illustration of the enthusiasm with which golf is pursued by its votaries, the following anecdote is told of a well-known Scotch author and a young friend of his: The two had spent the whole day on the links, and had had some close and exciting matches. As they left for home the elder man remarked:

"Do you think ye could play again tomorrow, laddie?"

"Well," answered the youth, "I was to be married tomorrow, but I can put it off."

His Decision.

The following anecdote is told of a professor in a Western university:

"One day, while walking with a friend in San Francisco, the professor and his companion became involved in an argument as to which was the handsomer man of the two. Not being able to arrive at a settlement of the question, they agreed, in a spirit of fun, to leave it to the decision of a Chinaman who was seen approaching them. The matter being laid before him, the Oriental then considered long and carefully; then he announced in a tone of finality, "Both are worse."

Naturally.

The elderly lady who was looking through the shop of a dealer in nicknacks picked up a small hand-bag. "Are you sure," she inquired, "that this is real crocodile skin?"

"Absolutely certain, madam," replied the dealer; I shot that crocodile myself."

"It looks rather soiled," observed his customer.

"Naturally, madam," explained the salesman; "that is where it struck the ground when it tumbled off the tree."

Unique.

A Baltimore schoolteacher says that she once put a question to one of her boy pupils as to what was the distinguishing feature of the State of Texas.

"Texas," replied the lad, "is celebrated for being the only one of the United States that is the largest."

She Guessed Right.

Representative John Sharp Williams tells a story of a darky in Mobile who recently became a convert to Christian Science. It appears that, meeting a friend on the street, the convert made inquiry touching the health of the former's aunt. "She's got de pleurisy pretty bad," was the answer.

"You and she is both wrong," was the solemn assertion of the convert. "As a mattah of fact, she only thinks she got de pleurisy. Dere ain't no sich thing."

Nothing further was said on the subject; but a few days after the two again meeting, the convert repeated his inquiries touching the aunt's condition. "Does she still presist dat she's got de pleurisy?"

"No, indeed," came the reply; "de pore woman now thinks dat she's dead. We berried her yisterday."

AT ALGECIRAS

Exclusive Wireless Report on the Moroccan Conference to the Post-Dispatch.

By Will Forman.

MONDAY—The conference was called to order at 10 a. m. by an unidentified delegate, rumored to represent Afghanistan. As he was the only person present able to understand what he was saying, the morning was consumed in translating to the other delegates the information that the conference was in session. This matter disposed of, the gentleman from Scandinavia moved to adjourn. The translation of the votes on this matter occupied the remainder of the day.

Every delegate is under instructions to oppose every contention advanced by every other delegate. It was agreed that 14 languages will constitute a quorum.

Tuesday—There was no conference today, as the French delegate had a pain in his shoulder, rendering conversation impossible. The delegates passed the day fighting in the lobbies of the various hotels.

Wednesday and Thursday—The conference was in session all day. The only important matter brought up for discussion was a motion to adjourn. The delegates left before it was settled.

Friday—The conference was to have been called at 11 o'clock, but a discussion in the ante-room between the delegates from Russia and Japan delayed the session. The American delegate separated them with a chair rung, but as it is found necessary to send to Russia for a new delegate, there will be no further sessions until Monday.

Monday—The conference met early this morning. There was an air of suppressed excitement, as it was known that the hostile French and German representatives would address the conference. When the French delegate arose, the interest was intense. He delivered an impassioned treatise on Psychology, concluding with an analysis of the urgent necessity of a revision of the French election laws. The German delegate replied with a heated address on Applied Mathematics. There being no further business, the conference adjourned.

Tuesday—Morocco was mentioned for the first time at today's session, when the member from the Windward Islands asked where it is and what it is doing there. This provoked a spirited discussion, all delegates observing their instructions. The gentleman from Borneo maintained that Morocco is on the Gulf of Mexico. The Culebra delegate insisted that he had seen it off the coast of China. When the question was appealed, the Chair ruled that the present geographical location was irrelevant, inasmuch as it would probably be changed unless the Sultan paid his debts. The conference shook the box for the drinks, stuck the delegate from Peru, and adjourned.

W. M.—The earth is nearer the sun in winter than in summer. (To be exact, the distance in January is about 91,500,000 miles, in July 94,500,000 miles.) In simple words, the reasons why the summers are warmer than the winters are, first, because the sun's rays strike the earth's surface (in the Northern Hemisphere) more perpendicularly in summer than in winter. In winter the sun's rays strike the earth's surface slantingly. The sun, even at noon in the winter time, never rises very high in the sky, while in summer it is almost directly overhead. So the same bundle of sun rays is scattered over the much larger area in winter than in summer, and hence, though the surface is nearer the sun in winter, yet there is not sufficient to compensate for the much larger area that must be heated by the same amount of sunshine due to the inclination of the rays. There is another cause. The days in summer are much longer.

UNDER THE UMBRELLA

The writer of this sunny little love-story, Enrico Castelnuovo, has been for more than thirty years one of the most beloved authors of Italian fiction. He excels especially in the short story, although he has written a number of larger novels that are among the most widely read in Italy, the first one to gain him general recognition having been "Il Quaderno della Zia" (Aunt's Picture). A German critic, Dr. Siegfried Lederer, says of him: "The themes of Castelnuovo's compositions are extremely simple and free from all artificiality, but he has a freshness and a heartiness about him that always wins the reader. Throughout his works there is reflected a kind, gentle, characteristic note." Castelnuovo has occupied a professor's chair at the Royal School of Commerce in Venice since the year 1872. This story is translated for Current Literature by Thomas Seltzer.

A DISTANCE of more than three kilometres still separated them from their summer home when it commenced to rain.

Signora Susanna looked up, extended her arm and received the first drops on the back of her hand and on her face. Then she said to her nephew, a boy of between 14 and 15 years of age: "Ferrucio, jump over quick to old Martha, and see if she can't let us have an umbrella for a while. You stay here, Cecelia. Now, be careful you don't get the mud all over you."

So saying, Signora Susanna opened her little umbrella and said to her daughter:

"Come under my umbrella until Ferrucio gets back. It will not do you much good, but it will keep off a little of the rain."

"No, mamma," returned Cecelia, "it is no use for two to try to get under that tiny umbrella."

Ferrucio was not long in reappearing, breathlessly followed at a distance of several feet by a woman who carried a huge red umbrella under her arm.

"Would you not rather stop over at my house for a little while?" inquired the newcomer politely. "A shower like this can't last very long, I am sure. I think that would be best, signora. But if you prefer to go at once I brought you this umbrella. It is a poor umbrella, because we are poor people ourselves, but it is the only one I have."

"Thank you, Martha," answered Signora Susanna cordially. "I should be glad to stay at your house; but it is late and dinner is waiting for us. I will take your umbrella and let you have it back soon. Thank you, thank you."

Ferrucia and Cecelia exchanged smiles as they regarded the large umbrella of the woman, whose wings seemed calculated to give shelter to an entire family.

"Everybody arm-in-arm! Everybody arm-in-arm?" exclaimed the girl, clapping her hands.

"What are you thinking of, child?" retorted her mother. "You take my parasol and Ferrucio will hold the large umbrella and be my gentleman."

This arrangement by no means suited the two cousins, whose faces elongated several centimetres; but the signora did not observe it because at that moment her attention happened to be drawn away by the noise of an approaching carriage.

It was the buggy of Dr. Lonzi.

"Signora Mellini," cried the doctor, stopping his horse and putting his head out from the buggy, "do you want to come into my carriage? I have a place for you here."

"Really?" answered Signora Susanna. "If you assure me that you will not go out of your way on my account I will accept your kind offer."

"Not at all. I am going in your direction. And at all events, I would not leave you out in the rain that way. I am only sorry I cannot accommodate the young lady and the young gentleman."

"The young lady and the young gentleman have no objection to walking on foot," said Cecelia, with a smile of contentment.

And, returning her mother's parasol, she plunged under the ample firmament of the red umbrella.

"This girl will remain a child until extreme old age," remarked her mother as she was helped into the carriage by the doctor; and, turning to the young couple, she added: "Now don't fool around, but go straight home. Ferrucio, you are the younger of the two, but you are the wiser, nevertheless. Take care of your cousin. I entrust her to you."

Dr. Lonzi shook the reins over his horse's neck and he started off on a run.

"Did you hear?" said Ferrucio, with an air of importance. "You are entrusted to my care. Now, then, respect and awe in the presence of your superior! Do you understand?"

"O!" exclaimed Cecelia, "what a formidable cavalier. I can push you into the ditch with one turn of my hand."

"I should like to see it," answered Ferrucio, irritated at this reflection on his manly strength.

"Will you attempt to deny, perhaps, that I am at least two inches taller than you are?"

"That is a calumny. We haven't measured ourselves this fall."

"No, not this fall, but last fall."

"There is the rub. You see I have grown in that year and you have not, at least not in height."

This allusion to the anatomy of his cousin seemed to him such a stupendous piece of audacity that he regretted it before it was well out of his mouth, and he blushed and lowered his eyes.

For a moment the girl remained in doubt as to whether she should laugh or grow angry, so she contented herself with murmuring between her teeth, "Booby!"

"Well, we will settle the account some other year," said Ferrucio, satisfied at having come out so easily from this embarrassment.

"What account?"

"Why, that about my stature."

"You will get to be a regular Goliath, I dare say. Now here, you stupid fellow, can you or can you not hold that famous umbrella decently?"

It is an undeniable fact that Ferrucio managed the umbrella rather awkwardly, constrained as he was to walk on his tiptoes in order not to appear smaller than his cousin. To make matters worse, the wind was so strong that at every gust the umbrella was carried now on one side, now on the other.

"I am getting a shower bath on my right side," remarked Cecelia.

"And I on my left," returned Ferrucio.

"Will you let me try?" said the young lady.

"Yes, for five minutes."

"I guess I won't."

"Come, be a gentleman."

"I tell you I won't."

But Cecelia, who was obstinate by nature, did not wish to yield, and attempted to conquer by force what she could not do by kind words. She began to pull it one way and another until the umbrella, which did not have a very solid spring, closed up all of a sudden, catching the heads of the two contestants as in a trap.

When they finally succeeded in reopening it, Ferrucio had his hat cocked on one side while Cecelia was altogether in a state of disarrangement. They were both dripping wet, almost as if they had just come out of a bath.

"It is your fault," cried the girl; "you savage!"

"It is my fault, is it? Was it not you who——"

At this point, however, the humor of the situation overtook them, and the two cousins looked each other in the face and laughed with all their might.

"That was a fine blow you got on your head."

"I should say so. I guess I must have a bump on my forehead."

"And I, too, here."

"My poor little Cecelia!" cried Ferrucio.

"Don't laugh so," said Cecelia, striking up a comic attitude of alarm. "If you shake the umbrella too much it will start its funny tricks again and will shut up."

"O, horrors! After all, Cecelia, when I come to think of it, it wasn't such a bad trick the umbrella played on us, was it?"

Again Ferrucio thought that he allowed himself to speak too rashly and he flushed red.

Cecelia darted at him a glance in which there was a world of unconscious coquetry. Then disposing herself to a resolute mood, she said: "Come now, let us walk the rest of the way like respectable people."

She passed her arm again through that of her caveller and drew herself up against him as closely as possible. "That is the way," she said, "now I will have my whole body under cover."

Ferrucio felt a kind of uneasiness, a discomfort that he had never experienced before; but that discomfort was so delicious that at that moment he would not have exchanged it for anything else in the world.

And Cecelia, inclining her pretty head toward him, spoke to him as she had never spoken to him before until that day, as one speaks not to a boy and a playmate, but to a young man who can be taken into one's confidence, to a friend.

Seeing himself finally treated as an equal by a young lady almost 15½ years old and so very pretty, Ferrucio was beside himself with joy. At first he was confused and embarrassed, but gradually his tongue was unloosened and he began to speak with warmth and with an unusual emphasis.

How many things the two cousins said to each other under that umbrella! They recalled the time of their infancy when they lived in the same city and passed many hours together every day, quarreling frequently, occasionally also pulling each other's hair, but never able to remain separated. Later the families went to live in different places, and Cecelia and Ferrucio remembered how bitterly they wept on the day of their separation. Yes, they wept and wept, and swore that they would write each other; but inasmuch as they were then scarcely able to make strokes with their pens there was no possibility of keeping their promise. But in the fall Ferrucio came to pass his vacation with his uncle and aunt, and continued to do so every year. For Cecelia this was the pleasantest season of the year. It was true that there was an interval of considerable cooling down when Cecelia seemed to be bent on becoming a steeple, while Ferrucio evidently had made up his mind to stop growing. Then she really looked down upon him. Basta! But now all this humiliation was at an end, and Cecelia faithfully recognized that Ferrucio would not cut a bad figure at her side. But what a pity it was that they could not walk arm-in-arm the whole year round! What a pity that they could not always confide their intimate thoughts to each other, their secret desires, the little sorrows of life!

The two cousins passed into pathos. Who knew what the future had in reserve for them? A series of disillusionments, perhaps, premature death! Brr! The very thought of it made their blood freeze in their veins.

"Don't even say it, Cecelia!" ejaculated Ferrucio.

"You would really be grieved if I died?"

"Oh, what terrible language!" he answered, turning his humid eyes upon her.

In answer she pressed his hand gently.

This sentimental conversation was interrupted by the sound of a voice.

"Eh, children, why don't you hurry?"

It was Signora Susanna who waited for them at the gate of the villa where they had arrived without noticing it.

"And now," continued Signora Susanna, "do me the kindness to explain why you keep the umbrella open? It is 20 minutes since it stopped raining."

"It has stopped raining?" exclaimed Cecelia and Ferrucio in great surprise.

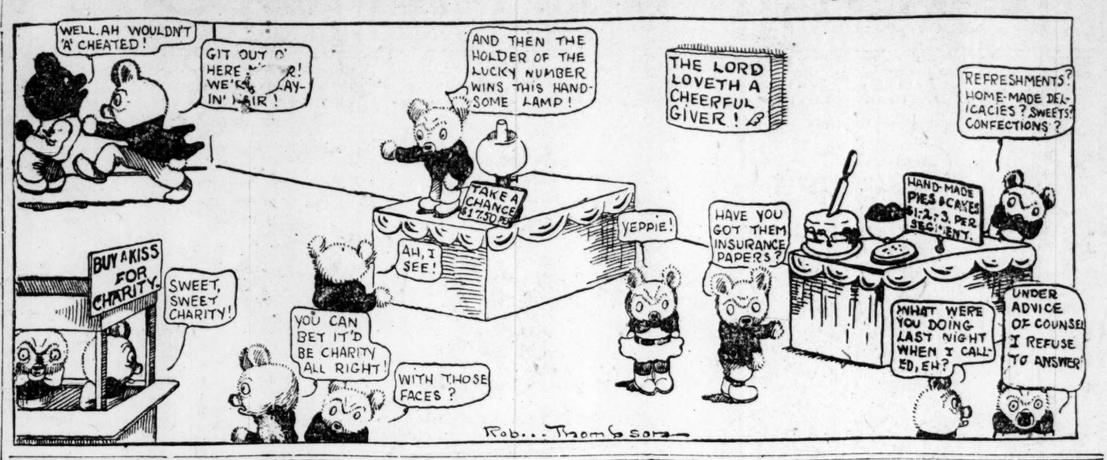

"Yes, of course. Have you been wandering in the clouds? I am not surprised at Cecelia, she never knows where her head is; but you, Ferrucio, shame on you! And in what horrid condition you are! All muddy from top to bottom! Walk up quick and change your dress, and then come down at once to the table. You, Ferrucio, give this umbrella to Menico and let him return it to old Martha at once. For all the good it has done you might as well have done without it."

"No, mamma, believe me, it was very nice under this umbrella," said Cecelia as she entered the house.

"You little rogue!" whispered Ferrucio in her ear as he caught up beside her at the door.

ORIGIN OF BRIDGE

WHERE does Bridge come from? Persia is said to have given us the game of Poker, and Turkey, according to R. F. Foster, author of "Foster's Complete Bridge," was the home of this latest popular card game. Mr. Foster says in his preface: "Bridge would seem to be a combination or outgrowth of various other games, notably Gerelasch, Siberia and Preference. A game very much like Bridge has long been popular in Holland; and all the elements of it are to be traced in many of the older games of cards. The name is supposed to be derived from the word 'biritch,' which is popularly believed to be a Russian word, but there is no such word in the Russian language. The game itself is generally credited to the East, and is said to have long been popular in Constantinople, Smyrna and Southeastern Europe." Mr. Foster gives 1893 as the date of the first appearance of the game in America, when its principles were explained to some members of the New York Whist Club by Mr. Henry I. Barby, an incident which resulted in the withdrawal of a large number of members who wished to play Bridge to the exclusion of regular Whist, and the formation of the Whist Club of New York. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, Bridge was first played in England about 1880, but did not really become popular until 1892.

VANDERBILT'S AUTO CHUGS LIKE SIXTY, BUT WON'T RUN A LICK

Immense Racing Car Makes Huge Noise but Absolutely Refuses to Make a Motion—Great Exhibitions of Speed Reported.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ORMOND, Fla., Jan. 23.—Alfred Vanderbilt's wonderful racing automobile is particularly extraordinary in one thing, it won't go. This much-heralded demon reposes in a machine shop, having won a battle for stubbornness that dims the many stories of proverbial mule.

Five Frenchmen are wiping the sweat from their brows trying to coax the weird-looking car to go. They have not given up for 48 hours, but there is only a dim possibility that life can be infused into the machine within a week. After its balky attitude and failure Sunday to budge it was determined to make another trial Monday. The car was towed down to the beach and Sartori, the chauffeur, jumped in to do things. He grabbed the levers. The car started a chugging, the equal of which was never made by another car. Those who stood near quivered and Sartori bounced around like a rubber ball.

"Let her go," shouted Richard, Vanderbilt's head mechanic.

"Let her go," chattered back Sartori. "She won't go."

Then the chugging suddenly ceased. No one asked it to stop, but it just stopped, and so did the engine. More examinations were made, but the most important discovery that the enormous power had caused such a vibration that the wheels had been pounded deep into the sand.

Never were the expectations of the thousands who congregate here to watch the great trials of speed between the swiftest automobiles in the world pitched higher than today. Automobilists and others from all parts of the globe are talking in anticipation of what will happen. There is not one person in Ormond who does not expect to see all speed records broken. Every one is waiting to feast on the sight of man traveling faster than he ever did before. A violent thunderstorm broke last night, but the weather promises to be ideal today and the beach for 15 miles is in splendid condition. The beach is roped in to keep the people back and to prevent any intruding automobile from cutting into its smooth surface. Four events are on the program for today. They include the one-mile race for the Dewar trophy, a one-mile contest between gasoline cars for the middleweight championship, a mile championship for steam machines, and one other event. The 100-mile race for the Minneapolis trophy will be run on Thursday. There is a spirit of intense rivalry between the French and Italian teams. Hemery leads the French team, Lancia the Italians. Both are known as drivers of wonderful ability. Hemery won the Arden Circuit and the Vanderbilt Cup race and recently showed what his 200-horsepower Darrach could do when, on a common French road, he sped at the rate of 105 miles an hour, breaking the kilometer record. This was done without any special preparation or tuning up of the machine. On the Florida beach it is expected that the Frenchman will give a terrific pace.

ANOTHER CALAMITY FOR PUGILISM

Lawrence Tighe Seriously Injured in Boxers' Match in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Lawrence Tighe, 16 years old, of 272 Bond street, Brooklyn, was knocked out and perhaps fatally injured in a boxing bout at the Sir John Athletic Club in Brooklyn last night. He was taken to the hospital in a state of collapse and up to an early hour this morning had not been revived by the physicians. About 100 men attended. There had been two fairly even rounds with Rivers and the final round was half over when Rivers, it is alleged, sent his right to Tighe's body, striking squarely above the nerve center called the solar plexus. Tighe crumpled up, and as he fell his opponent drove hard to his jaw. Tighe's seconds could not arouse him, and he was taken from the ring unconscious. After a physician had failed to revive him the boy was removed to the hospital.

After surgeons had worked for hours over the body, Dr. William Hiss, head of the hospital staff, said his condition was such that the outcome might be fatal. Tighe was struck on the solar plexus. Joseph Rivers, 16 years old, who, it is said, struck Tighe, River's alleged manager; William J. Guilfoyle, and William McDonald, the alleged referee of the bout, are prisoners, charged with felonious assault upon Tighe.

No policemen were present, it is said, at the boxing contests of the Sir John Club at 408 Third avenue last night.

MUST HAVE MONEY TO GO TO GREECE

James E. Sullivan Says City of Club Must Get Sum to Send Forshaw to Athens.

In a letter to a St. Louis acquaintance James E. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, refers to the protest against the appointment of A. L. Shapleigh to the American Olympic Games and Finance Committee, by the Missouri Athletic Club.

Sullivan says that while Joe Forshaw has been selected to represent America in the Marathon race, and Dr. G. H. Sheldon has been chosen to participate in the diving competition at Athens, neither of these athletes will go unless there is enough money collected to disburse their expenses.

An exact quotation from Mr. Sullivan's letter reads: "It will all depend on the money, as to whether Forshaw and Sheldon will go. If we do not get the money very few will go—if we get the money a great many will go."

Referring to the appointment of Alfred L. Shapleigh, he says: "I understand that the Finance Committee adopted plans—and Mr. F. J. V. Skiff made a statement at the meeting in New York that Mr. Shapleigh was the best man for the position of a member of the Finance Committee, and that he could undoubtedly collect $5000 in St. Louis."

IN Socker Society

The St. Louis University will have several new men in its line-up for next Saturday's game with C. B. C. and promises to give the college boys the most interesting contest the latter have thus far encountered during the Saturday Afternoon League season.

Kuns of Triple A is one of the Saturday forwards who knows how to handle himself. He and Bascombe work nicely together on the right wing.

Donald of Y. M. C. A. was the star of Saturday's game and deserved the encomiums showered upon him. Seldom did anyone pass on his side with the ball, and he was always there with a long kick, when needed.

Saturday's schedule in the Saturday Afternoon League will be Y. M. C. A. vs. Triple A; St. Louis U. vs. C. B. C.

Handball Happenings

Fred Schalfy is said to have the best left of any man playing handball at the M. A. C. But Frederick is not there with the Celtic craft in the corners.

Lon Fitzporter is said to feel that he has developed his body to the limit and that he will spend a year or two working on his brain by attending lectures, theaters, etc. What excellent exercise for the brain the Rogers brothers furnish.

Lindell Gordon, who played a very neat game of handball on the old B. M. G. court some years ago, has gone off form considerably, but plays now and then.

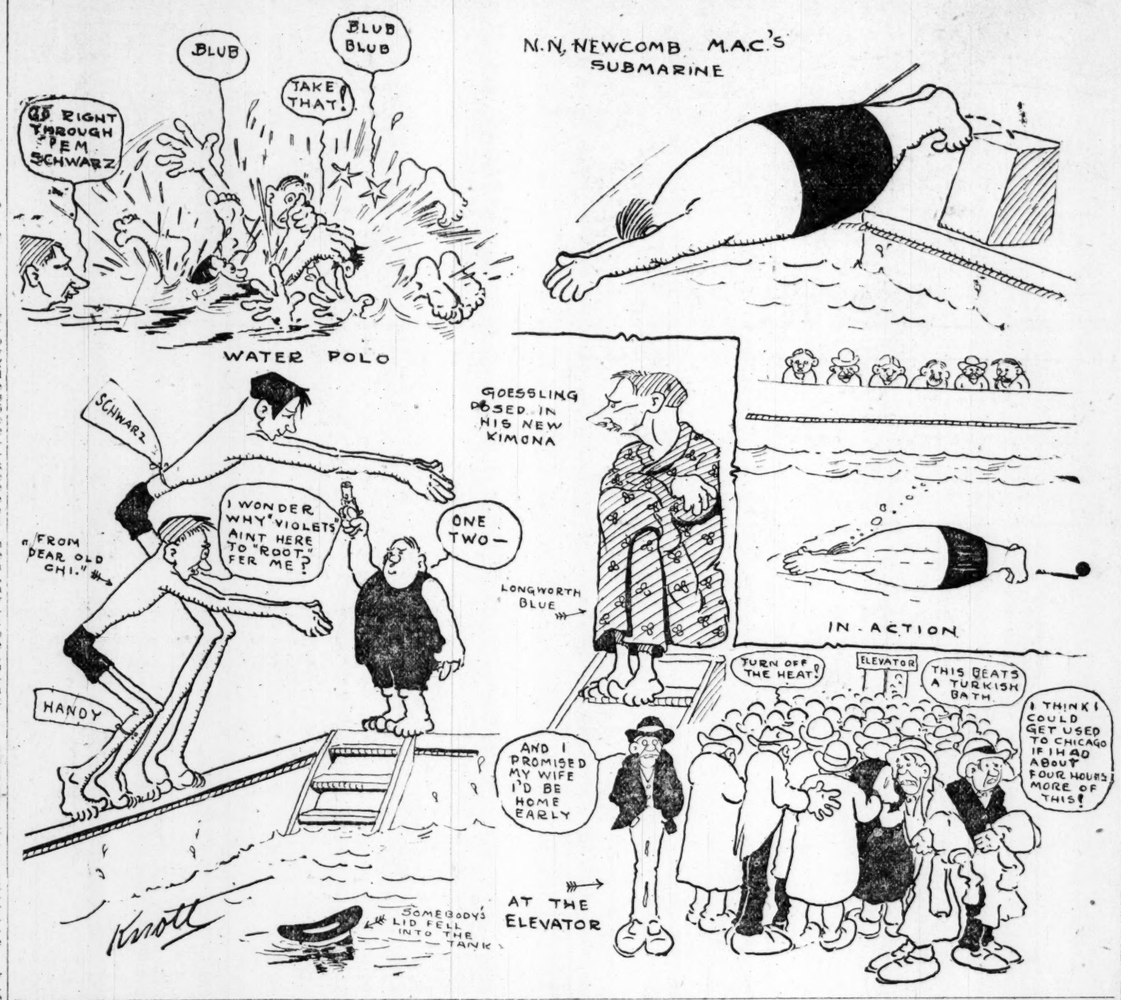

T. C. Collins of the Country Club, a gentleman who plays a keen game of golf, takes in the B. M. G. court in winter. He is not to be caught napping on the alley, either.

Wallace Delafield is another golfer who has a fancy for the Irish game during the cold weather.

There is some talk of building an outdoor side-walled court or two at Christian Brothers College this spring. The project will probably go through. Brother Justin, the brotherhood, the athletic association and the school boys are very much in favor of it.

John C. Meyers has a team playing at Muegge's which he thinks good enough to clean up the city. It is made up of Pohlmann, Drake and Holthaus. They play three men to a side at Muegge's. The end wall of the gymnasium makes a good court, but is a trifle wide. Light and air are excellent and Prof. Muegge certainly keeps the place clean.

PIGEON FLYERS ARRANGE SCHEDULE

At a meeting of the St. Louis District of the National Federation of American Homing Pigeon Fanciers held Monday night, the following schedule for old bird races was arranged for the season of 1906:

May 5—100 miles, on line from Jefferson City, Mo.
May 12—150 miles on line from Otterville, Mo.
May 19—200 miles on line from Holden, Mo.
May 26—300 miles on line from Osage City, Kan.
June 2—400 miles on line from Lindsborg, Kan.
June 16—600 miles on line from McCracken, Kan.
June 30—600 miles on line from Leoti, Kan.

THE GAME of the Gentleman

Asked why he had not entered the balk-line tournament Harry Culver replied: "I heard Gray say that he was averaging 10 and 12 and I knew there was no chance for me." Then just to prove how incapable of good work he was, Culver took up his cue and allowed the gallant Dr. Campbell to handicap and beat him hands down.

Mrs. Lew Shaw, the champion lady billiardist of the world, will join her husband in St. Louis within the next few days.

Miller and Guthrel will meet Tuesday night at the Royal in a special 35-point match at three cushions. Guthrel claimed he was the best safety player in St. Louis bar no one—hence the match.

Emery, the New Orleans professional, is a visitor in the city and is desirous of arranging a match game. Modesty is one of Mr. Emery's characteristics, but he is willing to meet anyone.

Melrose, the local expert, was dissatisfied with the result of the Gundacker-Kramer three-cushion match and now wants to wager $500 to $300 that Gundacker cannot repeat his victory under the same conditions that existed at the last match.

It is not geenrallyl known that Mrs. Hoppe, mother of the champion, is an excellent billiardist herself.

OF Interest to Inquirers

N. E.—Nat Langham, a middleweight, beat Tom Sayers prior to the latter's fight with Heenan by blinding him with smart punches in the eyes, a common trick of bare knuckle fighters. Sayers was strong at finish and could not see.

JESUIT COLLEGE TO PLAY RUGBY

Regardless of What Other Institutions May Do, St. Louis U. Will Stick to It.

St. Louis University will play whatever kind of Rugby football is fashionable next year, regardless of what other collegiate institutions may do.

This is the positive declaration of Father Pat Burke, prefect of athletics at the St. Louis University.

Father Burke is an enthusiastic supporter of Rugby and at one time was a very clever exponent of the game. Indeed, while at Detroit College he coached the team that won the championship pennant from the three other colleges of the Western conference.

"Rugby is too valuable a game for the benefit of college students to think for a moment of its abolition," said Father Burke Tuesday morning.

"Of course I believe the present rules will have to undergo some modifications, but the changes will be only minor ones, as the rules are substantially all that could be desired today.

"All this hue and cry about the dangers incident on the great college game are difficult to understand.

"In my opinion it is owing to the introduction of professionalism in the game; mismanagement on the part of college faculties themselves and the laxity and personal bias of officials in enforcing the rules as they are at present laid down."

RIPPLES of the Ring

Jake Kilrain, who was licked by Sullivan, has removed from Baltimore to New York. Kilrain is a rich man now, while his conqueror is living from hand to mouth.

Jem Mace, the last of the English bare-knuckle champions, keeps the Black Lion Hotel in Birmingham. He is 79 years old and is still very well preserved.

Pugilists of the early days lived to a ripe old age. Of the 24 champions of England, from Broughton to Sayers, only six failed to reach the age of 50 and three of these six lived well over 40. Broughton lived to be 85; Jim Ward, 81; Gully, 81, and Jackson, 80.

Bendigo, a well-known sporting name, inasmuch as it has been borne by the famous champions of the middle of the Nineteenth Century, by a great Irish racehorse and greyhounds and innumerable other sporting men and animals, took its derivation from the fact that William Thompson, the original Bendigo, who was the champion pugilist, had one of three sons born at one birth. Some wag who knew his Bible well, christened them Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. The last was corrupted into Bednego and very easily into Bendigo. He was one of the few and certainly the only one of the modern champions who fought with the right foot advanced in front of the deft.

In resolving to abandon rugby football unless the rules are amended to provide a clean and reasonably safe game, the great universities of the West, known as the Big Nine, have taken effective and sensible action. They do not proscribe rugby, which is, in itself, a splendid game. They merely place the obligation of keeping them in football upon the rules committee. In the parlance of the street, it is "up" to the rules committee.

It is too bad that the convention of the big colleges felt that the exigencies of the situation demanded that freshmen be barred from university teams. Freshmen are as thoroughly undergraduates and entitled to the honor of playing on the college teams as seniors. Representing his college is the worthiest ambition by which a young man can be animated. It is a very great pity that freshmen should be denied it and it will be well if the universities can find some way in which the one-year rule which debars freshmen from the teams can safely be rescinded. However, it is better that it should endure than that professionalism, proselytism and "missionary" work should be permitted to continue.

The Big Nine acted with rare prudence and forevision. The saving of rugby is now up to its parents and natural conservators, the rules committee.

Luther Burbank, the eminent botanist, horticulturist and agriculturist, says that it is impossible to improve the breed of plants, cereals and flowers without a grain separator. Mr. Burbank's ripe experience and deep knowledge leads him to agree with improvers of the breed of race horses, who insist that no permanent good can be accomplished without the aid of a coin separator.

What we hate particularly about these victories of young men over old champions is the springing of the Dr. Osler racket by the sporting paragraphists.

If Leander had been such a swimmer as Marquard Schwarz, never on Helles' narrow strait should rest the scandal of his fate. And she would have been a happy Hero instead of a weeping willow.

Abe Attell is getting along in the fighting world. He insists upon getting $500, win, lose or draw—or the other thing.

Jimmie Britt says that he is a gentleman and an American. All right, James. Is Hererra, who is what Tom Sharkey denominates a "Graiser," to be lightweight champion of America? Perish the thought. In with you, James, bold American and gallant Native Son of the Golden West. Remember the Alamo.

When Ireland is celebrating the installation of her Parliament in College Green (speed the day), we bet that Peter Maher will be there trying to make an honest dollar by fighting some one.

If I may be permitted to suggest it, would it not be well if the baseball reporters were to cut out, cease to write, or, at least, to print those silly "rube" stories of players, which have for some years been finding some sort of vogue?

The enormous appetite of certain players is dilated upon in gross jest; ignorance of the conduct in Pullman cars, lack of knowledge of enough French to read menu cards at hotels, surprise at sight of high buildings and large sums of money, playing billiards on board ship, have been deemed subjects worthy of dilation in the public prints.

Reflections upon the appetite of a man are very bad taste. So, also are criticisms on the cut and manner of making of his clothes. Commenting on a fellow's table manners, or the lack of them, is good cause for provoking a quarrel. We were not all born and reared on Pullman cars, aboard ship or in the slums of great cities. Nor have we all had a chance to study French in Paris.

Without doubt, there may be ballplayers who lack the table manner of head waiters, the knowledge of car porters, the sartorial taste of tailors, the appetites of canaries and knowledge of languages. But their lack of all these things does not place upon them the stigma of ill-breeding and bad manners half so positively as the retailment of criticism thereof marks the existence of these imperfections in the men who write comment on them in print.

Gentlemen do not publicly comment upon the table or bedroom manners, the sartorial taste or habit of conduct of other men. Writers who make a practice of doing so lay themselves open to the charge of boorishness. These "rube" stories should be cut out.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

KING OF ALL DISEASES

To Contagious Blood Poison rightfully belongs the name King of all Diseases. It is the most powerful of all human ailments—corrupting every part of the body and wrecking and ruining the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it. When the first sign appears in the form of an insignificant sore or ulcer, few persons realize that the deadly virus has entered the blood; but so potent is the poison that one drop will vitiate and pollute the purest and healthiest blood, and in a short time the degrading and horrible symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the neck and groins swell, the hair and eye-brows fall out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and in the latter stages of the disease the poison even works down and destroys the bones. No other disease is so highly contagious, and many have contracted it and suffered its awful consequences through a friendly hand-shake, handling the clothing of one afflicted with it, or drinking from the same vessel. S. S. S., The King of Blood Purifiers, is the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It goes down into the circulation and forces out every particle of the virus It is nature's antidote for this peculiar poison, and cures the disease in all its stages, and cures it permanently. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up any of the poison to break out in future years, but so completely eradicates it from the blood that no signs are ever seen again. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, we offer $1,000 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral of any kind. Book with instructions for home treatment and any medical advice you desire will be furnished by our physicians without charge.

My Serum Specific Treatment for Blood Poison is a certain remedy to absolutely cure the disease, removing every trace of poisonous taint and rebuilding the entire system from the damaging effects of any injurious drugs, leaving the patient with new flesh, new blood and in perfect health.

My method of curing Blood Poison is by Specific Serum that I introduce into the blood, and by its antagonism to the virus of blood poison the taint is ejected from the body, as well as the counteraction and removal of the effects of any injurious treatments. My serum treatment reorganizes the corpuscles of the blood, disorganizes, neutralizes and expels all poison from the system, and the corpuscles are renewed with fresh, pure blood, which supplies the tissues that rebuild the entire human organism, so that the whole body is restored to its normal strength and soundness.

My methods of curing Skin Diseases, Varicose and Hydrocystic Affections, Urinary Troubles, Embarrassing Weakness, Piles, Fistula, Rupture, Nervous Decline, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder are unequaled and recommended by the many I have cured of these diseases.

I CHARGE FOR CURES ONLY—I do not expect one cent for my services unless I cure a patient sound and well, so that he will be entirely satisfied, and will never again have to be treated for the same trouble—my patients receive a written agreement to this effect, which secures them against any possibility of loss should I fail to cure. BOY CONGRESSMAN'S WIFE DRAFTS BILL

Former Nebraska Girl Finds Short Cut to National Equal Suffrage.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NORFOLK, Neb., Jan. 23.—A former Nebraska girl, now the wife of the youngest Congressman in the United States, is behind a bill that has been introduced in the Congress for the purpose of giving to every woman in this country the right to vote on Congressional representatives. Mrs. Burton L. French, formerly Miss Winnie Hartley of Norfolk, is responsible for the bill. It had always been supposed that in order to allow women to vote in the United States it would be necessary to amend the Constitution, but Mrs. French of Idaho has discovered a short cut by passing a law allowing women to vote for Congressmen.

FALSE ARREST FATAL TO CLERK.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—A police mistake led to the tragic death of an inoffensive young man named Emile Capral at Marseilles.

Eight men and two women were arrested on a charge of being concerned in the audacious robbery from a mail wagon on Friday last. Some of these were found at a hotel, and others at the house of a tailor.

Among the men taken at the latter place was Capral, who energetically protested his innocence. Nevertheless, he was locked up. In the morning he was found dead in his cell, death having resulted from the effect of the excitement on a weak heart.

Investigations showed that Capral had no connection whatever with the robbery. He was a clerk in a shipping firm, and had called on the tailor about a new suit of clothes. He was leaving Marseilles to pay a visit to his fiancee's home.

BIG ESTATE FOR STEPSON'S FAMILY

Wealthy Grain Merchant Believed His Own Children Had Enough.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 23.—By the will of John P. Furlong, a wealthy grain dealer, opened in the Probate Court here, his own children are not to share in the estate, which is valued at $100,000 or more. All of the estate is to be divided among the four children of his stepson, Henry E. Hays.

This peculiar provision was made by Mr. Furlong to care for the four children on the belief that his own children were large enough and strong enough to care for themselves. Mr. Hays, father of the four children, and a son of Mr. Furlong's second wife, is said to be in destitute circumstances. The children of Mr. Furlong are Mrs. Etta Vaughn and Mrs. Clara J. Walker. The heirs of George Albert Furlong, a son of the dead grain dealer, who died several months ago, are also cut off.

BAGS OF GOLD SETTLE LOSSES, WIFE FORGIVES

Husband Who Disappeared With Wife's Bank Account Seeks Reconciliation.

HE PAYS HER INTEREST

Reputed to Have Grown Wealthy as Ranchman in West.

LOCATED BY HIS WIFE

She Visits Him With Little Son and Overtures Follow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEDFORD, Ind., Jan. 23.—Stephen Fountain, once a prosperous farmer of this county, but for several years a fugitive from justice, being charged by his wife and the local banks of this city with forgery, has cleared up the mystery of his disappearance in a romantic way.

Fountain's wife had on deposit in the Citizens National Bank $250 and in the Stone City Bank $1000 just previous to her husband leaving their home. It was learned that Fountain had been drawing on his wife's bank deposits on checks purporting to have been signed by her, and finally, after a family row, he drew the whole amounts remaining and left for parts unknown.

Mrs. Fountain brought suit against the banks for her deposits. She received a judgment against the Citizens' National Bank for the full amount and effected a compromise with the Stone City Bank, supposedly for the account held in their keeping.

Recently each bank received by express a bag of gold equal in amount to the funds drawn by Fountain and legal interest from the time of his disappearance to date. It is said there was no explanation with the shipment of gold, merely the name of the consignor.

It is said Mrs. Fountain, who still resides in her old homestead, went West last summer taking as her companion her little son. Her mission was not announced. It is now surmised that a reconciliation had been made between her and her husband, who is said to be a wealthy ranchman in the West, and that the consignments of gold to square his accounts are only a step toward his being reunited with his family.

The coin came through the American Express Co., making two large, bulky bags of the yellow metal.

It is said that Mrs. Fountain has traveled all through the West and visited many cattle ranches in search of her husband, whose love for that occupation had caused her to believe she would find him. That her efforts have been rewarded, is evident from the transactions.

13 WORDS BAFFLE 350 TEACHERS

Ex-Schoolma'am Scores on Actives in Senator Quay's County.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 23.—At the close of the Beaver County Teachers' Institute, held in this place, Dr. H. R. Pattengill gave out 13 common English words to be spelled, and some one or more of the 13 every one of the 350 Beaver County public school teachers spelled wrong. But one woman, Mrs. Arthur Lyons of Beaver, who has not been a teacher for years, spelled all the words correctly.

The words which Dr. Pattengill had given out were: Auxiliary, Tennessee, beefsteak, proceed, supersede, precede, picnicking, sleve, seize, siege, cylinder, succotash and desiccated.

This was Senator Quay's home county, and many are already wondering what sort of spelling will be most appropriate for the inscriptions on his forthcoming monument.

BEER BOTTLES AS AIDS TO SCIENCE.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—In March next, when Capt. Alexander Simpson reaches London he will find a much-travelled beer bottle awaiting him.

It was picked up on the coast of Portugal, and is one of a number which the captain has thrown overboard during his voyages. Capt. Simpson, who is now making his eightieth trip to Australia—which constitutes a record—is an enthusiastic scientist and a member of the Royal Meteorological Society.

For some fifteen years he has been experimenting, by the aid of sealed beer bottles, in the course and speed of the ocean currents. The bottles contain a request that when found they may be forwarded to him at the London offices of the Aberdeen Line. So far less than one a year has been returned.

Cynics are of the opinion that many of the bottles have been picked up by bibulous longshoremen, and broken in disgust when found to contain no beer.

BANK NOTE CHANGE FOOLS MERCHANTS.

CARLSRUHE, Jan. 23.—Several merchants here have been defrauded during the last few days by a well-dressed young man and woman by means of a bank-note trick.

Their plan was to enter a shop and, having selected articles to the value of $5 or $10, to tender a $250 bank-note in payment.

In each case they suggested that the note should be sent round to the bank for verification before being accepted by the firm. When the note was returned as correct, they declared they had changed their minds, and preferred not to take their purchases just then.

They left the shop, but returned a few minutes later and said they had decided to stick to the original bargain. They received the amount of the change due on their note, which was afterwards discovered to have been changed for a forgery.

PARIS HONORS MASTER OF SLEIGHT-OF-HAND.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Paris has just been celebrating the centenary of Robert Houdin, the great illusionist who raised sleight of hand from degradation to the dignity of a profession, just as Mr. Maskelyne has formed a society to try and raise it to the dignity of an art. Houdin's acquaintance with the card-sharpers of Europe was amazingly extensive, and their skill—as discovered by him—was equally amazing. Indeed, he stated that the clever sharps, after playing a few hands with a new ("unfaked") pack of cards, could recognize many by their backs! A gang whom he came across had discovered that a doctor at a fashionable Continental watering-place had a considerable fortune. One accordingly became an invalid, called in the doctor, inveigled him into playing cards, and relieved him of most of his fortune. Houdin's investigations proved that it is knowledge of human nature, the confidence trick, the appeal to cupidity, which are of greater importance to the sharper than quickness of hand. He discovered a simple way for a dealer to ascertain when he is dealing court cards. He should press the card firmly against the pack, a court card, having gum used in the paint on its face, sticks slightly to the card beneath it.

Fell Four Feet, Killed.

A fall from a plank four feet above the ground was fatal to John Fitzgerald of 210 South Second street, 53 years old. His head struck the granitoid pavement at the plant of the A. J. Walter Candy Co., 14 South Third street, fracturing his skull. He was taken unconscious to City Hospital, where he died Monday evening. It is thought apoplexy caused the fall. Fitzgerald was unmarried.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

The Bridge Arbitrary

is not the chief argument in favor of

East St. Louis

Aside from effectively settling the question of "bridge arbitrary," a location in East St. Louis means infinitely more to you, Mr. Manufacturer.

It means that you are on the right side of the river, on the fuel side, on the railroad side, on the side where factory and warehouse sites can be had at reasonable figures.

The terminal facilities of East St. Louis are the best in the country. We have 21 terminal lines—St. Louis has 7. Even with an additional bridge the terminal facilities of St. Louis will never equal the facilities East St. Louis now has. There's an argument here.

Our Advantages Are Yours

East St. Louis wants more factories—more warehouses, and offers more and better facilities for such locations than any other point. Locations here are nearer the business center of St. Louis than locations in the southern or western portions of St. Louis. With our extensive terminal facilities deliveries are very prompt and outgoing shipments are expeditiously handled.

We have any number of factory sites, with acreage to suit, at very low prices. If you are interested we'll assist you in locating here. If you locate now you get absolute exemption from city taxes and teaming license for a term of years. Write today, while this is fresh in your mind, for full particulars.

URIC ACID GRAVEL

IS CAUSED BY THE KIDNEYS BEING UNABLE TO CARRY THE POISONOUS WASTE MATTERS OUT OF THE BLOOD.

The urine of persons suffering from uric acid or gravel is generally scanty, and after it has stood a while, a reddish sediment like brick dust forms in it. In advanced stages the uric acid sometimes appears as fine sand, or large crystals.

Those who pass gravel in any considerable quantity are usually troubled with inflammation of the kidneys, bladder and urinary organs, sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gout and rheumatism.

CURED BY WARNER'S SAFE CURE.

"I have used Safe Cure for chills caused by uric acid poison in my system and I have been perfectly cured. It has done for me what I have never known any other medicine to do. It cures people in the South who suffer much from malaria, which always affects the kidneys. If all the doctors would prescribe Safe Cure instead of quinine for cases of malaria there would be less bad after effects, as quinine does not remove the disease germs from the system like Safe Cure. I take 'Safe Pills' when I need a gentle laxative."—Mrs. M. E. DEAN, Treas. Lotus Club, Chattanooga, Tenn.

THIS TEST WILL TELL:

Put some urine in a glass or bottle. After it has stood 24 hours, if it is cloudy, or contains a reddish-brown sediment, or if particles float about in it your kidneys are diseased and unable to do their work, and if not attended to at once Bright's Disease, diabetes, rheumatism, gout, uric acid, inflammation of the bladder, gall-stones or urinary troubles will develop and prove fatal in a short time.

Safe Cure is the only absolutely safe and certain cure for all these forms of kidney, liver and bladder diseases. It is purely vegetable, free from harmful drugs found in many so-called kidney cures, contains no sediment and is pleasant to take.

For sale at all drug stores, or direct, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

ANALYSIS FREE.

If after making this test you have any doubt as to the development of the disease in your system, send a sample of your urine to the Medical Department, Warner Safe Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y., and our doctors will analyze it and send you a report, with advice and medical booklet, free.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES AND IMITATIONS

They are worthless and very often exceedingly dangerous. Ask for Warner's Safe Cure, it will cure you.

DIPLOMATS FUSS OVER MISS ALICE

Ambassadors Call Wedding Gift Meeting and Ministers Aren't Invited.

THEY ARE VERY ANGRY

Meanwhile, Miss Roosevelt Continues to Attend Parties and Things.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Miss Alice Roosevelt's coming marriage has caused an upheaval in diplomatic circles in Washington, and a division in the ranks is threatened in consequence.

Some days ago the question came up among certain of the foreign representatives as to whether or not it would be proper to send Miss Roosevelt a joint wedding gift. The Austrian Ambassador, Mr. Hengelmueller, who, in the absence of the Italian Ambassador, is the dean of the corps, called a meeting of the Ambassadors to formally consider the question. Ambassador Hengelmueller failed to serve notice on the Ministers, and that makes the trouble.

South American representatives and those from other countries, and others who are only credited with a ministry, are indignant that they should not have been invited. When Ambassador Hengelmueller called the meeting several days ago he manifestly had no idea of the consequences. The thing that jars the Ministers is that this same idea has been in the minds of various of the lesser diplomats for some time. A number of them merely know Miss Roosevelt officially and they were in a quandary as to the proper course to pursue in the matter.

Might Be "Presumption."

They held to the theory that, as they were not intimately acquainted with the President's daughter, it might be bordering on presumption to send a personal gift. Then the question of sending a joint present came up and it was believed that this was an ideal idea.

A number of the diplomats will send personal gifts in any case. The German ambassador and Baroness Von Sternberg are among the most intimate friends of the President's family and will, of course, be included among the wedding guests. Inasmuch as the Kaiser has expressed his intention of sending a case of china, and it is known that the Emperor of Japan and the Czar will do likewise, it is very probable that many other countries will take their cue and dispatch special gifts through their respective envoys.

In the meantime, Miss Alice is not bothering her head about any of those things, but is going on her way rejoicing and is receiving attention no other American girls have known. This week is entirely filled with dinner invitations, and, while Miss Roosevelt's girl friends are fast playing out through the incessant round of entertainments to which almost the selfsame crowd is invitetd, the President's daughter is good for many more yet and looks it. She is the picture of health and whether at the theater, dinner or dance, her spirits never ebb.

WIFE WAS HATED AND WIDOW FETED

Mrs. Caldwell Says Diamonds Were All for "Other Woman."

Charging that her husband told her that he didn't know whether to give up her or another woman, that he took the other woman driving, to the theater and to dinner, bought diamonds and other jewelry for her and once described her to his wife, Mrs. Margaret S. Caldwell of 2700 North Grand avenue has filed suit for divorce from Joseph F. Caldwell.

The couple were married in Kansas City, Kan., March 10, 1891, and separated last Friday. Mrs. Caldwell avers in her petition that her husband often displayed a violent temper and treated her with coldness and contempt. She states that he has property worth over $40,000, and asks for alimony and the restoration of her maiden name, Margaret Rose.

Attorney H. M. Femmer, representing Mrs. Caldwell, said Tuesday that the "other woman" was a widow whom Caldwell met after he and his wife were married.

Mrs. Betsy E. Jernegan has filed suit for divorce from Prescott Ford Jernegan, whom she married May 25, 1892, alleging that he deserted her Oct. 26, 1899, after she had gone with him to Europe in 1898. She alleges that Jernegan left her and her child, after returning to America and visiting her and their child at her father's home in Massachusetts on the night of Sept. 12, 1900, and said that he was going to the Far West and could not take them with him.

Mrs. Jernegan states in her petition that her husband has been in the Philippine Islands and the West since he deserted her.

Other divorce suits filed Monday were: Wilson Foster against Laura Foster, alleging desertion, and Andrew L. Harding against Mary J. Harding, the same allegation.

STORM STARVED PASSENGERS ON FIRST TRAIN

Blizzard Spoils Inauguration of Service on New White River Road.

Landslides Held Cars for Hours in Wind and Sleet Between Stations.

DERAILED BY BOULDER

Some Hungry Passengers Walk Miles to Nearest Town, Others Famish.

JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 23.—With the big blizzard and the new roadbed, passengers on the initial passenger train of the White River Branch of the Missouri Pacific, which has just reached Joplin 25 hours late, had an experience which they will not be anxious to repeat.

The road, which has just been completed, runs from Joplin to Newport, Ark., tapping a rich mining district. The inaugural passenger train left the southern terminus of the branch Sunday morning.

It was wrecked near Mount Olive, Ark., by a boulder which had fallen across the track from the mountainside. Engineer Robert Pennington and Fireman Henry Jones jumped when they saw the boulder and Jones sustained injuries which may result in his death. The engine, tender and mail car were derailed.

Stalled All Night.

The passengers were penned in all day without food or warm drink. Outside one of the fiercest snowstorms ever known in the district was raging and to walk to Mount Olive was out of the question. At 4 o'clock another engine had been secured, the wrecked engine placed upon the rails and the journey again began.

Two miles north of Cotter, Ark., the train encountered a landslide at the opening of a tunnel. Several hundred tons of earth had fallen across the track in a deep cut and the train was not able to proceed until the following morning.

Some of the passengers walked back to Cotter, but many remained in the cars all night, suffering intensely from hunger and lack of accommodations.

At a late hour last night report reached here that the southbound train had encountered a washout 20 miles south of Zinc, Ark., and was unable to proceed.

FATAL WRECK DUE TO STORM WASHOUT.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., Jan. 23.—One man killed, one fatally injured and several seriously injured is the record of a bad freight wreck on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, between here and Terre Haute, Ind., due to a washout, resulting from the severe rains preceding the blizzard. The washout was eight feet deep. The train was an empty double-header freight of 76 cars.

The dead man is Fireman E. O. Shirley of Terre Haute, who was crushed under one of the engines. Fireman B. B. Simmons of Aurora, Ill., was badly injured about the body, as was William Burgess of Clinton, Ind., both of whose legs were broken, and Fireman Eli Shelby, also of Clinton. Shelby's condition is serious.

Both of the engines plunged into the washout and five cars piled on top of them. An emergency train was sent from Terre Haute, and the work of relief and clearing away the debris was conducted in the storm under the direction of Supt. J. C. Muir of Danville. The injured were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Terre Haute, to which city the remains of Shirley were also taken.

NO HONORS AT RAMSEY FUNERAL

Captain Who Protested Against Embalmed Beef Buried as Civilian.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Without as much as a corporal's guard to render the last honors, Capt. Frank DeWitt Ramsey of the General Staff of the United States Army was brought from Washington and interred at Cobleskill, Scoharie County. The funeral was attended by personal friends, but there was nothing to distinguish the funeral from that of a civilian, while there were many reasons for an impressive military funeral.

There is great indignation among the friends of the dead officer. One of them said today:

"The body was expressed to Albany in pretty much the same manner as a piece of merchandise would be sent. There was nothing to indicate to the world that it was the body of a man who had achieved great and merited distinction.

"Capt. Ramsey was the man who decided that the United States army in Cuba was being fed embalmed beef. Capt. Ramsey also rendered noted service in the Philippines and in China. He was a member of the General Staff, and, altogether, his record entitled him to the highest honors usually paid an officer of his rank by the Government."

The sales of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis each day are greater than the number of St. Louis homes.
"First in everything."

DRIVEN INSANE BY BATTLE WITH SEA

British Steamer Rescues Five Sailors From Storm-Tossed Schooner.

CAPTAIN WAS DROWNED

Crew Lashed to Pumps After Consuming Last of Food and Water.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 23.—The British steamship Balakani, Capt. John Hewitt, has reached port with five survivors of the shipwrecked schooner, Gwaldys, who are in pitiable condition after the terrible trials in midocean. The Captain of the schooner, Frederick Carpenter, was swept from the deck of the vessel while it was battling with the storm on Jan. 1.

The Gwaldys was from Newfoundland to Bristol, England, and was five days out when it encountered terrific storms. The schooner sprung a leak. All hands were sent to the pumps and night and day for four days the men battled in the face of the rough seas until death claimed two of them, and the others became too exhausted to continue the fight.

One of the strongest of the crew lashed his comrades to the pumps after consuming the last bite of food and the last drop of water. In this condition they prepared for death, but the schooner remained aflot and for four days the Gwaldys drifted with the sea until discovered by the Balakani, which went to its rescue.

Every Man Volunteers.

A storm was raging at the time and the work was attended with the greatest danger. In answer to Capt. Hewitt's call for volunteers every member of his crew of 60 responded. It was several hours before they could attempt a release of the imprisoned sailors on the schooner. When they finally got them on board the ship it was found that two had lost their reason and the other three were on the verge of collapse from hunger and exposure.

They were given the best of care and, while their condition is still serious, it is believed they will pull through.

Capt. Carpenter was trying to save the last sack of food for his men when he was washed from the deck and swept to sea.

The survivors are James McCarthy, John Bolt, Michael Hedge, Thomas Morris and Michael Sweeney.

FREE BRIDGE MEN RULE MILLION CLUB

L. D. Kingsland Heads New Committee—Will Alter Constitution.

The new Executive Committee of the Million Club, headed by L. D. Kingsland, chairman of the Joint Committee on Free Bridge, will hold a meeting the latter part of this week.

Every member of the Executive Committee was elected from the ranks of free bridge advocates. The other members are: Vive-President James A. Reardon; secretary and treasurer, Charles F. Ziebold; J. E. Spangler, E. P. Lampkin, Charles F. Busche, Ben Westhus, Manley G. Ricmond and J. H. McCabe.

A subcommittee composed of Messrs. Spangler, Westhus and Ziebold was appointed to draft amendments to the constitution and by-laws of the organization.

In discussing the appointment of this committee dissatisfaction was expressed with the past year's record of the club, and the word "reorganization" was used; but this was abandoned for the phrase, "amending the constitution." The election was held Monday evening.

TO THEBES BRIDGE BY TROLLEY LINE

New Electric Road Along River Will Make High Speed.

Construction of an electric road from St. Louis to Hillsboro, Jefferson County, to be known as the St. Louis, Hillsboro & Southern, will begin March 1, and will be completed within a year, according to the announcement of H. M. Bowen, vice-president and general manager.

Contracts for the roadbed construction, electrical equipment and rolling stock have already been let. The management announces that the passenger cars will be of handsome design, capable of maintaining a speed of 60 miles an hour, and that a schedule of 85 minutes to Hillsboro will be put in force. This allows 45 minutes for running from the Courthouse to River des Peres. The remainder of the distance is 40 miles.

Ten acres in South St. Louis, partly inside the city limits, will be used for terminals.

Stock for $1,200,000, necessary for the construction of the line to Hillsboro, has already been underwritten. In addition to this $1,500,000 for an extension south of Hillsboro will be raised in New York, according to present plans of the company. The through road is planned to reach Thebes Bridge, 140 miles south of St. Louis. The River des Peres may be widened to admit coal barges to the new terminals from the Mississippi.

MAKE GIFT TO YACHT.

Witte and Rosen Repay Hospitality With a Punchbowl.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Baron Rosen, the Russian Ambassador, has presented to the yacht Mayflower, in behalf of himself and Count Witte, the Russian delegate to the peace congress between Russia and Japan, a handsome punch bowl in recognition of the hospitality extended to them on board the vessel during the conference. Secretary Bonaparte entertained the Russian Ambassador and the embassy on board the Mayflower, when the gift was formally presented.

The punch bowl is of Russian silver, flanked by a knight-at-arms in the Middle Ages, accoutered with a shield and battle ax. The bowl is elaborately chased and is decorated with a

SAVE 27 FROM STEAMER SUNK IN COLLISION

Boston-Bound Liner Goes Down After Accident in Heavy Fog.

ENTIRE CREW IS SAVED

Nacooche and the Trojan Crash in Vineyard Sound Sunday.

BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The loss of the steamer Trojan of the Boston and Philadelphia line, in collision with the steamer Nacoochee of the Savannah line, in Vineyard Sound last Sunday, was reported here today by the Nacoochee, which arrived with the captain and crew of the Trojan on board.

The accident was due to fog. The Nacoochee struck the Trojan amidships and the latter went to the bottom within three-quarters of an hour. Capt. Thatcher and the crew of 27 men of the Trojan were taken off by men from the Nacoochee.

The Nacoochee sustained only slight damage. The collision occurred about one mile outside the station at Vineyard Sound lightship, shortly after 11 o'clock Sunday forenoon. Both steamers were bound northward, the Nacoochee from Savannah and the Trojan from Philadelphia, both for Boston.

WARRANTS NEXT FOR BIG CLUBS

Excise Commissioner Confers With Prosecuting Officials Preparatory to Action.

POLICEMEN GET EVIDENCE

Mulvihill Declares He Means Business and Will Cause Arrests.

Excise Commissioner Mulvihill expects to have evidence within two or three days which will justify him in applying for warrants against officers of leading clubs, charging them with selling liquor without a license.

Two special officers and a policeman have been assigned to him for the purpose and have received instructions as to what is expected of them and what kind of evidence is desired. Mr. Mulvihill took the three men with him to Four Courts Tuesday and discussed his plans with Prosecuting Attorney Dalton and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Thomas in their presence.

He first called on Mr. Dalton and asked him to have the case against the Monticello Club, against which a warrant was issued last week, charging liquor-selling without a license, tried as soon as possible. He then had a conference with Mr. Thomas relative to the prospective issuance of warrants.

He told Mr. Thomas that he was going to proceed energetically and without delay against the big clubs. He had been delayed a little because he had been busy with the work of issuing licenses, but now that he had caught up with that work he intended to show that he had not been bluffing, he says.

No Privileges Conferred.

He stated it as his view that there was nothing in the fact that club members paid initiation fees and membership fees to release the club from paying license for the sale of liquor.

"As long as liquor is being sold at a club the law is being violated," he said. "Membership in a club does not entitle a man to a bottle of wine without paying for it. He calls for wine and a card is handed him, showing the wines that may be had and the prices. He pays for what he drinks, just the same as at a saloon or hotel. Membership does not confer any privileges except those of washing one's hands, or writing a letter or reading the papers. Any one may have the same privileges at any hotel, whether a guest or not."

The special officers detailed to get evidence against the big clubs are Nally and Durnan. The policeman is Maloney.

After talking with Mr. Thomas, in the presence of a reporter, Mr. Mulvihill had a more extended conference with him in the presence of the three policemen only.

Crowns Worth Millions.

The lightest of European crowns is the State crown of Great Britain, which was made for Queen Victoria. Although it weighs only two pounds seven ounces, its value is $1,500,000. One enormous sapphire came from the signet of Edward the Confessor. In the Pope's treasure house are two crowns which are valued at $2,000,000. One of them was the gift of Napoleon to Pius VII, and contains the largest emerald in the world. The other, the gift of Queen Isabella of Spain, to Pius IX, weighs three pounds and is worth $2,000,000.

MISSOURI FARMER FROZEN TO DEATH.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Mo., Jan. 23.—In the severe blizzard yesterday Louis Diener, a farmer whose home is a few miles west of here, was frozen to death. He was found dead near his home yesterday morning.

Diener had been in town and on his way home fell off his horse and was unable to get home. The supposition is that he was injured by the fall. He was about 65 years old.

Japan Improves Harbors.

All the principal harbors of the Mikado's empire will be considerably improved. The municipality of Yokohama has just appropriated the amount of $1,500,000 for harbor improvements at that port. Large sums have also been set aside by the government for increasing the capacity of its arsenals and naval yards.

Other Municipal Papers of Value Disappear From Buffalo Vault.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 23.—Grover Cleveland's famous veto message, written when he was Mayor of Buffalo in 1882, which made him known to the rest of the country, has disappeared from the vaults in the City Hall. With it have gone more than a hundred other public documents, including bonds of public officials, claims against the city, objections to assessment rates and grants for franchises.

Cleveland's message is the most notable of the missing documents from a historical point of view. It was his first public expression on graft. Politicians believe that it led to his nomination for Governor and started him on his way to the White House.

The city had received bids for street cleaning work in 1882 and the Common Council had voted in favor of awarding the contract to contractors who wanted considerably more than the lowest bids submitted. The Mayor referred to these facts in his message and then said:

Famous Graft Sarcasm.

"This extreme tenderness and consideration for those who desire to contract with the city, and this touching and paternal solicitude, lest they should be improvidently led into a bad bargain, is, I am sure, an exception to general business rules and seems to have no place in this selfish, sordid world, except as found in the administration of municipal affairs."

Concluding the message, the Mayor said:

"We are fast gaining positions in the grades of public stewardship. There is no middle ground. Those who are not for the people, either in or out of your honorable body, are against them, and should be treated accordingly."

The fact that the records in City Hall had apparently been tampered with was discovered by an extra clerk appointed by Mayor Adams. A rigid investigation is in progress under direction of the new Mayor, who already had his hands more than full of pension land scandals, grants of streets to public corporations and other public matters.

HUSBAND DIDN'T TALK BACK, FREED

William Rademacher, Arrested When With Housekeeper, Released by Court.

WIFE WAS PROSECUTOR

Told How He Heard Her Lecture After Other Woman Demanded Child.

Owing to her unfamiliarity with the law of Missouri and Illinois, Mrs. Neenah Rademacher, 3501 Osage street, said her husband, Will Rademacher of Coffeen, Ill., walked from City Hall Police Court Tuesday morning at liberty to return to his home, with Mrs. May McGrath, the housekeeper whom he sent to his wife with a demand for the 2-year-old son of the Rademachers.

Judge Tracy, before whom Rademacher appeared on a charge of disturbing the peace of his wife, stated in discharging the defendant that while he was not technically guilty of raising a disturbance, the case was undoubtedly one for the higher courts.

At the Four Courts, where Mrs. Rademacher applied for a warrant charging wife abandonment, she was informed that as the separation had occurred in Illinois, no warrant could be issued in Missouri.

The arrest and trial of Rademacher followed a scene Sunday night at Park and Grand avenues, in which the wife, the husband and the housekeeper figured. To the fact that Rademacher kept still and was a passive witness to the altercation he owed his discharge from court Tuesday morning.

In her testimony before Judge Tracy Mrs. Rademacher stated that she had lived at 3501 Osage with her parents since the separation from her husband a month ago. Sunday night, she said, Mrs. McGrath, whom she described as a buxom young woman of 22, rang the door bell and announced that she had visited St. Louis at the request of Mr. Rademacher to secure possession of his 2-year-old son, Will Jr. Mrs. Rademacher said she had been informed that her husband's housekeeper was 44 years old, and when she saw the handsome young woman she admitted she was angry.

Gave Husband Tongue-Lashing.

Denouncing the woman and ordering her from the house, Mrs. Rademacher told the Judge that she followed her to Park and Grand avenues, where she saw Mrs. McGrath greet Rademacher.

"The sight of my husband talking to a woman who had had the audacity to ask me for my child was too much for me," testified Mrs. Rademacher, "and I just tongue-lashed the both of them till an officer came in sight. I then had my husband arrested."

Judge Tracy listened attentively to the wife's testimony, but as she admitted that her husband had made no response, and had made no move to molest her, he was compelled to discharge him, with the remark that it was a case for another court. Rademacher, represented by Attorney Calvin Miller, was not called upon to testify. He left the court hurriedly and went in a different direction than that taken by his wife. Mrs. McGrath was not in court.

The couple, both young, were married in St. Louis in 1902. They resided here until 1904, when they removed to a farm at Coffeen, Ill., a few miles from Greenville.

PROVERB AND CELEBRITY ARE AMUSING LONDON.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Although the "Book Tea" and the "Play Tea" disappeared from the suburbs of London some years ago and are now regarded as obsolete forms of entertainment, there are still some quiet provincial and seaside places where the feminine portion of the population whose tastes do not lie in the direction of golf and hockey devote their afternoons to such guessing competitions as "Proverb Teas," "Celebrity Teas," "Zoo Teas" and many others.

The hostess who proposes to give such an entertainment sends out her formal invitations for an "At home" with the word "Celebrities" or "Proverbs" and so on, in the left-hand corner of the card.

In the former case the unlucky victim who is misguided enough to be enticed into attending has pinned on her back as soon as she arrives the name of some celebrity. She then wanders about accosting every one with questions such as "Am I alive or dead?" "What century did I live in?" "Am I male or female?"

And as there is no stipulation as to the period or the character of the celebrity which one may represent, the scope for guesswork is unlimited, and one may be either Alfred the Great or Mr. Balfour. It also affords a lamentable exhibition of the ignorance shown by some well educated people in the matter of historical dates.

The "Proverb" tea is slightly simpler. The hostess merely collects as many proverbs as possible, writes them out on slips of paper, cuts the slips into several sections, and pins the sections on the chairs, table cloths and curtains. The guests' business is to fit as many as possible together again in their right order.

Whistler "Getting Off."

Whistler, the painter, was one day dining in the Cafe Neapolitan in Paris when some undesirable acquaintance accosted him. "Well, Mr. Whistler, and how are you getting on?" said he. "I'm not," said Whistler, finishing his absinthe and putting on his hat. "I'm getting off."

SAY LIEUTENANT APPROVED HAZING

Witnesses Testify He Went Away So as Not to Interfere With the Sport.

ROOSEVELT CADET NEXT

Case of Midshipman Mann, Appoited by President, Comes Before Court.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 23.—Lieut. C. P. Snyder, who had been accused by the testimony of several midshipmen witnesses in the case of First-class man Claude B. Mayo, charged with hazing, of hinting to upper-class men that new midshipmen should be hazed, and of going from the building in order that the opportunity might be afforded, was recalled to the stand at the opening of the session this morning. He was called in rebuttal by the Judge-Advocate.

Immediately on the conclusion of the case against Mayo, who is from Columbus, Miss., the Court will begin the trial of Midshipman Richard R. Mann, also a first-class man and an appointee of President Roosevelt.

The only other midshipman now under arrest on charges of hazing is Ned L. Chapin of Pasadena, Cal. He is a first-class man also, and last year stood No. 23 in his studies in the class of 122 members.

KANSAS OIL MEN APPEAL FOR AID

Independents Allege Conspiracy Between the Standard and the Railroads.

CHANUTE, Kan., Jan. 23.—The independent oil refiners of Kansas have mailed to James B. Garfield, Commissioner of Corporations of the Department of Commerce and Labor, an appeal for justice against the alleged conspiracy between the Standard Oil Co. and the railroads to shut Kansas oil out of the market.

The refiners who sign the appeal are Clifford Thorne, A. F. Robertson, F. S. Bennet, C. W. Waster, J. M. Cameron, A. Keassman, D. O. McGee and C. E. Martin. These men own eight refineries now in operation, besides two in course of erection at Atchison and Kansas City, Kan. They have invested more than $1,000,000 in refineries, tank cars, storage tanks, wagons and barrels.

Say They're Shut Out.

They claim that by reason of a conspiracy between the Standard Oil Co. and the railroad system of the Southwest, particularly those railroads operating in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Arkansas, Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, they are limited to the State of Kansas for a market for their refined oil; that to all points outside Kansas the freight rates on all the products of crude petroleum are unreasonably high, and have been maintained at such unreasonably high rates for the express purpose, and for no other purpose, than to confine business of independent refineries to the State of Kansas.

Fined for Hitting Newsboy.

Gershback testified that at Broadway and Pine street Monday he asked Hirt to buy a newspaper. Hirt became so angry that he struck Gershback.

KOEHLER WINS "CRIBBER" SUIT

Court Rules He Needn't Pay H. A. Hauessler for "Stump-sucking" Horse.

RICH EXPERTS IN COURT

Brewer Has Many Horse Fanciers Testify on Evils of "Cribbing."

On the testimony of wealthy St. Louis lovers of horses that they wouldn't want to own a "stump-sucker," Justice Spaulding Tuesday gave a verdict for Casper Koehler, the brewer, in the suit of Herman A. Haeussler, attorney, for $160, the price of a horse which he sold to Mr. Koehler. Mr. Koehler said the horse was a "stump-sucker" and had refused to pay.

Dinks L. Parrish, former owner of "Forest King," noted saddler; James H. Bright, judge at the St. Louis Horse Show and similar events in other cities; Zach W. Tinker, fancier of thoroughbreds, and Herritt Marshall, who deals in them, were among those put on the stand. August A. Busch, Tom J. Landrum, G. Lacy Crawford and John S. Bratton were summoned, but did not appear.

Mr. Haeussler was the first witness. He testified briefly to Mr. Koehler's agreement to pay $160 for the horse, and to the animal's delivery at the brewer's stable Oct. 6, last. He said he didn't know the horse was a "stump-sucker."

Louis Smart, negro coachman for Mr. Haeussler, testified that he had been handling horses 14 years, but said he didn't know whether "stump-sucking" or "cribbing" was a serious blemish. He was asked by Harry B. Hawes, attorney for Mr. Koehler, whether he had warned the purchaser that the horse he was buying had that fault, and said that he did not. He did tell Mr. Koehler that the horse was afraid of automobiles.

First Price, $275.

Mr. Koehler said:

"Mr. Haeussler wanted $275 for the horse, but I refused to pay that, although I needed him badly. It was finally agreed that I was to pay $160.

"As soon as I learned the horse was a 'cribber' I had him sent back to Mr. Hauessler's stables. I did not know of the fault for a couple of days, as my veterinarian did not examine him at once."

H. H. Hauessler, son of the plaintiff, acted as his father's attorney. Cross-examining Mr. Koehler, he asked if the witness had not promised over the telephone to send a check for $160 at once to Mr. Hauessler. Mr. Koehler answered with some heat:

"Yes, I did, but I didn't know then that the horse was a 'stumpsucker.' I wasn't going to pay for a practically worthless animal. When the telephone conversation took place I was under the impression the horse was all right."

George Lewis, Mr. Koehler's negro coachman, said when he took the horse back to Mr. Hauessler's stable he found one stall lined with sheetiron, and the animal was put in this stall. Metal lining is sometimes used in stalls, he testified, to prevent 'cribbers' from gnawing the wood.

Had Other Faults.

Dr. W. F. Heyde, Mr. Koehler's veterinarian, startled the court and the spectators who crowded the room by stating that he found the horse to be "second-handed" and "cut out in the knees," as well as a "windsucker." He said "stumpsucking" was an incurable fault in a horse, that it ruined digestion and that the animal's stomach sometimes became so filled with air as to make an operation necessary.

Mr. Farrish said "cribbinb" was a serious blemish.

"I wouldn't care to own a horse with the habit," he said. "I wouldn't buy one if I knew he sucked wind. No, I have never owned a 'cribber!'"

Mr. Tinker was asked whether he had ever owned a "stumpsucker" and replied that he had, once.

"How did you get him?" Mr. Hawes asked.

"Took him for a bad debt," said Mr. Tinker. "Afterwards I made the fellow take him back and pay me half the money."

Mr. Bright said he had never heard of a "stumpsucker" being cured. The habit, he said, was often the cause of bad teeth and bad digestion. He wouldn't care to own a horse of that kind.

Mr. Marshall said some "cribbers" were kept in good condition and proved to be first-rate horses, but that he wouldn't buy one if he knew he had the habit.

Mr. Hauessler, the son, declined to make any argument. Mr. Hawes said it was a case of David Harum getting rid of a "bad 'un." Justice Spalding decided in favor of Mr. Koehler.

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes. "First in everything."

LEW FIELDS TELLS HOW HE MISSES JOE WEBER

Chums and Partners for 27 Years—New Play on New Lines.

Although Lew Fields, now appearing in "It Happened in Nordland" at the Olympic, has scored the biggest success of his life since dissolving partnership with Joe Weber, he is nevertheless lonesome without his old partner.

"I miss him most after the performances," said the Secretary of Nordland's Navy to a Post-Dispatch man at the Southern Hotel Tuesday. "We were always together when our work was over, and when you're chums with a man that way the loss of his companionship is keenly felt.

"Joe Weber and I were partners for 27 years. We went to the same school together, the old Allen Street Public School in New York City, and even then we were comrades. We did amateur stunts together for the entertainment of our schoolmates, and we dreamed together of going on the stage as a song and dance team. Our first real public appearance was at old Turner Hall in New York, and we did a black-face act in an entertainment for some local charity. Pretty soon after that we secured an engagement at a variety theater, and this was the beginning of our long professional association. Fourteen years ago we appeared at the Standard Theater, here in St. Louis. Finally we organized our own New York company, and soon after that we established a New York theater of our own.

"I have been so successful in 'It Happened in Nordland' that I shall not think of a new play for at least a year, but I have one in mind that will be different from anything I have yet tried—that is, different, in so far that I shall recognize a change in the public demand. It seems to me that the play-going public has seen so many big musical comedies of late years and that now it will welcome a variation—something along the same lines, but with more of a story and less of the conventional show-girl chorus and such features. Playgoers still want plenty of fun in an entertainment, but I believe they will relish fun that is developed from a story. This I shall try to give them in my next production, and I feel confident that I am right in my judgment as to what they want.

"In my work I have always tried to discover what the public liked and give it to them. The player who does otherwise makes a big blunder, for the public knows very well what it wants, and generally there is good reason for what it demands. It is the best of all critics, both of plays and players, and success or failure depends upon its verdict.

"What I try to do in my business is always to have the human element vital in the fun. Anybody can be funny in a certain way. If you fall on the stage or collide with the scenery or have any physical mishap, that's funny in a degree, but the real fun that catches on and holds the favor of an audience is grounded on some comical aspect of genuine human nature. Humanness—that's what you've got to have to be genuinely funny. And I mean to get lots of it in my next play and cut out much of the conventional stuff that has been too much in evidence of recent years. I want a play that tells a truly humorous story, connected and consistent from beginning to end, and that gives me a congenial character along lines with which the public already associates me. I'm figuring on just such a play now."

POST-DISPATCH'S RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

LOCAL SECURITIES ARE REACTIONARY

Selling Is Better Than the Buying at Today's Session.

BOND DEMAND GOOD

Railways Fours Are the Favorite, and at a Higher Level.

The local stock market was reactionary today and nearly all the sales and quotations were unchanged or at the expense of values. The demand in the bond list was fairly good and United Railways 4s were the favorite.

United Railways preferred, on moderate offerings, declined a fraction to $86.25 and the demand in the common stock issue was slack. The bonds were higher on sales at $88.50 and $88.62½. Brown Bros. subscriptions were firm.

In the bank and trust list the sales were small. Missouri-Lincoln Trust was steady on small sales at $138.50 and St. Louis Union was easy at $392. American Credit Indemnity was steady at $180.50. Commonwealth Trust sold ½ point lower at $338. Third National Bank was easy at $322.

In the miscellaneous list the demand was light and no sales were recorded. Alton Granite common was again higher on bids at $66 and no offerings.

New York Life Suit Ends.

The injunction suit of the New York Life Insurance Co. against W. D. Vandiver, State Superintendent of Insurance, to prevent him from enforcing his order ousting the company from the State, was dismissed Tuesday in the United States Circuit Court by the insurance company. It is stated that this action has been expected since Supt. Vandiver, two weeks ago, withdrew his order following the resignation of President McCall and the restoration of $325,000, according to Vandiver's demand.

Usury Law Is Valid.

By a decision handed down from the Supreme Court at Jefferson City Tuesday, denying a motion for a rehearing in the case of Edward Lentz, a St. Louis County pawnbroker, arrested on a charge of usurious interest, the constitutionality and legality of the Missouri usury laws was determined. Lentz had applied for release on habeas corpus proceedings and attacked the constitutionality of the law. The Supreme Court sustained the law and remanded him for trial. He applied for a rehearing, which was denied.

COLORADO FUEL IS MARKET'S FEATURE

Big Rise in This Security in the Last Hour Injects New Life into a Declining Market, and Closing Prices Show Little Change From Yesterday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Wall street's opening was feverish and uncertain with the buying and selling about on a parity. Reading was again the feature, rising 1¼ points on sales at 163 and 163½. The trading was very active.

London prices were irregular and, with the exception of Reading, lower. Reading showed an advance equivalent to 2⅞ points in our market and some uneasiness was manifested on this account. The stock is so closely held by a very powerful local pool that the price can be advanced to almost any level and the shorts have been given a severe whipping in this issue in the past few days.

Reading.

All sorts of extravagant talk is heard on Reading. The prediction now is 175 and even 200. And the cleverness with which the present campaign has been engineered makes such talk appear all the more reasonable, especially when the floating supply of the stock is so small as to make it an easy task for a strong pool to put the price to almost any figure it wishes, provided the general market continues to act in such a manner as to make the operation feasible. Reading could hardly be expected to advance in the face of reactionary tendencies elsewhere, as the spectacle is seldom witnessed of one stock rapidly advancing, while other favorite issues are moving as rapidly in the other direction. There appears to be two distinct and separate pools operating in Reading; the original, that engineered by Wassermann Bros., whose followers are credited with making enormous amounts, and another headed by Dick Bros., which has lately become aggressive. Big shorts have been terribly squeezed in this security and have switched their accounts to other issues and are consequently working overtime to devise means of causing a severe break.

Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania continues to "bull" hard, notwithstanding that all the stocks under its control were strong features yesterday. Chesapeake & Ohio exhibited unusual strength and activity, touching 62, surpassing its high record of 1905, namely 60¼. Norfolk & Western and Baltimore & Ohio were also in good demand, but sold off rapidly. While the movement in the stocks named was in progress Pennsylvania fluctuated within a range of ⅞ of a point, rounding out the day with a gain of this much. The stock is out of line with the rest of the market. It is a favorite with traders, and any appearance of strength would enlist a considerable following. Today's break, however, also involved this issue.

The response of Southern Pacific to the general declining movement was highly gratifying to those who have become disgusted at the failure of the stock to respond to the strength of the parent company, Union Pacific, and who bought the stock largely on the expectation of an early dividend announcement. It was reported yesterday that "inside" interests have been steadily adding to their holdings, a large line having been purchased some 5 points below the present level. An encouraging feature was the absence of extensive offerings on the decline which has heretofore checked all attempts to bull Southern Pacific. Buyers were Sheffield & McCullough, Harrison & Smith, Levy & Co. and Halsey & Hudnut.

OPPOSES BROTHER'S SUIT.

Common-Law Wife Testifies for United Railways.

Mrs. Mollie Schelley, who says she was the common-law wife of John F. Schelley, is the principal witness for the United Railways in a suit for damages for the death of Schelley, which is being tried in Judge Ryan's division of the Circuit Court.

Mrs. Schelley testified Tuesday that she was the common-law wife of the deceased and was living with him as his wife at the time of his death.

The suit was brought by Public Administrator Troll, on behalf of Linden Schelley, a brother, of Indianapolis, who claims the estate and any damages that may accrue. It is for $10,000.

John Schelley was killed Sept. 18, 1905, on Easton avenue, near Vandeventer avenue. Mrs. Schelley testified that she was living at that time with Schelley at 3969 Easton avenue. She said she first met him in East St. Louis April 19, 1904, when she was Mrs. Mollie Winchester, a widow. He told her he wanted to settle down. They agreed to live together. There was no ceremony.

She said she presented a claim to the United Railways Co. as the widow of Schelley after his death.

TOOK BACK HIS SALOON.

Man Who Used Revolver to Recover It Arrested.

Alexander Greebus is under arrest in East St. Louis charged by Frank Tobac with stealing $50 and $300 worth of liquor in the saloon at 601 Ohio avenue. Greebus sold the saloon to Tobac a few weeks ago, receiving part cash and agreeing to wait for the balance until the license was transferred. Monday Greebus went around to collect the rest of the purchase price and Tobac says he agreed to pay it when the license was fixed up.

Then, Tobac says, Greebus drew a revolver and chased him out of the saloon, taking possession himself and continuing the business. After Greebus had been arrested on a warrant issued by Justice Brady, Tobac got possession of the saloon and resumed business.

Greebus will have a hearing at 2 p. m., Wednesday. He says that he merely took possession of the property when he was not paid according to agreement.

"TWENTY-THREE" FOR WHEAT BULLS

Selling Starts at the Opening and Continues Until the Closing.

OTHER GRAINS EASY

Weakness in Wheat Is Reflected in Both Corn and Oats.

It was "twenty-three" for the wheat bulls today and after they had all sold out prices were over one cent lower. The decline started with the opening, gained headway as the market progressed and the last prices were at the low point.

News generally was bearish or indifferent and the selling more by tired holders than by new traders. The visible increase of 1,941,000 bu was the most depressing influence and largely aided the decline.

The wire service to outside points was still badly crippled and news on this account limited. But side markets, however, were all lower in general selling.

Receipts in the Northwest were small, Duluth and Minneapolis reporting 374 cars, against 633 cars last week, 3[illegible]3 cars last year and 175 cars two years ago. The severe weather has materially interfered with the incoming movement.

Foreign markets were quiet and Liverpool cables reported wheat unchanged. Corn prices were ⅛d higher. Other foreign centers were steady.

The general weakness in wheat was responsible for an easier feeling in corn prices, although the weather was unfavorable to the movement. Oats were easy in sympathy.

Primary movement: Receipts—Wheat, 563,404 bu, against 431,449 bu last year; corn, 579,574 bu, against 642,085 bu last year; oats, 620,204 bu, against 395,863 bu last year. Shipments—Wheat, 274,771 bu, against 293,000 bu last year; corn, 556,958 bu, against 337,000 bu last year; oats, 680,683 bu, against 440,000 bu last year.

St. Louis receipts and shipments: Wheat—Receipts, 200 sacks and 48,450 bu local; shipments, 82,930 bu. Corn—Receipts, 51,000 bu local and 39,000 bu through; shipments, 1920 sacks and 100,500 bu.

Henry Launderman, school teacher at Dittering, Nameoki Township, Ill., charged in a warrant with improper conduct toward girl pupils, was arrested in Alton Tuesday and taken to Granite City.

The warrant was sworn out by George Weiger, father of one of the girls. He was released on a bond of $500 and his trial is set for Saturday at 10 a. m. before Justice Kinder at Granite City.

Parents of several other children have asked that warrants be issued, but Justice Kinder has decided to withhold these until he has been tried on the charges preferred by Mr. Weiger.

SIX NEW PLAYS IN ONE NIGHT

Washington, New York and Baltimore Witness First Performances.

BRILLIANT AUDIENCES

Gus Thomas and Ella Wheeler Wilcox Among Playwrights Represented.

Special news telegrams to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday announce six notable productions of new plays Monday evening—two taking place in Washington, three in New York and one in Baltimore.

The revised version of Augustus Thomas' "The Embassy Ball," with Lawrence D'Orsay in the leading role of the military attache of the British Embassy in Washington, was presented at the National Theater in Washington, and is said to have scored a hit with its humorous situations and bright lines. Official, political and diplomatic circles were represented in the audience by members of the British Embassy, the attaches of the Japanese Embassy, Lieutenant-General Chaffee, chief of staff of the United States Army, and Senators Foraker, Scott and Elkins.

The Shuberts' new comic opera, "Mexicana," received its first production at the Belasco Theater in Washington, with Thomas Q. Seabrooke, Christie MacDonald, Joseph Herbert and Blanche Deyo in the cast, and was enthusiastically received. A brilliant audience was assembled in honor of the author, Miss Clara Driscoll of Texas, custodian of the Alamo at San Antonio, who is quite prominent in Washington society. Senators Joseph W. Bailey and Charles A. Culberson, and Representatives Burleson, Slayden and Garner of Texas were present; also the Russian and Brazilian Ambassadors and the Ministers and their suites from China, Siam, Cuba, San Domingo and Costa Rica.

In New York the first production of Richard Harding Davis' comedy, "The Galloper," with Raymond Hitchcock as the star, was given at the Garden Theater. Hitchcock was supported by Manette Comstock. The play is said to be excruciatingly funny, giving its star much opportunity for comic opera antics.

Channing Pollock's dainty play, "The Little Gray Lady," was presented at the Garrick Theater, with Miss Julia Dean in the title role, supported by John Albaugh Jr., and with Dorothy Donnelly, Eva Vincent and William Humphrey in prominent parts. The characters in the story are drawn from men and women who work in the Treasury Department and live in cheap Washington boarding houses, and the story is one of love, theft and intrigue, with occasional touches of strong heart interest. At the close of the third act the author was called for, but Mr. Pollock modestly occupied a balcony seat and refused to respond.

Alfred Sutro's little comedy, "The Fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt," was given its first American performance at Daly's Theater, Miss Ellie Jeffreys, the English star, beginning her second New York engagement in its leading feminine role. The best work is said to have been done by Mr. Frank Worthing as Mr. Vanderveldt.

The first production of "Miznah," the first drama from the pen of Mrs Ella Wheeler Wilcox, was given at Ford's Theater in Baltimore, a tremendous audience being present. Its theme is the scriptural romance of Esther, who won the love of Ahasueras, the Persian King, and, as Queen, rescued the Jewish people from the cruel Haman. The play was gorgeously staged. Adele Block, Olive Oliver, James P. Gilmore and William Harcourt were the chief actors.

Shield School Graduation.

Twenty-eight members of the January class of 1906, Shield School, will receive their diplomas and hold their closing exercises Friday afternoon, Jan. 26, at 1 p. m. A program of 17 numbers will be given in the kindergarten of the school building. The class includes 12 young girls and 16 boys. Dr. Jos. H. Foy will preside.

The Shields School Literary Society met Friday afternoon with large attendance of members and visitors. An interesting program was rendered, followed by a debate upon the question, "Should the Ballot Be Denied to the Southern Negroes?" The speakers for the affirmative were Barney Schucart and Ben Goldstein, for the negative Michael Ettlinger and Ben Finkel. The judges were Messrs. Louis Portner, Bierman and Hyman Ettlinger, all of the Yeatman High School Literary Society, who decided for the affirmative.

VELVET GOWN MISS ALICE'S FAVORITE

White Chiffon, Richly Embroidered in Violet, Most Beautiful Creation of Her Wedding Trousseau—Other Dresses Include Silks of All Shades in Exclusive Patterns.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—By far the handsomest of all Miss Roosevelt's wedding dresses is a white chiffon velvet. The velvet is richly embroidered in a violet figure, and against its soft background of white the flower and faintly-shaded green leaves stand out almost like a painting.

It is a gorgeous creation, and is said to be the favorite of all Miss Roosevelt's wedding gowns. The velvet has the effect of having been mirrored, except where the flowers have been embroidered. Although it has not been confirmed, it is understood that the material for this gown was brought from the Orient. It is a material difficult to find in this country, and one which will make up into a gown at once unusual and striking.

The Baltimore modistes, who are supplying Miss Roosevelt's dresses, have furnished her with some of the most stunning toilettes a bride ever knew. There are silks of all shades and patterns, heavy silks and light silks, all fashioned in the most exclusive styles.

Conspicuous among the lot is another addition to Miss Alice's collection of "Alice blue" gowns. This particular dress is of taffeta and is of the most delicate of this modish shade. It is being made into a dinner dress and is to be trimmed in exquisite laces.

Selects Stylish Eton.

Miss Roosevelt's liking for the stylish Eton suits is shown in her selection of a fine check of red and white, which shades into an alluring gray. This will be made with elbow sleeves and will be mixed generously with black and white as a pretty contrast to the pattern. The silk is more of a China quality, but it makes up into a soft and shimmering gown. The background is of red, with a small white check, and the effect of the whole is one of those shades which Miss Roosevelt affects so successfully.

Another striking gown is of heavier material. The silk is like the blue, more of a taffeta, but has an unusual and attractive figure. The background is of white and is profusely decorated with violet clover leaves. The leaves are of two shades, a very light lavender and a darker violet. Through the petals there are dashes of a still darker purple, and between the leaves are small purple dots. Through this unique pattern there is a strip of canary satin about an inch wide. This is being made into an evening gown and the effect of the pattern is striking.

Another evening dress is a pineapple silk of stiff taffeta. The shade is the most delicate pink and is being fashioned in rather a severe style. Its only accessories will be a profusion of spangled net to embellish the entire gown. The net is of ordinary texture, with a white ground ornamented with tiny gilt thread butterflies. The effect of the pink silk and spangles is particularly rich and brilliant.

GETS HANDSOME SET OF FURS FROM NEW YORK.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—While Miss Roosevelt has elected to patronize Washington modistes and shops for her trousseau, the handsome sable skins which she brought from China have been made up by a New York firm. They were sent to Miss Roosevelt yesterday.

These furs, which will substitute the handsome set of silver fox which Miss Roosevelt has been wearing this winter, will be worn for the first time with Miss Roosevelt's gown of tan broadcloth. The furs represent the finest of Chinese sable. They are not as dark as the Russian sable, and have a reddish tinge, just the sort of shade admired and worn so much by Miss Roosevelt. The muff is extremely large and the stole is of the medium size, reaching to the knees.

The furs were bought by Miss Roosevelt in Pekin during her visit there last summer.

QUIET, EFFECTIVE WORK.

Right Food Builds Up and Strengthens While You Wait.

"The improvement in my condition came very soon after I had begun to use Grape-Nuts food, and so easily and naturally that I was a well woman almost before I knew it," writes a Nebraska woman.

"For years I had suffered from chronic constipation, with its accompanying headaches, langour and extreme nervousness. This condition had gone on so long without permanent relief from anything I could take that I had become fairly resigned to it, as something to be endured with patient fortitude.

"Five years ago Grape-Nuts became a very popular dish with all sorts and conditions of people in our village, and I bought a package just to see what it was like, with no thought of any special benefit that I might derive from its use. I liked the crisp, nutty flavor of the new food from the beginning and kept on using it.

"If I had been told in advance of the salutary effect that eating Grape-Nuts would have on me I would doubtless have been incredulous, and it was a most pleasing surprise to suddenly realize that my constipation was gone and with it my headaches, while my nerves had grown steady and normal and my strength was nearly doubled—that I was actually in the enjoyment of the natural health that had been denied me for at least ten years.

"This is what Grape-Nuts food did for me, and this is the condition in which it has kept me for the past five years. I am still fond of it, and would eat it even if it had not proved so signally beneficial.

"When my baby was recovering from a severe attack of cholera-infantum, I found that Grape-Nuts food was not only a much relished but most strengthening and wholesome food for her, and it continues an indispensable item in her daily menu." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

SKIN ECZEMA IN WORST FORM

Black Splotches All Over Face—Produced Severe Itching—Year's Treatment by Physicians Did No Good and Became Despondent—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Alabama Lady's

CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good.

"Finally I became despondent and decided to discontinue their services. Shortly afterwards, my husband in reading a copy of a weekly New York paper saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies. He purchased the entire outfit, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Resolvent in connection with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. I have not felt a symptom of the eczema since, which was three years ago.

"The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well; and I have been the means of others being cured of the same disease by the Cuticura Remedies, and I don't hesitate in saying that the Resolvent is the best blood medicine that the world has ever known."
